

Global Marine Environment Protection Initiative Mandates

(from G-20 Leaders' declarations)

Toronto (26-27 June, 2010):

"Following the recent oil spill in the Gulf of Mexico we recognize the need to share best practices to protect the marine environment, prevent accidents related to offshore exploration and development, as well as transportation, and deal with their consequences."

Seoul (November 11-12, 2010):

"We welcome the progress achieved by the Global Marine Environment Protection (GMEP) initiative toward the goal of sharing best practices to protect the marine environment, to prevent accidents related to offshore exploration and development, as well as marine transportation, and to deal with their consequences. We recognize the work done by the GMEP Experts Sub-Group and take note of the progress made on reviewing international regulation of offshore oil and gas exploration, production and transport with respect to marine environmental protection as a first step to implement the Toronto mandate.

Future work on the GMEP initiative should benefit from relevant findings, as they become available, from the National Commission on the BP Deepwater Horizon Oil Spill in the United States and the Montara Commission of Inquiry in Australia. We ask the GMEP Experts Sub-Group to provide a further report, with the support of the IMO, OECD, IEA, OPEC, International Regulators Forum, and International Association of Drilling Contractors and, in consultation with relevant stakeholders, to continue work on the effective sharing of best practices at the 2011 Summit in France."

Cannes (November 3-4, 2011):

«We decide to take further action to protect the marine environment, in particular to prevent accidents related to offshore oil and gas exploration and development, as well as marine transportation, and to deal with their consequences. We welcome the establishment of a mechanism to share best practices and information on legal frameworks, experiences in preventing and managing accidents and disasters relating to offshore oil and gas drilling, production and maritime transportation. We ask the Global Marine Environment Protection working group, in cooperation with the OECD, the International Regulators Forum and OPEC, to report next year on progress made and to establish this mechanism in order to disseminate these best practices by mid-2012, at which point it will be reviewed. We also commit to foster dialogue with international organisations and relevant stakeholders».

Los Cabos (June 18-19, 2012):

"We welcome the establishment of a Global Marine Environment Protection Best Practices Sharing Mechanism website, and look forward to its launch in accordance with the Cannes mandate".

Waldichuk, 1978 Global Marine Assessments Emily Corcoran, United Nations. Environment Programme, UNEP World Conservation Monitoring Centre, Intergovernmental Oceanographic Commission, 2007 Global Marine Biological Diversity Elliott A. Norse, 1993-07 Global Marine Biological Diversity presents the most up to date information and view on the challenge of conserving the living sea and how that challenge can be met Global ocean protection : present status and future possibilities, 2010 This publication provides a much needed and timely tool to assist us in our collective effort to find new and better solutions to address the various threats to our marine biological diversity and productivity It provides evidence based recommendations on improving and accelerating actions on delivering ocean protection and management through marine protected areas and facilitates the sharing of experiences and lessons learned Page 4 International Marine Environmental Law and Policy Daud Hassan, Saiful Karim, 2018-10-03 Several disturbing issues pose a threat to the marine environment and its wellbeing among them marine environmental pollution and degradation of marine biodiversity Most troubling is that these issues are overwhelmingly caused by human activities which are sometimes transboundary and their consequences will become more severe and complicated if not properly curbed Thus these activities require comprehensive policies laws and principles to manage them effectively Linked to these solutions is the need for responsibilities cooperation and commitments at local national regional and international levels Contemporary Marine Environmental Law and Policy presents a thorough appraisal of the main issues actors and institutions engaged in the legal aspects of marine environmental conservation With contributions from an international range of authors the book provides a concise account of the legal and policy framework underlying international marine environmental issues and of the fundamental concepts and strategies that are important to the protection of the marine environment Some of the topics explored include the prevention of marine pollution caused by land based activities ships and offshore hydrocarbon and mineral resources exploration the conservation and management of marine living resources the marine environment in the polar regions and the settlement of marine environmental disputes This book provides a solid foundation for anyone studying international community An effective solution depends upon the cooperation of all states towards achieving agreed objectives This book provides a critical assessment of the role that international law plays in this process by explaining and evaluating the various legal instruments that have been negotiated in this area as well as key trends in global ocean governance Starting with a detailed analysis of the United Nations Convention on the Law of the Sea the book considers the main treaties and other legal texts that seeks to prevent reduce and control damage to the marine environment caused by navigation seabed exploitation fishing dumping and land based activities as well as emerging pressures such as ocean noise and climate change The book demonstrates how international institutions have expanded their mandates to address a broader range of marine environmental issues beyond basic problems of pollution control to include the conservation of marine biological diversity and an ecosystems approach to regulation It also discusses the development of diverse regulatory tools to address anthropogenic impacts on the marine environment and the extent to which states have adopted a precautionary approach in different maritime sectors Whilst many advances have been made in these matters this book highlights the need for greater coordination between international institutions as well as the desirability of developing stronger enforcement mechanisms for international environmental rules Global Marine Assessments ,2003 JMBA Global Marine Environment Dr. Anne Pulsford,2005

Global Marine Pollution Bibliography Michael A. Champ,P. Kilho Park,1982-11-30 This bibliography is an attempt to honor our fellow workers for their contributions to marine pollution as a scientific field We also hope to increase the understanding and exchange of information from a global perspective For the sake of younger workers we hope that this exchange will prevent duplication of effort the sad reinvention of knowledge An ulterior motive of ours is to create a living bibliography by not only having this document available as a printed text but also as references with abstracts on word processor discs so that researchers teachers and managers can update and expand this bibliography in their own fields of interest We hope to be able to find a distributor for these discs in the near future To establish greater communication we had hoped to have an appendix with author s names and addresses however we found that we had less than half of the senior authors current addresses Therefore for subsequent editions we hope our fellow scientists will keep us informed of their work and current addresses and will bring to our attention any errors or papers that we have inadvertently missed Our aim is to produce another edition in three years

Marine Policy Mark Zacharias,2014-03-14 This textbook provides the reader with a foundation in policy development and analysis and describes how policy including legal mechanisms is applied to marine environments around the world It offers a systematic treatment of all aspects of marine policy including environmental protection fisheries transportation energy mining and climate change It starts with a biophysical overview of the structure and function of the marine environment with a particular emphasis on the challenges and opportunities of managing the marine environment An overview of the creation and function of international law is then provided with a focus on international marine law It explores the geographic and jurisdictional dimensions of marine policy as well the current and anticipated challenges facing marine systems including climate change related impacts and resource over exploitation The book should appeal to senior undergraduate and graduate students and form a core part of the curriculum for marine affairs science and policy courses It will also provide supplementary reading for students taking a course in the law of the oceans but is not aimed at legal specialists UK Strengthens Protection of Global Marine Environment ,1997 The Contemporary State System and the Global Marine Environment Herman J.
