Globalization And Regional Dynamics:

Globalization and Regional Dynamics Wolfgang Klenner, Hisashi Watanabe, 2012-12-06 The writings by Japanese and German economists presented here originated against the backdrop of ongoing globalization processes and notable fluctuations in regional economic dynamics observable at the same time primarily in the East and South East Asian area. They provided the occasion for these writers to come to terms with globalization processes and in particular with the stabilizing and destabilizing elements at work in them. This is the basis for their investigation of the options provided by economics and economic policy for stabilizing an ever more tightly interwoven world economy. The regional focal points of the contributions are the East Asian realm and the European Union and the points of view are in every case both from the Japanese and the German side. Questions of international competition and mechanisms of the spread of the crisis in the wake of globalization processes lie at the centre of the analyses by Hisashi Watanabe and Willy Kraus. Hisashi Watanabe focusses on the relationship, an especially important one from the Japanese perspective between Japan and South Korea and takes up the problem of South Korea's demand that Japan should energetically promote its own transition to a service sector oriented society and withdraw from certain areas of manufacturing. This, it is argued, will grant Japan's Asian neighbours better chances for development and make a positive contribution to the economic stabilization of the region.

Globalization and Regional Economic Modeling Russel Cooper, Kieran Donaghy, Geoffrey Hewings, 2007-09-23 Globalization is affecting regional economies in a broad spectrum of aspects from labor market conditions and development policies to climate change. To understand better how this works we need both conceptual and methodological contributions. We need new schemes to organize our thinking, direct our attention and frame thought experiments on the basis of which guidance may be offered. And we need methodological innovations that enable us to carry out studies and thought experiments at levels of spatial and temporal resolution and formal complexity adequate to capture and account for the phenomena that characterize globalization. The chapters of this volume, written by an international cast of eminent regional scientists, represent contributions of both types in many cases introducing and demonstrating the use of new tools for analyzing and understanding enormous changes underway in regional economies around the world.

Globalization and Regional Growth in Europe Roberta Capello, Ugo Fratesi, Laura Resmini, 2011-05-27 After a description of the new forms of globalization currently shaping our world and of their possible spatial effects, the book highlights which European regions have in the past succeeded in taking advantage of globalization trends and identifies the major reasons for their success. The book also offers a prospective analysis utilizing scenarios based on different assumptions of how globalization trends will develop, identifying the regional winners and losers for each scenario. The analysis greatly benefits from a unique database which contains among others data on FDI by sector and professions at the regional NUTS 2 level for all 27 EU countries. A time span of more than 10 years is covered and scenarios are developed for the future development up to 2020.

Globalization Trends and Regional Development Roberta Capello, Tomaz Ponce Dentinho, 2012-01-01 Global trends and local effects have been almost ubiquitous since the 1980s. However, few like this book have successfully examined the local effects of global trends and processes. Each of this book's ten chapters provides an empirically based analysis that illuminates the local effects driven by global forces. Roger Stough, George Mason University, US. This timely book investigates the challenges that emerge for local economies when faced with the new globalization trends that characterize today's world economy. In this instance, globalization is interpreted as a process of internationalization of production and markets which can take various forms such as increasing international trade or increasing foreign direct investments, all of which give rise to the growing integration and interdependency of European economies with regard to the other main world economies. The expert contributors use a fresh perspective in their analysis of globalization trends, emphasizing recent changes and providing an up-to-date picture of current developments in both foreign investments and the consequent migration of human capital. Qualitative rather than quantitative trends in human capital and financial capital flows are taken into account with a particular focus on their impacts on regional growth perspectives. Highlighting the European economy's strengths and weaknesses in facing the challenges of the new globalization trends, this book will provide a stimulating read for a wide-ranging audience encompassing scholars of regional science, regional economics, economic and regional geography, international economics and international business.

Dynamics of Globalization Torben Pedersen, Christian Geisler Asmussen, Timothy Devinney, Laszlo Tihanyi, 2011-06-09 Cross-border flows of goods, services, capital, knowledge and ideas have substantially increased. This book focuses on how the interface between firm-specific advantages, liability of foreignness and location-specific advantages are spelled out in the more global world.

Regional Expansion Dynamics in the Global Age Pasquale De Marco, In a world increasingly interconnected by globalization, regions have emerged as key players in driving economic growth, fostering innovation and addressing societal challenges. This book explores the complexities of regional development in the globalized context, focusing on the American experience. With a multidisciplinary approach, this book examines the evolution of regional governance structures, policies and strategies in the face of globalization. It analyzes the changing landscape of regional governance, the emergence of new institutions and mechanisms and the challenges of multi-level governance. It also investigates the role of regional integration and cooperation in promoting economic growth, addressing regional disparities and pursuing sustainable development. Furthermore, the book delves into the intricate relationship between regional development policies and strategies and their impact on regional economies and societies. It examines the conceptual underpinnings of regional development policies, the objectives and targets of these policies and the policy instruments employed to achieve them. It also analyzes the role of multi-level governance in regional policymaking and the importance of policy evaluation in ensuring accountability and measuring impact. Additionally, the book explores the multifaceted dimensions of regional inequality and disparities, examining the causes and consequences of regional imbalances It investigates the role of regional policy in addressing these disparities including redistribution mechanisms infrastructure development and human capital development It also highlights the importance of spatial planning and regional cooperation in reducing regional inequalities and promoting balanced development The book also delves into the critical role of regional innovation and competitiveness in driving economic growth and sustainable development It examines the concept of regional innovation systems the importance of clusters and networks in fostering innovation and the strategies for regional branding and marketing to attract investment and talent It also analyzes the role of smart specialization in leveraging unique regional advantages and promoting economic diversification If you like this book write a review

