Global Journalist News And Conscience In A World Of Conflict:

The Global Journalist Philip Seib, 2001-12-11 In many U S news organizations international coverage is accorded minimal importance The conventional wisdom seems to be that international reporting costs too much and does too little to win and keep an audience and thus only sensational or government highlighted incidents are reported But does this meet standards of professional responsibility Philip Seib says no This provocative book argues that not only do U S news media have the duty to cover international events that affect the interests of the public and the government but they also should shake awake the world s conscience by bringing more attention to international conflict and suffering in hopes of spurring humanitarian action or intervention to help those in need

The Global Journalist Philip M. Seib, 2002 This title argues that not only do US news media have a duty to cover international events that affect the interests of the public and the government they should also bring more attention to international conflict and suffering

Introduction Motivation As the Russia Georgia war of 2008 started I had just arrived in Germany At the time nobody ever really believed that military actions would ever take place between the two countries though there was a lot of talk about the possibility During the first days of the war while in Germany it was challenging to get information from the Georgian media Later I learned of the hacker attacks on Georgian websites and also that people in Georgia could not visit any Russian websites I was having trouble even contacting my family through land telephone lines It seemed that the information war between Russia and Georgia had gained strength Russia Today was describing Georgians as the worst villains and CNN was expressing its empathy towards Georgia It was a confusing atmosphere of an enormous amount of discrepancies After the war there were a lot of manipulations and speculations about the causes and the flow of the military conflict This triggered my reflection on whether media of directly involved parties under the combat circumstances can stay balanced and unbiased Both Russian and Georgian media seem to face significant challenges related to media independence because of the relatively short and fragile democratic development taking place in both countries It may be naive to expect an absence of bias from media organizations from either country instead it would be more plausible to look to media of third countries to play a neutral observer role Certainly every media and every country represents its own interests but nobody speaks about ideal configurations During my master study at the Deutsche Welle I attended a seminar on the peace journalism which motivated me to come back to my previous questions and try to find out whether the reporting on the Russia Georgia war was conflict sensitive or balanced in any way The conflict between Russia and Georgia is an ongoing conflict with varying phases of escalation and de escalation Visible and invisible consequences of the war are still unresolved such as insufficient care of the refugees inexact data of casualties and other issues

Journalism Education, Training and Employment Bob Franklin,Donica Mensing,2010-12-14 During this period of rapid and significant change in journalistic practices journalism educators are re examining their own profession and contributing to the invention of new models and practices This edited volume of studies by respected international scholars describes the diverse issues journalism educators are grappling with and the changes they are making in purpose and practice The book is organized into three sections education training and employment that explore common themes How the assumptions embedded in journalism education are being examined and revised in the light of transformative changes in communication How the definitions of journalism and journalists are broadening in scope and what this means for educators How newsrooms and training programs around the world are being re examined and made more effective An introductory essay and section summaries provide context for the thirteen chapters that constitute the collection The section on journalism education explores fundamental ways educators are seeking to make their institutions and practices stronger and more responsive The section on training includes case studies of journalism training programs in sub Saharan Africa Turkey Sweden and the U S The final section examines the job prospects and employment market for journalism students with data from the U S U K Australia and Sweden The scope of issues considered in the book makes it a valuable resource for journalism scholars from around the world as well as doctoral students journalism and communication administrators in universities organizations that fund journalism training programs and practitioners interested in understanding employment and education trends The Press Geneva Overholser, Kathleen Hall Jamieson, 2005 With the guidance of editors Geneva Overholser and Kathleen Hall Jamieson this superb collection of essays written by the nation's leading authorities on journalism illuminates the role of the press in a democracy investigating alternative models used throughout world history to better understand how the American press has evolved into what it is today The book also examines the history identity roles and future of the American press with an emphasis on topics of concern to both practitioners and consumers of American media

