Genes Trade And Regulation The Seeds Of Conflict In Food Biotechnology:

Genes, Trade, and Regulation Thomas Bernauer, 2003 This book provides novel and thought provoking insights into the fundamental policy issues involved in agricultural biotechnology Thomas Bernauer explains global regulatory polarization and trade conflict in this area He then evaluates cooperative and unilateral policy tools for coping with trade tensions Arguing that the tools used thus far have been and will continue to be ineffective he concludes that the risk of a full blown trade conflict is high and may lead to reduced investment and the decline of the technology Bernauer concludes with suggestions for policy reforms to halt this trajectory recommendations that strike a balance between public safety concerns and private economic freedom so that food biotechnology is given a fair chance to prove its environmental health humanitarian and economic benefits

Genes, Trade, and Regulation Thomas Bernauer, 2016-06-28 Agricultural or green biotechnology is a source of growing tensions in the global trading system particularly between the United States and the European Union Genetically modified food faces an uncertain future The technology behind it might revolutionize food production around the world Or it might follow the example of nuclear energy which declined from a symbol of socioeconomic progress to become one of the most unpopular and uneconomical innovations in history This book provides novel and thought provoking insights into the fundamental policy issues involved in agricultural biotechnology Thomas Bernauer explains global regulatory polarization and trade conflict in this area He then evaluates cooperative and unilateral policy tools for coping with trade tensions Arguing that the tools used thus far have been and will continue to be ineffective he concludes that the risk of a full blown trade conflict is high and may lead to reduced investment and the decline of the technology Bernauer concludes with suggestions for policy reforms to halt this trajectory recommendations that strike a sensible balance between public safety concerns and private economic freedom so that food biotechnology is given a fair chance to prove its environmental health humanitarian and economic benefits This book will equip companies farmers regulators NGOs academics students and the interested public including both advocates and critics of green biotechnology with a deeper understanding of the political economic and societal factors shaping the future of one of the most revolutionary technologies of our times

The State of the European Union, 6 Tanja A. Börzel, Rachel A. Cichowski, 2005-08-04 Law Politics and Society is the sixth and latest addition to the European Union Studies Association series State of the European Union The contributors of this volume take the dynamic interaction between law politics and society as a starting point to think critically about recent developments and future innovations in European integration and EU studies The book provides an overview of key events between 2000 and 2002 in the European Union while illuminating how these institutional formal legal developments impact ordinary individuals and EU politics For example the European Convention with the possibility of an EU constitution is viewed not only as a new institutional development but we examine what impact the creation of judicially enforceable rights has for Europeans and European integration How does the opportunity for new rights claims alter the balance of power between individuals and EU organizations such as the European Court of Justice vis vis national governments in EU policy expansion. Importantly the volume also seeks to provide a unique and interdisciplinary approach to studying the European Union by bringing together both legal scholars and political scientists. Chapter contributors offer readers both sophisticated theoretical and empirical accounts of these new developments. Issues such as enlargement, immigration reform and monetary union require not only a precise understanding of an increasingly complex set of formal legal rules the domain of legal scholars but equally important are the effects on ordinary citizens and political participation the very power struggles that concern political scientists. This volume seeks to integrate these two approaches not only by including the scholarship in a single volume but by asking individual contributors to think outside their respective disciplines. The division between the legal and political as many would argue is often both artificial and unproductive. Our volume seeks to bridge this divide.

