Extreme Pursuits Graham Huggan, 2010-05-18 Recent figures suggest that there will be 1.6 billion arrivals at

world airports by the year 2020 Extreme Pursuits looks at the new conditions of global travel and the unease even paranoia that underlies them at the opportunities they offer for alternative identities and their oscillation between remembered and anticipated states Graham Huggan offers a provocative account of what is happening to travel at a time characterized by extremes of social and political instability in which adrenaline filled travelers appear correspondingly determined to take risks It includes discussions of the links between tourism and terrorism of contemporary modes of disaster tourism and of the writing that derives from these but it also confirms the existence of more responsible forms of travel writing that demonstrate awareness of a chronically endangered world Extreme Pursuits is the first study of its kind to link travel writing explicitly with structural changes in the global tourist industry The book makes clear that travel writing can no longer take refuge in the classic distinctions traveler versus tourist foreigner versus native on which it previously depended Such distinctions which were dubious in the first place no longer make sense in an increasingly globalized world Huggan argues accordingly that the category travel writing must include experimental ethnography and prose fiction that it should concern itself with other kinds of travel practices such as those related to Holocaust deportation and migrant labor and that it should encompass representations of travelers and traveling cultures that appear in popular media especially TV and film Graham Huggan is Professor of Commonwealth and Postcolonial Literatures at the University of Leeds He is the coauthor with Patrick Holland of Tourists with Typewriters Critical Reflections on Contemporary Travel Writing University of Michigan Press and coauthor with Helen Tiffin of Postcolonial Ecocriticism Routledge Illustration Shadow Wall 2006 Shaun Tan

Rothenberg, 2000-01-01 In this companion volume to the national public television documentary of the same name interviews of philosophy luminaries expose the relevance of philosophy to everyday life Diasporic Identity Anton Allahar, 2002-03-01 This special issue begins with an analysis of the pros and cons of freedom of the human condition achieved by West Indians ability to have multiple identifications to play the field yet sustain a strong personal participatory national identity Next the ties that bind Africans together are discussed such as common blood lines common ethno cultural experience common collective memory and common African origins The third article explores the complex relationships among diasporic identity home and marginality in the context of Rastafari philosophy and practice followed by an article that views the formation of the uniquely Afro Jamaican identity of Col n Man through oppositional narratives in Michael Thelwell s The Harder They Come The issue concludes with a discussion of the geopolitics of identity through the popular literature censorship and the Spanish Media Climate Terror Sanjay Chaturvedi, 2016-01-12 Climate Terror engages with a highly differentiated geographical politics of global warming It explores how fear inducing climate change discourses could result in new forms of dependencies domination and militarised climate security

Distant Proximities James N. Rosenau, 2021-06-08 Has globalization the phenomenon outgrown globalization the concept In Distant Proximities one of America's senior scholars presents a work of sweeping vision that addresses the dizzying anxieties of the post Cold War post September 11 world Culminating the influential reassessment of international relations he began in 1990 with Turbulence in World Politics James Rosenau here undertakes the first systematic analysis of just how complex these profound global changes have become Among his many conceptual innovations he treats people in the street as well as activists and elites as central players in what we call globalization Deftly weaving striking insights into arresting prose Rosenau traces the links and interactions between people at the individual level and institutions such as states nongovernmental organizations and transnational corporations at the collective level In doing so he masterfully conveys how the emerging new reality has unfolded as events abroad increasingly pervade the routines of life at home and become in effect distant proximities Rosenau begins by distinguishing among various local global and private worlds in terms of their inhabitants orientations toward developments elsewhere He then proceeds to cogently analyze how the residents of these worlds shape and are shaped by the diverse collectivities that crowd the global stage and that sustain such issues as human rights corruption the global economy and global governance Throughout this richly imaginative fluidly written book Rosenau examines how anti globalization protests and the terrorist attacks on America amount to quintessential distant proximities His book is thus a pathbreaking inquiry into the dynamics that lie beyond globalization one that all thoughtful observers of the world scene will find penetrating and provocative

Do Metaphors Dream of Literal Sleep? Seo-Young Chu, 2011-01-15 In culture and scholarship science fictional worlds are perceived as unrealistic and altogether imaginary Seo Young Chu offers a bold challenge to this perception of the genre arguing instead that science fiction is a form of high intensity realism capable of representing non imaginary objects that elude more traditional realist modes of representation Powered by lyric forces that allow it to transcend the dichotomy between the literal and the figurative science fiction has the capacity to accommodate objects of representation that are themselves neither entirely figurative nor entirely literal in nature Chu explores the globalized world cyberspace war trauma the Korean concept of han and the rights of robots all as referents for which she locates science fictional representations in poems novels music films visual pieces and other works ranging within and without previous demarcations of the science fiction genre In showing the divide between realism and science fiction to be illusory Do Metaphors Dream of Literal Sleep sheds new light on the value of science fiction as an aesthetic and philosophical resource one that matters more and more as our everyday realities grow increasingly resistant to straightforward representation

Empire's New Clothes Paul Passavant, Jodi Dean, 2004-08-02 The publication of Empire last year created a sensation that spread from academia to the media to cocktail party buzz A book that causes such a scholarly commotion comes along only once every decade or so wrote the New York Times as the book's radical vision of imperial power in the new millennium sparked both histrionic condemnation and serious academic engagement After September 11 this discussion of Empire's political and legal theories was closely linked with the struggle to redefine America's place in a changed world The book was read as a diagnosis of our era and a call for liberatory action while Michael Hardt was acclaimed as the next Jacques Derrida Framing the debate about this landmark work The Empire's New Clothes brings together leading scholars to make sense of Empire's new vocabulary and tackle its claims head on Does the author's vision accurately describe the power structure of today's world Do the processes of globalization today represent a fundamental break from the past Is the book really a communist manifesto for the new age Empire's New Clothes investigates these and other key issues giving academics students and lay readers a handle on a work that touches the most vital themes of current political social and economic life

