issues that may require further analysis Global Scientific Practice in an Age of Revolutions, 1750-1850 Patrick Manning, Daniel Rood, 2016-09-27 The century from 1750 to 1850 was a period of dramatic transformations in world history fostering several types of revolutionary change beyond the political landscape Independence movements in Europe the Americas and other parts of the world were catalysts for radical economic social and cultural reform And it was during this age of revolutions an era of rapidly expanding scientific investigation that profound changes in scientific knowledge and practice also took place In this volume an esteemed group of international historians examines key elements of science in societies across Spanish America Europe West Africa India and Asia as they overlapped each other increasingly Chapters focus on the range of participants in eighteenth and nineteenth century science their concentrated effort in description and taxonomy and advances in techniques for sharing knowledge Together contributors highlight the role of scientific change and development in tightening global and imperial connections encouraging a deeper conversation among historians of science and world historians and shedding new light on a pivotal moment in history for both fields Science, Technology, and Global Economic Competitiveness United States. Congress. House. Committee on Science, 2006 Doing Business in the Knowledge-Based Economy Louis A. Lefebvre, Elisabeth Lefebvre, Pierre Mohnen, 2012-12-06 On September 17 and 18 1998 a conference took place at Mont Tremblant on the theme Doing Business in a Knowledge Based Economy This conference brought together some hundred participants from government business and academia with backgrounds in business administration engineering public administration and economics to provide a multidisciplinary analysis of what has come to be known as the Knowledge Based Economy KBE The aim was to come up with suggestions and recommendations about how to do business in a knowledge based economy both at the firm level and at the government level All presenters were explicitly asked to conclude with policy recommendations The conference was sponsored by Industry Canada and organized by the Centre of Interuniversity Research on the Analysis of Organizations CIRANO The conference papers offered U S Canadian and European perspectives on the management of a knowledge based economy This volume is divided into three parts The papers in part I set the stage by describing the salient features of the KBE What is so special about it What are its economic underpinnings What are its technological characteristics Knowledge plays a crucial role in a KBE hence its name Whereas in the past growth was determined primarily by the availability of land natural resources labour and capital successively at the end of the twentieth century knowledge has become a if not the major factor of economic growth The Age of Knowledge James Dzisah, Henry Etzkowitz, 2011-10-14 The Age of Knowledge emphasizes that the ongoing transformations of knowledge both within universities and for society more generally must be understood as a reflection of the larger changes in the constitutive social structures within which they are invariably produced translated and reproduced

Harvard Business School Core Collection 1995 Baker Library,1995 Global Economy in the Age of Science-based Knowledge Mirko Bunc,1992-01-01 The conviction that development of those who live in the Amazon region can be achieved whilst preserving the well being of the natural legacy of the area is the basis of this report The Amazon basin is at the heart of South America and the fate of this unique habitat weighs heavily in the hands of the world This report examines the issues surrounding the debate for a way forward to sustainable development in the Amazon Economics and Business Models for Sustainability Gitte Haar, 2024-06-28 The overall framework for leaders is now changing and a reassessment of traditional economic and financial models is called for to foster the green and circular transition The Nordic countries may offer some of the values and leadership trends needed to implement sustainable leadership Sustainable leadership is necessary to attract new generations of customers and employees and to drive the great transition to a green economy Leaders need new competences and new values to prepare their companies for the new market conditions and geopolitical situation Managing businesses impacts throughout the value chain is the new normal and sustainability is a business imperative In this regard the Sustainable Development Goals can offer guidance The Nordic societies have proven to be forerunners in terms of developing SDG oriented business strategies and their economies remained resilient and stable through the financial crisis and the COVID 19 pandemic Using the Nordic example this book discusses how the transformation of business models organizations and societies as well as the pricing of externalities will be essential to operating within the boundaries of a fair and sustainable world The book introduces a UN SDG Fund and explains the value of sending executives on H jskole a Danish journey of lifelong learning and the continuous acquisition of new leadership skills and values In addition it presents the new concepts of the Strategic House and Purpose Gap while adapting Porter's value chain into a Circular Organization Model The book also features a catalogue of proven methods and guidelines to assist companies in transforming their businesses towards sustainability ESG and regenerative impacts

