Muslim Sanzijing Roberta Tontini, 2016-06-21 In Muslim Sanzijing Shifts and Continuities in the Definition of Islam in China 1710-2010 Roberta Tontini traces the development of Islam and Islamic law in the country while responding to two enduring questions in China's intellectual history How was the Muslim sharia reconciled with Confucianism How was knowledge of Islamic social and ritual norms popularized to large segments of Chinese Muslim society even in periods of limited literacy Through a comprehensive study that includes a rigorous analysis of popular Chinese Islamic primers belonging to the Sanzijing tradition Tontini offers fresh insights on the little known intellectual and legal history of Islam on Chinese soil to convincingly demonstrate its evolving quality in response to changing social norms China's Early Mosques Nancy Shatzman Steinhardt,2019-08-07

What happens when a monotheistic foreign religion needs a space in which to worship in China a civilisation with a building tradition that has been largely unchanged for several millennia The story of this extraordinary convergence begins in the 7th century and continues under the Chinese rule of Song and Ming and the non Chinese rule of the Mongols and Manchus each with a different political and religious agenda The author shows that mosques and ultimately Islam have survived in China because the Chinese architectural system though often unchanging is adaptable it can accommodate the religious requirements of Buddhism Daoism Confucianism and Islam Contextualization of Sufi Spirituality in Seventeenth- and Eighteenth-Century China David Lee,2016-07-28 Liu Zhi c1662 c1730 a well known Muslim scholar writing in Chinese published outstanding theological works short treatises and short poems on Islam While traditional Arabic and Persian Islamic texts used unfamiliar concepts to explain Islam Liu Zhi translated both text and concepts into Chinese culture In this erudite volume David Lee examines how Liu Zhi integrated the basic religious living of the monotheistic Hui Muslims into their pluralistic Chinese culture Liu Zhi discussed the Prophet Muhammad in Confucian terms and his work served as a bridge between peoples This book is an in depth study of Liu Zhi s contextualization of Islam within Chinese scholarship that argues his merging of the two never deviated from the basic principles of Islamic belief Jewish and Non-Jewish Creators of "Jewish" Languages Paul Wexler,2006 The present volume brings together 34 articles that were published between 1964 and 2003 on Judaized forms of Arabic Chinese German Greek Persian Portuguese Slavic including Modern Hebrew and Yiddish two Slavic languages relexified to Hebrew and German respectively Spanish and Semitic Hebrew including Ladino the Ibero Romance relexification of Biblical Hebrew and Karaite The motivations for reissuing these articles are the convenience of having thematically similar topics appear together in the same venue and the need to update the interpretations many of which have radically changed over the years As explained in a lengthy new preface and in notes added to the articles themselves the impetus to create strikingly unique Jewish ethnolects comes not so much from the creativity of the Jews but rather from non Jewish converts to Judaism in search often via relexification of a unique linguistic analogue to their new ethnoreligious identity The volume should be of interest to students of relexification of the Judaization of non Jewish languages and of these specific languages State of the Field and Disciplinary Approaches André Laliberté,Stefania Travagnin,2019-08-05 The three volume project Concepts and Methods for the Study of Chinese Religions presents a history of the study of Chinese religions It evaluates the current state of scholarship discusses a variety of analytical approaches and theories about methodology epistemology and the ontology of the field The three books display an interdisciplinary approach and offer debates that transcend national traditions It engages with a variety of methodologies for the study of East Asian religions and promotes dialogues with Western and Chinese voices This volume covers successive historical stages in the study of religion in modern China draws out the genealogy of major figures and intellectual achievements in a variety of research traditions and highlights as well the challenges and evolutions experienced by the main disciplines in the last 30 years This volume serves as a reference for graduate students and scholars interested by religions in modern Chinese societies i e mainland China Taiwan Hong Kong and Chinese communities overseas Using a wide range of methods from textual analysis to fieldwork it presents case studies via the disciplines of religious studies anthropology sociology history and political science