Habermas and Religion Craig Calhoun, Eduardo Mendieta, Jonathan VanAntwerpen, 2016-03-18 To the surprise of many readers Jürgen Habermas has recently made religion a major theme of his work Emphasizing both religion's prominence in the contemporary public sphere and its potential contributions to critical thought Habermas's engagement with religion has been controversial and exciting putting much of his own work in fresh perspective and engaging key themes in philosophy politics and social theory Habermas argues that the once widely accepted hypothesis of progressive secularization fails to account for the multiple trajectories of modernization in the contemporary world He calls attention to the contemporary significance of postmetaphysical thought and postsecular consciousness even in Western societies that have embraced a rationalistic understanding of public reason Habermas and Religion presents a series of original and sustained engagements with Habermas's writing on religion in the public sphere featuring new work and critical reflections from leading philosophers social and political theorists and anthropologists Contributors to the volume respond both to Habermas's ambitious and well developed philosophical project and to his most recent work on religion The book closes with an extended response from Habermas itself a major statement from one of today's most important thinkers

Practical Spirituality and Human Development Ananta Kumar Giri, 2018-09-28 This book explores varieties of spiritual movements and alternative experiments for generation of beauty dignity and dialogues in a world where the rise of the religious in politics and the public sphere is often accompanied by violence It examines how spirituality can contribute to human development social transformations and planetary realizations urging us to treat each other and our planet with evolutionary care and respect Trans disciplinary and trans paradigmatic to its very core this text opens new pathways of practical spirituality and humanistic action for both scholarship and discourse and offers an invaluable companion for scholars across religious studies cultural studies and development studies

One World Or Many? Richard Tiplady, 2003 This book considers in detail the key drivers of globalization its contemporary shape and its implications for world mission It also looks at the impact of globalization on different contemporary issues affecting mission such as ethnicity the environment and global health as well as globalization s effect on more traditional missionary questions of the world religions contextualization theology and the church One World or Many is written by a variety of authors from all over the world This book was published in partnership with the World Evangelical Alliance

The Event of Postcolonial Shame Timothy Bewes, 2010-11-22 In a postcolonial world where structures of power hierarchy and domination operate on a global scale writers face an ethical and aesthetic dilemma How to write without contributing to the inscription of inequality How to process the colonial past without reverting to a pathology of self disgust Can literature ever be free of the shame of the postcolonial epoch ever be truly postcolonial As disparities of power seem only to be increasing such questions are more urgent than ever In this book Timothy Bewes argues that shame is a dominant temperament in twentieth century literature and the key to understanding the ethics and aesthetics of the contemporary world Drawing on thinkers such as Jean Paul Sartre Frantz Fanon Theodor Adorno and Gilles Deleuze Bewes argues that in literature there is an event of shame that brings together these ethical and aesthetic tensions Reading works by J M Coetzee Joseph Conrad Nadine Gordimer V S Naipaul Caryl Phillips Ngugi wa Thiong o and Zo Wicomb Bewes presents a startling theory the practices of postcolonial literature depend upon and repeat the same structures of thought and perception that made colonialism possible in the first place As long as those structures remain in place literature and critical thinking will remain steeped in shame Offering a new mode of postcolonial reading The Event of Postcolonial Shame demands a literature and a criticism that acknowledge their own ethical deficiency without seeking absolution from it

Bibles and Baedekers Michael Grimshaw, 2014-12-05 Contemporary tourism and travel have become a form of religion a new opiate of the masses However could Church and theology be religious forms of tourism and travel Bibles and Baedekers offers a theology of tourism and exile for a modern and postmodern world It examines the ways in which location identity and movement have made use of religious texts and metaphor and questions the relative absence of secular texts and ideas in theology The theology of the tourist and traveller is one of new experiences the acquisition of identity through movement Bibles and Baedekers uniquely applies this to the postmodern Christian embodying the fulfilment of Bonhoeffer's religionless Christianity dislocated from both a secular and religious world

Travel and Ethics Corinne Fowler, Charles Forsdick, Ludmilla Kostova, 2013-12-13 Despite the recent increase in scholarly activity regarding travel writing and the accompanying proliferation of publications relating to the form its ethical dimensions have yet to be theorized with sufficient rigour Drawing from the disciplines of anthropology linguistics literary studies and modern languages the contributors in this volume apply themselves to a number of key theoretical questions pertaining to travel writing and ethics ranging from travel as commoditization to encounters with minority languages under threat Taken collectively the essays assess key critical legacies from parallel disciplines to the debate so far such as anthropological theory and postcolonial criticism Also considered and of equal significance are the ethical implications of the form's parallel genres of writing such as ethnography and journalism As some of the contributors argue innovations in these genres have important implications for the act of theorizing travel writing itself and the mode and spirit in which it continues to be conducted In the light of such innovations how might ethical theory maintain its critical edge

Postcolonial Travel Writing J. Edwards, R. Graulund, 2010-11-10 With its inclusion of original essays challenging the view of travel writing as a Eurocentric genre this book will stand as a benchmark study of future inquiries in the field It will revitalize the critical debate sparking a much needed rethinking of a vibrant and highly popular but also volatile genre that has seen many changes in recent years
