Global Two Thousand Revisited Mankinds Impact On Spaceship Earth:

Global 2000 Revisited Hugh W. Ellsaesser, 1992 Global Ecodynamics, 2004-07 Opening with a survey of contemporary global ecodynamics including its basic components this book goes on to discuss greenhouse effect problems in the context of global carbon cycle dynamics The coverage includes land ecosystem changes air sea exchange models high latitude environmental dynamics and a discussion of basic aspects of global environmental modelling and relevant monitoring systems The volume concludes by examining society systems with emphasis on the problems of sustainable development

Climate Cultures Jessica Barnes, Michael R. Dove, 2015-01-01 Climate change is one of the most pressing issues of our times yet global solutions have proved elusive This book draws together cutting edge anthropological research to uncover new ways of approaching the critical questions that surround climate change Leading anthropologists engage in three major areas of inquiry how climate change issues have been framed in previous times compared to present day discourse how knowledge about climate change and its impacts is produced and interpreted by different groups and how imagination plays a role in shaping conceptions of climate change Global Ecodynamics Kirill Y. Kondratyev, Vladimir F. Krapivin, V. P. Savinykh, Costas A. Varotsos, 2012-12-06 During recent decades the stirring up of the processes of globalization practically in all spheres of present day civilization activities has aggravated and brought forth numerous problems resulting from the nature society N S interaction It has become apparent that to solve these problems it is necessary to develop new concepts and approaches to the interpretation of global environmental changes that would enable one to select the first priority directions in studies and to reliably assess the state of the nature society system NSS One of these priorities is to predict global climate change The growing interest in the problem of global climate change determined by its practical importance and by available contradictory estimates of the anthropogenic contribution to climate change necessitates a systematization of knowledge of and data on the observed climate change and causes of this change Despite an enormous amount of projects and programmes of studies of past and present climatic trends the problem of reliable prediction of future climate change remains far from being solved Emissions to the atmosphere of greenhouse gases GHGs mainly carbon dioxide is considered as one of the main causes of an expected climate warming resulting in sufficiently negative consequences for humankind Therefore an attempt has been made in this book to construct a formalized technology to assess the level of the greenhouse effect due to anthropogenic sources of carbon dioxide as well as the effects of other gas components Remote Sensing and Atmospheric Ozone Arthur Philip Cracknell, Costas Varotsos, 2012-06-21 The destruction of the ozone layer together with global warming is one of the hot environmental topics of today This book examines the effect of human activities on atmospheric ozone namely the increase of tropospheric ozone and the general diminution of stratospheric ozone and the production of the Antarctic ozone hole Also discussed is the role of remote sensing techniques in the understanding of the effects of human activities on atmospheric ozone as well as in the development of social and political awareness of the damage to the ozone layer by man made chemicals principally CFCs This led to the formulation and ratification in 1989 of the Montreal Protocol on controlling banning the manufacture and use of chemicals that damage the ozone layer Since then remote sensing has played a key role in monitoring atmospheric ozone concentration and determining the success of the Montreal Protocol in protecting the ozone layer from further damage In this book the renowned authors discuss the sophisticated instruments that have been launched into space to study not only ozone but also other trace gases in the atmosphere some of which play a key role in the generation and destruction of ozone in the atmosphere Professors Cracknell and Varotsos also examine the satellite flown instruments which are involved in monitoring the absorption of solar ultraviolet light in the atmosphere in relation both to the generation and destruction of ozone and consequently to human health This scholarly book written by the foremost experts in the field looks at remote sensing and its employment in the various aspects of ozone science It is widely acknowledged that global warming due to anthropogenic greenhouse gases emissions represents a threat to the sustainability of human life on Earth However many other threats are potentially just as serious including atmospheric pollution ozone depletion water pollution the degradation of agricultural land deforestation the depletion of the world's mineral resources and population growth