Globalization and Antiglobalization Jonathan Rutherford, 2018-05-08 This title was first published in 2003 Globalisation can be seen to provide the context for epoch defining changes in social and economic forms of organisation However it has also changed the context for and the organisational forms of politics unleashing forces in support of and in opposition to the globalisation dynamic This text examines the dynamics of change and development in two regions of the world economy Latin America and Asia and is a series of explorations into the forces their political dynamics and the responses of governments and citizens The focus of the explorations and regional case studies is on the role of the nation state international organisations and social movements

Globalization, Regional Development and Local Response Leendert Andrew de Bell, 2005 In a world that has become increasingly interconnected over the past decades economically politically socially and culturally new challenges are posed to development Since the 1980s development has increasingly become interpreted in terms of increasing integration into the world economy Export oriented manufacturing became widely viewed as the surest recipe for realizing economic growth while reducing income inequality and the role of foreign direct investments became increasingly important in development strategies worldwide However not every region industry and social group managed to become successfully integrated into the world economy In order to explain why these processes of economic restructuring have had such a differential impact this study situates developments within a wider historical social and political context to establish how these processes of globalization are mediated at the regional and local level The main object of study concerns the drastic socioeconomic transformation that has taken place in the state of Coahuila situated in the northeast of Mexico bordering the United States over the past three decades In particular since the start of NAFTA in 1994 Coahuila has become one of Mexico's most successful export oriented manufacturing states most importantly as a result of the large number of foreign direct investments it received However the effects of these developments have been unevenly distributed among its sub regions while questions must also be raised about its ability to contribute to sustained long term growth with equity The key issue appears to be not whether but how regions and localities become linked to the world economy page 4 of cover

Globalization and Autocentricity in Africa's Development in the 21st Century Kidane Mengisteab, 1996 African economies are the most dependent and the most marginalised in the global system Prevailing policies to integrate these economies more closely with the global economy are in the view of many misplaced and this work presents a series of alternative strategies that will tap the energies of the African people to develop their own potential and reduce their dependence on World Bank IMF led approaches The Globalization of Regional Clusters Dirk Fornahl,Nils Grashof,2021-04-30 Addressing the role of regional clusters in the context of ongoing globalization this timely book investigates the two seemingly competing trends of globalization and localization from both quantitative and qualitative perspectives International case studies offer pioneering insights into the internationalization process of regional clusters and the effect of this on regional as well as firm performance New Perspectives on Globalization and Antiglobalization Henry Veltmeyer,2016-12-05 This completely revised and updated sequel to Globalization and Antiglobalization advances our understanding of the dynamics of neoliberal globalization and draws our attention towards efforts to construct another world beyond neoliberalism To advance our understanding of these forces and associated processes the collection brings together eleven specialists in the political economy of international relations and globalization to reflect on and analyze the diverse dimensions of the globalization process Taking into account significant developments in the dynamics of globalization and antiglobalization over the past years it includes a new introduction and a new conclusion as well as eight entirely new chapters contributed by authors as diverse and different in their perspectives as James Petras Walden Bello Norman Girvan Paul Bowles Terry Gibbs Lisa Thompson and Teivo Teivainen These dynamics are contextualized with essays on the Caribbean Latin America East Asia and Southern Africa This is an invaluable volume for students academics and activists concerned with creating a truly new world order Handbook of Migration and Globalisation Anna Triandafyllidou,2024-04-12 This thoroughly revised and updated Handbook brings together an international range of contributors to highlight the deep interdependence between migration and globalisation and explore the impact of economic social and political globalisation on international population flows It provides an interdisciplinary perspective on a discussion that has been intensifying and diversifying over the past 25 years This title contains one or more Open Access chapters

Globalizing Regional Development in East Asia Henry Wai-chung Yeung,2013-09-13 Significant historical and geographical differences account for the many processes and trajectories of regional development in East Asia These historical and geographical specificities in East Asia have prompted serious re examination of existing theories in regional development and in particular the new regionalism approach associated with such ideas as the learning region institutional thickness relational assets and regional innovation system This book brings together a group of leading researchers specializing in local and regional development in East Asian economies Through in depth empirical studies of specific regions and localities these authors offer fresh and innovative perspectives on how regions evolve and develop over time in the world s most dynamic macro regional economy In particular their work points to the critical importance of local and trans local processes in shaping regional development trajectories The book is timely given that the debate on the nature and dynamics of regional development in both academic and policy circles has now moved on From the earlier focus on endogenous regional assets such as localized networks of association and trust scholars and policymakers are now analyzing the complex relationship between economic globalization and regional change This high calibre collection makes a significant contribution to the literature on local and regional development in Asia and provides an important resource for researchers students and policy makers interested in East Asia This book was published as a special issue of Regional Studies
