Globalization And The Decline Of Social Reform:

Globalisation and the Decline of Social Reform Gary Teeple, 1990-12-31 A text examining the change from the economic and political conditions that led to the welfare state and the politics of social democracy It analyzes the neoliberal policies that governments are adopting arguing that globalization means negative consequences for working people around the world

Globalization and the Decline of Social Reform Gary Teeple, 2000-01-01 Globalization is the coming of the triumph of capitalism the growing ascendancy of economics over politics of corporate demands over public policy of private over public interest It represents the approaching completion of the capitalization of the world carried out by self generating capital in the form of transnational corporations within an increasingly coherent transnational regulatory regime Neo liberal policies at the national level argues the author represent the policy side of globalization the political requirements of global capital the harmonization of the national with the global They mark the transition between two eras from a world of national corporations and nation states to a world of transnational corporations and supranational regulatory agencies The author examines the postwar conditions that gave rise to the modern welfare state and the politics of social democracy throughout the industrial world He traces the transformation of these conditions in the 1970s with the coming of a computer based mode of production and the consequent necessity for global relations of production In the face of global assertions of the rights of corporate private property he makes the case that the world s subordinate classes and peoples will have to create global means of resistance

Globalization and the Decline of Social Reform Gary Teeple, 1995 Gary Teeple examines the transformation of the economic and political conditions that allowed for the rise of the welfare state and the politics of social democracy He critically analyzes the neo liberal policies that are being introduced by governments everywhere arguing that they are the policy counterpart to the globalization of the economy If globalization represents the triumph of capitalism and the decline of the welfare state then it also carries negative consequences for working people around the world As liberal democracy declines and political legitimacy fades the world is confronted by the unmitigated assertion of the rights of corporate private property