From Pigeons to News Portals David D. Perlmutter, John Maxwell Hamilton, 2007-11-01 Ever since the invention of the telegraph journalists have sought to remove the barriers of time and space Today we readily accept that reporters can jet quickly to a distant location and broadcast instantly from a satellite connected video enabled cell phone hanging from their belts But now that live news coverage is possible from virtually anywhere is foreign correspondence better And what are the implications of recent changes in journalistic technology for policy makers and their constituents In From Pigeons to News Portals edited by David D Perlmutter and John Maxwell Hamilton scholars and journalists survey probe and demystify the new foreign correspondence that has emerged from rapidly changing media technology These distinguished authors challenge long held beliefs about foreign news coverage not the least of which is whether in our interconnected world such a thing as foreign news even exists anymore Essays explore the ways people have used new media technology from satellites and cell phones to the Internet to affect content delivery modes and amount and style of coverage They examine the ways in which speedy reporting conflicts with in depth reporting the pros and cons of parachute journalism the declining dominance of mainstream media as a source of foreign news and the implications of this new foreign correspondence for foreign policy Entertainment media such as film television and video gaming form worldwide opinions about America often in negative ways Meanwhile live reporting abroad is both a blessing and curse for foreign policy makers Because foreign news is so vital to effective policy making and citizenship we imperil our future by failing to understand the changes technology brings and how we can wrest the best practice out of those changes This provocative volume offers valuable insights and analyses to help us better understand the evolving state of foreign news

Going Live Philip M. Seib, 2002 Live Breaking story Up to the minute coverage We hear these teasers every day But do they always guide us to real news With the explosive growth of online news and increased barrage of sensational live shots on TV getting a story first seems more important than getting it right In

Going Live veteran journalist Philip Seib warns of the dangers of trivialized news and sloppy ethics in this One news age. Whether you love or hate the news media, this is an indispensable look at where journalism is heading, and how we can sort out what's important and accurate in the news we get in an ever faster moving stream. Journalism Studies Martin Conboy, 2013. Studies of journalism: the beginnings. Education and training between a hack and a hard place. Journalism studies and research approaches. Debates on the processes of journalism. Products. Journalism across borders: imperial international global. Journalism studies engagements with technology and industrial change. Carnage and Connectivity David Betz, 2015-11-15. Charts the evolution of military power in the digital age from conventional warfare to cyberwar and examines its implications. Understanding Foreign Correspondence Peter Gross, Gerd G. Kopper, 2011. There are as many as 3,400 correspondents covering the United States; among them, approximately 600 print and broadcast correspondents from European countries. The importance of the foreign correspondents corps stationed in the United States and of their work has increased commensurate with the world preeminence gained by the U.S. after World War II. This book examines the state of research on European foreign correspondence from the United States and on the corps of journalists that produces it. Contributions from both European and American authors examine the varied conceptual issues regarding foreign correspondence: the methodologies that have been employed in studies carried out on both sides of the Atlantic and the theories that were and could be tested when studying the subject. The book serves as a prolegomena to future studies on foreign correspondence and correspondents. Television and Terror A. Hoskins, B. O'Loughlin, 2007-12-03. The advent of the twenty-first century was marked by a succession of conflicts and catastrophes that demanded unrestrained journalism. Hoskins and O'Loughlin demonstrate that television, tarnished by its economy of liveness and its impositions of immediacy and brevity, fails to deliver critical and consistent expositions of our conflicting times. The Handbook of Journalism Studies Karin Wahl-Jorgensen, Thomas Hanitzsch, 2009-01-13. This Handbook charts the growing area of journalism studies, exploring the current state of theory and setting an agenda for future research in an international context. The volume is structured around theoretical and empirical approaches and covers scholarship on news production and organizations, news content, journalism and society, and journalism in a global context. Emphasizing comparative and global perspectives, each chapter explores key elements, thinkers, and texts. Historical context. Current state of the art. Methodological issues. Merits and advantages of the approach. Area of studies. Limitations and critical issues of the approach. Area of studies. Directions for future research. Offering broad international coverage from top-tier contributors, this volume ranks among the first publications to serve as a comprehensive resource addressing theory and scholarship in journalism studies. As such, the Handbook of Journalism Studies is a must-have resource for scholars and graduate students working in journalism, media studies, and communication around the globe. The CNN Effect in Action B. Bahador, 2007-04-16. This project advances the existing theoretical work on the CNN effect, a claim that innovations in the speed and quality of technology create conditions in which the media acts as an independent factor with significant influence It provides a novel interpretation of the factors that drove Western policy towards military intervention in this area      The Al Jazeera Effect Philip M. Seib, 2008 The battle for hearts and minds in the Middle East is being fought not on the streets of Baghdad but on the newscasts and talk shows of Al Jazeera The future of China is being shaped not by Communist Party bureaucrats but by bloggers working quietly in cyber cafes The next attacks by al Qaeda will emerge not from Osama bin Laden's cave but from cells around the world connected by the Internet In these and many other instances traditional ways of reshaping global politics have been superseded by the influence of new media satellite television the Internet and other high tech tools What is involved is more than a refinement of established practices We are seeing a comprehensive reconnecting of the global village and a reshaping of how the world works Al Jazeera is a paradigm of new media's influence Ten years ago there was much talk about the CNN effect the theory that news coverage especially gripping visual storytelling was influencing foreign policy throughout the world Today the Al Jazeera effect takes that a significant step further The concept encompasses the use of new media as tools in every aspect of global affairs ranging from democratization to terrorism and including the concept of virtual states The media are no longer just the media They have a larger popular base than ever before and as a result have unprecedented impact on international politics The media can be tools of conflict and instruments of peace they can make traditional borders irrelevant and unify peoples scattered across the globe This phenomenon the Al Jazeera effect is reshaping the world      Media and Society into the 21st Century Lyn Gorman, David McLean, 2009-02-17 Media and Society into the 21st Century captures the breathtaking revolutionary sweep of mass media from the late 19th century to the present day Updated and expanded new edition including coverage of recent media developments and the continued impact of technological change Newly reworked chapters on media war international relations and new media A new Web 2.0 section explores the role of blogging social networking user generated content and search media in media landscape

