Gender Issue Intergrate Pest Man:

Community Integrated Pest Management in Indonesia Mansour Fakih, 2003      Globalizing Integrated Pest Management George W. Norton, E. A. Heinrichs, Gregory C. Luther, Michael E. Irwin, 2008-02-28 As food demand has grown worldwide agricultural production has intensified with a concomitant expansion in pesticide use Concerns over pesticide induced health and environmental problems increased pest resistance to pesticides and continued losses due to pests have stimulated the search for alternative pest management solutions As a result integrated pest management IPM approaches have been developed and applied that rely on genetic cultural biological and information intensive pest management alternatives This book presents and critiques the participatory approaches that can be used to globalize IPM It describes the development deployment and evaluation of participatory IPM All the chapters include perspectives from both the US and developing country scientists who are on the front lines of IPM generation and diffusion The book is unique amongst IPM books in that it stresses policy analysis social and economic impact assessment multidisciplinary field research and technology transfer mechanisms      Integrated Pest Management in the Global Arena Karim M. Maredia, D. Dakouo, D. Mota-Sanchez, 2003-01-01 This book presents experiences and successful case studies of integrated pest management IPM from developed and developing countries and from major international centres and programmes It contains 39 chapters by many contributors addressing themes such as emerging issues in IPM including biotechnology pesticide policies and socioeconomic considerations 8 chapters country experiences from Africa Asia North and South America Europe Australia and New Zealand 20 chapters and regional and international experiences including those of FAO USAID ICIPE CIRAD the World Bank and CGIAR Systemwide IPM Program 9 chapters This book will be of significant interest to those working in the areas of crop protection entomology and pest management      Integrated Pest Management of Tropical Vegetable Crops Rangaswamy Muniappan, E. A. Heinrichs, 2016-11-23 It is an edited book with chapters written by multi disciplinary specialists in their specific subject areas It covers development of IPM components and packaging them for individual vegetable crops specifically targeted to tropical countries Scientific background for IPM components or tactics will be included There will be case studies of IPM packages developed and implemented in different countries The concept of IPM has been in existence for the past six decades however a practical holistic program has not been developed and implemented for vegetable crops in the developing countries Currently the IPM adoption rate in the tropics is minimal and there is a need for implementation of IPM technologies that are environmentally safe economical and socially acceptable We believe that adoption and implementation of IPM provided in this book will lead to significant reduction in crop losses and mitigate adverse impacts of pesticide use in the tropics This book is an outcome 20 years of research development and implementation of the IPM CRSP a project supported by USAID and administered by Virginia Tech in several developing countries along the tropical belt in Africa Asia Latin America and the Caribbean      Uncovering the pathways to gender equality and women's ## empowerment through agricultural research for development: Lessons from the Feed the Future innovation labs

Eissler, Sarah, Bryan, Elizabeth, Magalhaes, Marilia, 2025-08-11 Gender equality and women's empowerment are important development goals for their intrinsic value as well as for achieving other important wellbeing outcomes such as improved health nutrition and food security Agricultural research for development plays an important role in understanding gender relations dynamics and inequalities and in identifying effective strategies and interventions to achieve these goals The Feed the Future Innovation Labs ILs were initiatives supported by the United States Agency for International Development USAID and led by U S universities in partnership with international and national research institutes with the aim to achieve poverty reduction food security nutrition and resilience objectives The ILs also aimed to facilitate women's empowerment and address gender inequality in agri food systems AFS This study aims to document categorize and identify learnings from gender related research produced by the ILs through an extensive desk review and key informant interviews KIIs with gender focal points researchers and directors at the ILs While recognizing the importance of capacity building for gender related research we only look at research products and do not review capacity building or other training materials for gender related research produced by the ILs As this study is focused on understanding gender related learnings we also do not include gender blind research products produced by the ILs Based on the final set of research outputs that have at least some focus on gender we then analyze the gender related research findings using the reach benefit empower and transform framework In addition we also explore the factors that enabled ILs to prioritize and produce gender related research and learnings We draw lessons about the types of research studies that have been carried out under the ILs and the insights that can be gleaned from these studies for designing agricultural innovations and interventions and understanding what works to address gender inequalities in agrifood systems Much of this work was gender focused and diagnostic or formative Fewer research studies employed causal methods to understand how interventions are influencing gender equality and women's empowerment in agriculture Only a subset of research focused on specific innovations or interventions which suggests more research is needed in this area particularly as new innovations are being tested and scaled as was the objective of many of the ILs We highlight areas where additional research is needed to inform investments and interventions going forward such as an increase in integrating gender informed approaches in research across disciplines gender related research that employs causal methods and in understanding the impacts of interventions that are gender transformative Finally we identify key enabling factors that helped ILs prioritize gender integration such as institutional leadership's support for gender integration sufficient time and budgets earmarked for gender work and staff and ensuring staff responsible for gender related research have requisite skills expertise and communication skills to work across interdisciplinary teams Current and future agricultural research for development projects should prioritize gender related research across their portfolios to strengthen attention to understanding how innovations and interventions can influence gender equality and women's