Defying Standardization Christopher H. Tienken,2016-11-14 Defying Standardization pierces the veil of misinformation surrounding the push to standardize the curriculum expectations for 56 million public school children It provides a high energy passionate and well researched argument of what curriculum should and can be to facilitate the development of unstandardized skills and dispositions necessary for a globally connected society Defying Standardization dismantles the myths and lies surrounding international test rankings and demonstrates that there is no relationship to economic indicators or skills that drives the innovation economy The book provides practical examples for how educators students and parents can defy standardization with locally developed evidence informed and globally literate practices to facilitate the development of customized curricula This book is for those who yearn for a vibrant innovative and creative school system in which all students are provided opportunities to pursue their passions and interests in ways that will prepare them to be well rounded individuals and democratic citizens in a global community Cities and the Knowledge Economy Tim May,Beth Perry,2017-11-02 Cities and the Knowledge Economy is an in depth interdisciplinary international and comparative examination of the relationship between knowledge and urban development in the contemporary era Through the lenses of promise politics and possibility it examines how the knowledge economy has arisen how different cities have sought to realise its potential how universities play a role in its realisation and overall what this reveals about the relationship between politics capitalism space place and knowledge in cities The book argues that the 21st century city has been predicated on particular circuits of knowledge that constitute expertise as residing in elite and professional epistemic communities In contrast alternative conceptions of the knowledge society are founded on assumptions which take analysis deliberation democracy and the role of the citizen and communities of practice seriously Drawing on a range of examples from cities around the world the book reflects on these possibilities and asks what roles the practice of active intermediation the university and a critical and engaged social scientific practice can all play in this process The book is aimed at researchers and students from different disciplines geography politics sociology business studies economics and planning with interests in contemporary urbanism and the role of knowledge in understanding development as well as urban policymakers politicians and practitioners who are concerned with the future of our cities and seek to create coalitions of different communities oriented towards more just and sustainable futures Graduate Education in the Chemical Sciences National Research Council, Commission on Physical Sciences, Mathematics, and Applications, Board on Chemical Sciences and Technology, Chemical Sciences Roundtable, 2000-08-31 Graduate Education in the Chemical Sciences is a summary of the December 1999 workshop Graduate Education in the Chemical Sciences Issues for the 21st Century This workshop discussed the various features of graduate education in chemical science and technology Using case histories and their individual experiences speakers examined the current status of graduate education in the chemical sciences identified problems and opportunities and discussed possible strategies for improving the system The discussion was oriented toward the goal of generating graduates who are well prepared to advance the chemical sciences in academia government and industry in the next 5 to 10 years Knowledge for a Sustainable World Tor Halvorsen, Hilde Ibsen, 2015-12-07 The search for answers to the issue of global sustainability has become increasingly urgent In the context of higher education many universities and academics are seeking new insights that can shift our dependence on ways of living that rely on the exploitation of so many and the degradation of so much of our planet This is the vision that drives SANORD and many of the researchers and institutions within its network Although much of the research is on a relatively small scale the vision is steadily gaining momentum forging dynamic collaborations and pathways to new knowledge The contributors to this book cover a variety of subject areas and offer fresh insights about chronically under researched parts of the world Others document and critically reflect on innovative approaches to cross continental teaching and research collaborations This book will be of interest to anyone involved in the transformation of higher education or the practicalities of cross continental and cross disciplinary academic collaboration The Southern African Nordic Centre SANORD is a network of higher education institutions from Denmark Finland Iceland Norway Sweden Botswana Namibia Malawi South Africa Zambia and Zimbabwe Universities in the

Stevenson, Robert Stevenson, 2013 The environment and contested notions of sustainability are increasingly topics of public interest political debate and legislation across the world Environmental education journals now publish research from a wide variety of methodological traditions that show linkages between the environment health development and education The growth in scholarship makes this an opportune time to review and synthesize the knowledge base of the environmental education EE field The purpose of this 51 chapter handbook is not only to illuminate the most important concepts findings and theories that have been developed by EE research but also to critically examine the historical progression of the field its current debates and controversies what is still missing from the EE research agenda and where that agenda might be headed Published for the American Educational Research Association AERA The Learning Challenge of the Knowledge Economy David Guile, 2010-01-01 This book introduces a new perspective on the knowledge economy and the learning challenge it presents for individuals communities and societies It demonstrates that the debate about the role of knowledge in the economy has been framed in terms of Cartesian notions of objective and subjective knowledge and human capital notions that the aim of learning is to support people to adapt to a pre given economic reality. The book argues that these framings rest on questionable assumptions about knowledge and learning and in the process deflect us from asking questions about our future economic political and social direction Taking ideas from Cultural Historical Activity Theory CHAT Social Theory and the Philosophy of Mind as its starting point the book rethinks the relation between knowledge learning and human activity It explores this rethinking through the form of learning Professional Vocational and Workplace most closely Malaysia Knowledge Based Economy associated with the use of knowledge for economic political and social purposes