The State of the European Union Vol. 7 Nicolas Jabko, Craig Parsons, 2005-08-04. Twenty first century Europeans are suddenly confronting new choices about their place in the world. The most immediate challenges reflect tensions in the transatlantic partnership long the keystone of European worldviews. In the Iraqi conflict President Bush posed a blunt general question to the world: Are you with us or against us and much of Europe chose the latter. More than at any time since 1945 Europeans are uncertain about the future of transatlantic cooperation. Internal European developments combine with this external shift to create the impression of a continental turning point. The fifty year project of the European Union is entering a new phase. The Single Market program and monetary union realized the most ambitious visions of the EU's founding fathers. Most thinking about further integration is exceedingly vague. Simultaneous EU enlargement to the east and beyond to Turkey may create opportunities to reopen the Union's basic bargains. This book proposes to help students and scholars understand the many trends of change that have brought Europe to these crossroads. Its approach is novel in two ways. First, most similar scholarship either seeks a single grand theory of European change or implies that European politics is too complex to map change broadly. This book takes a middle ground position, positing several distinct mechanisms of change and tracing them across policies and institutional settings. Second, it uses the United States as a reference point to chart European change. The aim is not comparative; the focus remains on Europe but the volume maps out EU trends against American policy positions and institutional patterns, thus providing a useful comparative anchor for complex patterns. This is the seventh volume in the biennial series State of the European Union launched in 1991 and produced under the auspices of the European Union Studies Association (EUSA).

Risk Regulation in the Single Market Sebastian Krapohl, 2008-10-31. This book demonstrates how the Thalidomide catastrophe of the 1960s and the BSE crisis of the 1990s led to regulatory regimes for pharmaceuticals and foodstuffs in Europe. However, the developmental paths of these regimes differ and so does the efficiency and legitimacy of regulatory policy making.

GM Food on Trial Les Levidow, Susan Carr, 2009-12-04. This book examines European institutions being put on trial for how their regulatory procedures evaluate and regulate genetically modified products Levidow highlights how public controversy created a legitimacy crisis leading to national policy changes and demands in turn stimulating changes in EU agbiotech regulations as a strategy to regain legitimacy

The Politics of Genetically Modified Organisms in the United States and Europe Kelly A. Clancy, 2016-11-02 This book examines the puzzle of why genetically modified organisms continue to be controversial despite scientific evidence declaring them safe for humans and the environment What explains the sustained levels of resistance Clancy analyzes the trans Atlantic controversy by comparing opposition to GMOs in the United Kingdom Germany Poland Spain and the United States examining the way in which science is politicized on both sides of the debate Ultimately the author argues that the lack of labeling GMO products in the United States allows opponents to create far fetched images of GMOs that work their ways in to the minds of the public The way forward out of this seemingly intractable debate is to allow GMOs once tested to enter the market without penalty and then to label them

Regulating Agricultural Biotechnology Richard E. Just, Julian M. Alston, David Zilberman, 2006-12-26 This book presents the first thorough economic analysis of current agricultural biotechnology regulation The contributors most of whom are agricultural economists working either in universities or NGOs address issues such as commercial pesticides the costs of approving new products liability benefits consumer acceptance regulation and its impacts transgenic crops social welfare implications and biosafety

Hard Power, Soft Power and the Future of Transatlantic Relations Thomas L. Ilgen, 2016-04-22 The dynamics of transatlantic relations in the twenty first century have been shaped by an American preference for the exercise of its considerable hard power capabilities while Europeans have preferred to draw upon the considerable soft power resources that have grown from their enviable internal processes of integration These diverging power preferences have differential impacts on the management of Atlantic security economic and social and cultural relations The contributors long time observers and analysts of the Atlantic partnership debate how problematic security relations are likely to continue to be discuss how successfully economic affairs will be managed and examine the continuing frictions in domestic politics of social and cultural matters that should be manageable if both European and American leaders work actively and responsibly to encourage policy convergence

Cultural Politics and the Transatlantic Divide over

GMOs H. Stephan, 2014-12-15 Alongside other factors cultural values and identities help to explain different regulatory frameworks for genetically modified organisms This book uses insights from environmental history and sociology to illuminate the cultural politics of regulation in the US and the EU with particular attention to public opinion and anti GMO activism