Broadcast Journalism Jane Chapman, Marie Kinsey, 2008-10-28 Broadcast Journalism offers a critical analysis of the key skills required to work in the modern studio on location or online with chapters written by industry professionals from the BBC ITV CNN and independent production companies in the UK and USA Areas highlighted include interviewing researching editing writing reporting The practical tips are balanced with chapters on representation ethics law economics and history as well as specialist areas such as documentary and the reporting of politics business sport and celebrity Broadcast Journalism concludes with a vital chapter on career planning to act as a springboard for your future work in the broadcast industry Contributors Jim Beaman Jane Chapman Fiona Chesterton Tim Crook Anne Dawson Tony Harcup Jackie Harrison Ansgard Heinrich Emma Hemmingway Patricia Holland David Holmes Gary Hudson Nicholas Jones Marie Kinsey Roger Laughton Leslie Mitchell Jeremy Orlebar Claire Simmons Katie Stewart Ingrid Volkmer Mike Ward Deborah Wilson      Making Australian Foreign Policy on Israel-Palestine Eulalia Han, Halim Rane, 2013-02-01 Based on extensive research of Australian media coverage public opinion interest groups as well as in depth interviews with current and former diplomats and politicians this book provides a unique insight into the policy making process in regards to one of the world s most enduring and volatile dilemmas Making Australian Foreign Policy on Israel Palestine is a must read for anyone concerned about how social forces influence policy making and the impact this has on Australia s response to world affairs Islamic Studies Series Volume 13     The Routledge Companion to Media and Poverty Sandra L. Borden, 2021-07-19 Comprehensive and interdisciplinary this collection explores the complex and often problematic ways in which the news media shapes perceptions of poverty Editor Sandra L Borden and a diverse collection of scholars and journalists question exactly how the news media can reinforce or undermine poverty and privilege This book is divided into five parts that examine philosophical principles for reporting on poverty the history and nature of poverty coverage problematic representations of people experiencing poverty poverty coverage as part of reporting on public policy and positive possibilities for poverty coverage Each section provides an introduction to the topic as well as a broad selection of essays illuminating key issues and a Q A with a relevant journalist Topics covered include news coverage of corporate philanthropy structural bias in reporting representations of the working poor the moral demands of vulnerability and agency community empowerment and citizen media The book s broad focus considers media and poverty at both the local and global levels with contributors from 16 countries This is an ideal reference for students and scholars of media communication and journalism who are studying topics involving the media and social justice as well as journalists activists and policy makers working in these areas
