Flynn, Kathryn Haynes, Maureen A. Kilgour, 2017-09-08 Many businesses and organizations are increasingly aware of the case for promoting gender equality both within and outside their organizational boundaries Evidence suggests that gender equality in the workplace boosts performance and legal frameworks in many countries mandate specific action on gender inequality in the workplace However despite organizational policies on promoting equality and equal opportunities there remain challenges to be overcome in many businesses including throughout their supply chains The book provides research rationales as to why responsible organizations must address the issue of gender equality in the workplace It also presents case studies action research and examples of good practices describing how businesses and organizations are working to promote gender equality in various contexts The book is designed to support the rationale for gender equality in business and organizations providing evidence of implementation of gender equality in the workplace and advice on how to deal with and overcome challenges It will be of interest to academics employees practitioners policy makers businesses institutions and organizations

Integrating Gender into Transport Planning Christina Lindkvist Scholten, Tanja Joelsson, 2019-02-06 This edited collection brings together feminist research on transport and planning from different epistemologies with the intention to contribute to a more holistic transport planning practice With a feminist perspective on transport policy and planning the volume insists on the political character of transport planning and policy and challenges gender blindness in a policy area that impacts the everyday lives of women men girls and boys The chapters discuss everyday mobility as an embodied and situated activity in both conceptual and theoretical ways and suggest practical tools for change The contributions of this collection are threefold integrating gender research and transport planning combining quantitative and qualitative gender research perspectives and methods and highlighting the need to acknowledge the politicization of transport planning and transport practice

Transport Systems, Policy and Planning Rodney Tolley, Brian John Turton, 2014-07-15 Provides a unique review of the major spatial aspects of transport systems a detailed analysis of transport problems in urban and rural areas an evaluation of social and environmental impacts and a planning and policy overview Divided into four parts each considering a different aspect of transport geography The first part outlines the basic geography of transport and examines transport and spatial structures focusing upon the varying contributions made by transport to industrial agricultural and urban development Part two moves to consider specific transport systems at both national and international scales drawing on studies from industrialised and developing nations and discussing the effects upon transport of the political changes in the former USSR and Eastern Europe The third part examines some of the many problems of transport and urban and rural areas using specific examples to illustrate the contrasting difficulties and evaluate current urban transportation planning methods

Climate Change and Gender in Rich Countries Marjorie Griffin Cohen, 2017-06-26 Climate Change Gender and Work in Rich Countries is unique in that it covers a wide range of issues dealing with work and climate change in wealthy industrialized countries. It shows how the gendered distinctions in both experiences of climate change and the ways that public policy deals with issues has been absent in policy discussions and why their inclusion matters. Transport Disadvantage and Social Exclusion Julian Hine, Fiona Mitchell, 2017-03-02 There is currently much interest in the role that transport plays in promoting or alleviating social exclusion. Exclusionary processes are of course multi-dimensional and a mixture of physical barriers, financial constraints, time budgets, access difficulties, and psychological aspects such as fear all combine in various ways to prevent the use of transport facilities. In order to be able to understand more accurately the relationship between transport and social exclusion, a fuller understanding is required. Data gathered from households to examine the problems experienced by women, the elderly, and disabled, and public transport users in accessing key facilities and influences on lifestyle. Interviews of policymakers and public transport providers provides insights into the problems of providing public transport to meet social inclusion objectives. This book illustrates the nature of these exclusionary processes and indicates how policy and practice could be developed to counter these effects. Women's Issues in Transportation, 2010 Women's Issues in Transportation Summary of the 4th International Conference Volume 2 Technical Papers includes 27 full peer-reviewed papers that were presented at the October 2009 conference. The conference highlighted the latest research on changing demographics that affect transportation planning, programming, and policy making, as well as the latest research on crash and injury prevention for different segments of the female population. Special attention was given to pregnant and elderly transportation users, efforts to better address and increase women's personal security when using various modes of transportation, and the impacts of extreme events such as hurricanes and earthquakes on women's mobility and that of those for whom they are responsible. TRB's Conference Proceedings 46 Women's Issues in Transportation Volume 1 Conference Overview and Plenary Papers includes an overview of the October 2009 conference and six commissioned resource papers, including the two keynote presentations. Introduction to Gender Jennifer Marchbank, Gayle Letherby, 2014-06-30 Thoroughly updated in this second edition, Introduction to Gender offers an interdisciplinary approach to the main themes and debates in gender studies. This comprehensive and contemporary text explores the idea of gender from the perspectives of history, sociology, social policy, anthropology, psychology, politics, pedagogy, and geography, and considers issues such as health and illness, work, family, crime, and violence, and culture and media. Transport System Fiona Rajé,2017-03-02 By combining focus groups and interviews with innovative research techniques such as web based discussions and Q methodology this book provides insights into the daily experiences of those using the British transport system Despite an entitlement to a basic level of mobility travel decision making can be more complex for members of marginalised groups this book therefore examines the complexities of travel amongst different social groups The complex nature of travel for different social groups is the starting point for this book s investigation of the experiences of the extremely socially marginalized compared to those who are fully included By comparing the impacts of transport on individuals at different points on a scale of social inclusion exclusion the book reveals the nuanced and textured ways in which transport is embedded in people s lives and lifestyles By analysing people s lived experience of transport rather than focussing on economic or engineering factors the book provides useful new insights into future transport needs It makes a compelling case that transport related social exclusion has been neglected by local and regional policy makers and puts forward suggestions for best case practice for the future Transport, Demand Management and Social Inclusion Fiona

Rajé,2017-05-15 Social inclusion exclusion has only recently emerged in transport related discourse Despite the apparent absence of a transport policy framework for social inclusion exclusion there has been some movement towards a greater understanding of the social aspects of transport in the research sphere This book brings together some of this research focusing on ethnicity an area that has so far had little discussion in the traditional transport literature thereby contributing to the exploration of the interface between transport and social exclusion In particular it examines the contribution that demand management measures can make to the reduction of the negative impacts of road based transport It questions whether methods such as road user charging and work place parking can be used as instruments for social inclusion and analyses the potential negative impacts of these schemes if sufficient attention is not paid to ethnicity issues Transport Planning