Rural Development in India Ed. K.R. Gupta & Prasenjit Maiti, 2008-04

within Africa and success stories from developing nations around the world The New Harvest outlines the policies and institutional changes necessary to promote agricultural innovation across the African continent Incorporating research from academia government civil society and private industry the book suggests multiple ways that individual African countries can work together at the regional level to develop local knowledge and resources harness technological innovation encourage entrepreneurship increase agricultural output create markets and improve infrastructure EU Policy-Making on GMOs Mihalis Kritikos, 2017-11-02 This book examines the development and implementation of the EU's legislative framework on the commercial release of GMO products as a case study of social regulation operating within a predominantly technical framework The analysis and findings are based on an extensive documentary analysis and interviews with regulators risk assessors public interest groups and biotechnology experts at the national and European levels It argues that in the case of the EU biotechnology framework the particular institutional settings created for the formulation and interpretation of its provisions have been of decisive importance in elaborating a proceduralised science based prior authorization scheme as the preferred framework for granting commercial permits This interdisciplinary work will appeal to EU lawyers decision makers and risk managers as well as academics working in the fields of EU studies politics law risk governance sociology of science risk and technology assessment The book is based on a PhD thesis that was awarded with the 2008 UACES Prize for the Best Thesis in European Studies in Europe and with the EPEES 1st Prize for the Best Thesis written by a Greek Researcher between 2004 and 2008 European Responses to Globalization Janet Laible, Henri J. Barkey, 2006-07-21 Explores the institutional economic and ideational factors that shaped the way in which Europe adapted to resisted and responded to the challenges of globalization This book reveals 3 main strategies adopted by European political actors in their response resistance adaptation and the production of alternatives to global norms and practices Environmental Protection, Law and Policy Jane Holder, Maria Lee, 2007-07-19 This 2007 book examines environmental law from a range of perspectives emphasising the policy world from which environmental law is drawn and nourished Those working within the discipline of environmental law need to engage with concepts and methods employed by disciplines other than law The authors analyse the ways in which legal activities are supported and legitimated by work in traditional scientific or technical domains as well as by certain more obscure but also influential cultural or philosophical assumptions A range of regulatory techniques is explored in this book through a close examination of both pollution control and land use The highly complex nature of current environmental problems demanding sophisticated and responsive legal controls is illustrated by several in depth case studies including legal and policy analysis of the highly contested issues of genetically modified organisms and renewable energy projects Climate Change and Food Security Dr. Shankar Sah, 2021-09-10 Climate Change and Food Security Climate change and agriculture are interrelated processes both of which take place on a global scale Global warming is projected to have significant impacts on conditions affecting agriculture including temperature carbon dioxide glacial run off precipitation and the interaction of these elements These conditions determine the carrying capacity of the biosphere to produce enough food for the human population and domesticated animals The overall effect of climate change on agriculture will depend on the balance of these effects Assessment of the effects of global climate changes on agriculture might help to properly anticipate and adapt farming to maximize agricultural production At the same time agriculture has been shown to produce significant effects on climate change primarily through the production and release of greenhouse gases such as carbon dioxide methane and nitrous oxide but also by altering the Earth's land cover which can change its ability to absorb or reflect heat and light thus contributing to radiative forcing Sustained and systematic attention is crucial if we are to avoid a humanitarian catastrophe A 2009 ICTSD IPC study by Jodie Keane suggests that climate change could cause farm output in sub Saharan Africa to decrease by 12 percent by 2080 although in some African countries this figure could be as much as 60 percent with agricultural exports declining by up to one fifth in others Adapting to climate change could cost the agriculture sector 14bn globally a year the study finds The book has a comprehensive account of climate change with possible projections on food security in the world Global scenarios of extreme climatic events and the corresponding probable climatic parameters in the years to come are discussed elaborately Contents Introduction Historical Perspective Responses to Global Warming Governmental and Intergovernmental Action Challenges to Achieving Food Security Climate Change and Agriculture Global Food Security under Climate Change Climate Change and World Food Supply The World Food Trade Model Fisheries and Climate Change The Climate Change Agriculture Conundrum Impact of Climate Change on Indian Agriculture Effects on the Regional Vegetation atmosphere Water Vapour Exchange