Language Dan Xu,2017-08-23 This book studies the Tangwang language providing the first comprehensive grammar in English of this Chinese variety with detailed analysis of its phonology morphology and syntax This fills a gap in the literature as previously only a few articles on this language were available The book takes an interdisciplinary approach examining genetic data to determine historical patterns of population migration as well as linguistic data that focus on the influence of the Dongxiang Santa language as a consequence of language contact on the Silk Road The concluding chapter argues that Tangwang has not yet become a mixed language and that syntactic borrowing has a stronger impact than lexical borrowing on languages Literacy in the Persianate World Brian Spooner,William L. Hanaway,2012-03-19 Persian has been a written language since the sixth century B C Only Chinese Greek and Latin have comparable histories of literacy Although Persian script changed first from cuneiform to a modified Aramaic then to Arabic from the ninth to the nineteenth centuries it served a broader geographical area than any language in world history It was the primary language of administration and belles lettres from the Balkans under the earlier Ottoman Empire to Central China under the Mongols and from the northern branches of the Silk Road in Central Asia to southern India under the Mughal Empire Its history is therefore crucial for understanding the function of writing in world history Each of the chapters of Literacy in the Persianate World opens a window onto a particular stage of this history starting from the reemergence of Persian in the Arabic script after the Arab Islamic conquest in the seventh century A D through the establishment of its administrative vocabulary its literary tradition its expansion as the language of trade in the thirteenth century and its adoption by the British imperial administration in India before being reduced to the modern role of national language in three countries Afghanistan Iran and Tajikistan in the twentieth century Two concluding chapters compare the history of written Persian with the parallel histories of Chinese and Latin with special attention to the way its use was restricted and channeled by social practice This is the first comparative study of the historical role of writing in three languages including two in non Roman scripts over a period of two and a half millennia providing an opportunity for reassessment of the work on literacy in English that has accumulated over the past half century The editors take full advantage of this opportunity in their introductory essay PMIRC volume 4 Remapping

Ethnic Minority Cinema in China's Nation-State Building Kwai-Cheung Lo, 2025-02-03 Ethnic Minority Cinema in China's Nation State Building investigates the relationship between cinematic productions about non Han ethnic minorities and China's nation state building project from the early Republican era of the 1920s to the current authoritarian regime in the twenty first century Kwai Cheung Lo argues that the glossy but superficial cinematic depictions of non Han ethnic minorities manufactured and manipulated by state authorities have deeply penetrated the Chinese public's conception of what an ideal multiethnic nation should be like as well as what it means to be Chinese under political unification Lo understands these representations of ethnic minorities as part of a larger ecosystem and the cultures values and life practices of non Han ethnic minorities as closely entwined with environmental issues and politics This intertwining Lo argues suggests a crisis in objectification and identification of both people and the environment that plays out in cinema featuring ethnic minorities Lo traces these depictions of Chinese ethnic minority groups in films created by both Han majority and non Han filmmakers examining how these representations became a site in which state authorities Han and non Han communities and foreign agencies compete and interact under the larger context of building and imagining the Chinese nation state

From Frontier Policy to Foreign Policy Matthew Mosca, 2013-02-20 Between the mid eighteenth and mid nineteenth centuries Qing rulers officials and scholars fused diverse fragmented perceptions of foreign territory into one integrated worldview In the same period a single foreign policy emerged as an alternative to the many localized frontier policies hitherto pursued on the coast in Xinjiang and in Tibet By unraveling Chinese Manchu and British sources to reveal the information networks used by the Qing empire to gather intelligence about its emerging rival British India this book explores China's altered understanding of its place in a global context Far from being hobbled by a Sinocentric worldview Qing China's officials and scholars paid close attention to foreign affairs To meet the growing British threat they adapted institutional practices and geopolitical assumptions to coordinate a response across their maritime and inland borderlands In time the new and more active response to Western imperialism built on this foundation reshaped not only China's diplomacy but also the internal relationship between Beijing and its frontiers

Islam and China's Hong Kong Wai-Yip Ho, 2013-06-07 Hong Kong is a global city state under the sovereignty of the People's Republic of China and is home to around 250 000 Muslims practicing Islam However existing studies of the Muslim majority communities in Asia and the Northwest China largely ignore the Muslim community in Hong Kong Islam and China's Hong Kong skillfully fills this gap and investigates how ethnic and Chinese speaking Muslims negotiate their identities and the increasing public attention to Islam in Hong Kong Examining a range of issues and challenges facing Muslims in Hong Kong this book focuses on the three different diasporic Muslim communities and reveals the city state's triple Islamic heritage and distinctive Islamic culture It begins with the transition from the colonial to the post colonial era and explores how this has impacted on the experiences of the Muslim diaspora and the ways this shift has compelled the community to adapt to Chinese nationalism whilst forging greater links with the Gulf. Then with reference to the rise of new media and technology the book examines the heightened presence of Islam in the Chinese public sphere alongside the emergence of Chinese Islamic websites which have sought to balance transnational Muslim solidarity and sensitivity towards Chinese government's concern of external extremism. Finally it concludes by investigating Hong Kong's growing awareness of the Muslim minorities' demands for Islamic religious education and how this links with the city state's aspiration to become the new gateway for Islamic finance. Indeed Wai Yip Ho posits that Hong Kong is now shifting from its role as the broker that bridged East and West during the Cold War to that of a new mediator between China and the Middle East. Drawing on extensive ethnographic research this book thoughtfully charts a new area of inquiry and as such will be welcomed by students and scholars of Chinese studies, Islamic studies, Asian studies and ethnicity studies.