Multidimensional Global Change Kirill

I. A. Kovlevich Kondrat'ev, 1998-07 Multidimensional Global Change Kirill Ya Kondratyev Forty years of technological progress have had a catastrophic impact on the environment since this progress has been based on the ruthless exploitation of natural resources 20 percent of the fertile soil on cultivated land has been lost 20 per cent of tropical forests have been cleared desertification continues at a rate of 6 million hectares annually and deforestation amounts to 11 million hectares annually Economic estimations practically never take into account this depletion and damage to natural resources the harmful effect on human health the deprivation of future generations of those natural resources and the long term impact in the form of biospheric deformation In this text Kirill Kondratyev emphasises the extremely complex and interdisciplinary nature of multidimensional global change highlighting its principal aspects and many practical consequences economic social etc as well as the relationships between environmental problems on global continental and national scales He demonstrates that the main limiting factor of further quantitative development of humankind is the available biosphere resources and that the basic criterion of ecological well or ill being is the level of depletion of these resources The author highlights an acute social controversy of the modern world in that the level of biospheric resource consumption in industrially developed countries exceeds by far that in the Third World This disparity could be eliminated through advancements such as the decarbonisation of energy production and the development of new technologies However he shows that radical improvement of the situation can only be achieved by reducing the population number and establishing a new fair economic order He emphasises that when considering global change problems it is important to avoid exaggerations and he strikes a balance between the most gloomy predictions and more encouraging estimations Readership Professional scientists environmentalists and engineers concerned with research relating to global change and its consequences managers and senior engineers wishing to gain an insight into the problems caused by global change and undergraduate and postgraduate students of geography meteorology climatology atmospheric physics and environmental science Ethics and Urban Design Gideon S. Golany, 1995-08-01 The city according to urban design scholar Gideon Golany is the largest and most complicated project ever produced by humankind In Ethics and Urban Design he challenges design professionals to reexamine their basic assumptions about the urban environment and offers design strategies based on enduring human values In search of answers to the paradoxical problems of the modern city Golany takes the reader through the sweep of human settlements from the dawn of civilization to the present His authoritative examination of the genesis of the city is illuminated by instructive examples of early urban centers Mesopotamia the Indus River Valley the Egyptian cities of the Nile and the capital cities of ancient China all are examined in the light of what made them work as major centers of human activity What Golany finds in the success stories of the past are cohesive sociocultural values that shaped the design of homes neighborhoods and cities These ethical values helped to maintain an equilibrium within the society that permeated its natural social and human made environments In the present era conversely he finds a major disconnection between human values and the ethics of technology which has resulted in confusion imbalance and dehumanization To help designers gain a perspective on possible solutions Golany explains leading comprehensive design strategies including the valley theory the urban border zone concept and the regional concept of Patrick Geddes In the case study of contemporary Holland he details what a small densely populated country has been able to achieve through design planning rooted in environmental ethics Future Frontiers for Urban Design the culminating section of this groundbreaking book opens with Golany's vision of the future city He examines the issues of thermal performance and climate as they relate to urban design and offers the concept of geospace the earth enveloped habitat Buttressing his presentation with detailed information on the mechanics of geospace Golany describes case studies of the successful use of earth enveloped habitats in China and Tunisia He makes a powerful argument for the geospace city as a renewal of ancient traditions that can restore the vital equilibrium between nature and human settlements that we seem to have lost Ethics and Urban Design is a distinguished scholar's analysis and prescription for the city it offers an abundance of stimulating ideas for the architects designers and planners who have assumed responsibility for its future Ethics and Urban Design draws on historical examples and contemporary case studies from around the world to illustrate urban design strategies that can help restore equilibrium to the natural social and built environments of the city In this stimulating book urban design scholar Gideon Golany offers architects designers and planners both an in depth analysis of the fundamental issues of urban design and practical options for the design of the future city Examines the genesis and development of the city from the earliest presettlements to the rise of urban society Presents urban design strategies based on historical examples of early urban centers including Mesopotamia the Indus River Valley Egypt and China Offers case studies of environmental success stories from Europe Asia and Africa Details geospace design options the use of underground space for diversified land use housing and transportation Fully illustrated with over 80 photographs drawings and diagrams Bibliography of Agriculture with Subject Index ,1993 Subject Guide to Books in Print ,1993 Environmental Disasters Kirill I[A]kovlevich Kondrat'ev,Alexei A. Grigoryev,Costas Varotsos,2002-08 As the impacts of environmental disasters on populations and their economic activity increase the assessment of risk from such catastrophic events becomes more urgent not only for humankind but also for other living organisms This book details the problems caused by such environmental disasters and discusses possible mitigation methods including risk mapping using satellite monitoring data Beacham's Guide to Environmental Issues & Sources Walton Beacham,1993 Atmospheric Ozone Variability Kirill I[A]kovlevich Kondrat'ev,Costas Varotsos,2000-04 It is well known that the ozone layer protects the Earth and its life from the harmful ultraviolet UV radiation of the sun It has also been discovered that this layer was being depleted to the extent that holes were appearing in it by several substances such as CFCs which have since been banned Despite this action recent studies have shown that the ozone layer is still being depleted at a rapid rate and that holes are now beginning to appear over areas which are quite densely populated Atmospheric Ozone Variability examines the potential problems that depletion of ozone causes in relation to climate change human health and the ecosystem It also examines the ways in which ozone is formed and depleted as being fundamental to the debate Chemical Composition of Precipitation in India and Nepal ,1996 Il Nuovo Cimento Della Società Italiana Di Fisica ,1999 Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,1994 Bibliographic Guide to the Environment ,1993 Indian Journal of Radio & Space Physics ,2002 Introduction to Hydrogeology David Deming,2002 Provides an introduction to hydrogeology This work is applicable for hydrogeology geohydrology groundwater and geologic fluids courses taken by juniors and seniors Its primary goal is to emphasize the geologic aspects of hydrogeology
