

in this, to us is open the Way of finding out the Cause of this Work, by which Jupiter (in Calcination) is more easily changed into an hard Body than Saturn; but not sooner into slowness of Liquefaction than Saturn. And that therefore is, because the Cause of the Hardness of Nature is Sulphur and Argentvive fixed: but the Cause of Liquefaction is twofold, viz. Argentvive and combustible Sulphur. One of which, as to Perfection of Fusion, is sufficient in each Degree thereof; namely, Argentvive, with Ignition, and without Ignition. Therefore, seeing in Jupiter is a large Quantity of Argentvive not truly fixed, a ready swiftness of Liquefaction remains in it, and is not easily separated there-from. The Cause of Mollification is also twofold, viz. Argentvive, and combustible Sulphur. And because the burning Sulphureity is more easily removed from Jupiter, than from Saturn; therefore, one of the Causes of Softness being removed from it, it must necessarily be hardened, being calcined. But Saturn, because it hath both the Causes of Softness strongly conjoyned, is not easily hardened.

Yet there is a Diversity in Softness by Argentvive, and in Softness by Sulphur; because Softness by Sulphur is Cessive, but Softness by Argentvive is Extensive. And this must necessarily be proved by Sight; seeing We see Bodies of much Argentvive, to be of much Extension; but Bodies of little, of little. Therefore Jupiter

The History of Chemistry (Complete) Thomas Thomson, 2020-09-28 Chemistry unlike the other sciences sprang originally from delusion and superstition and was at its commencement exactly on a level with magic and astrology Even after it began to be useful to man by furnishing him with better and more powerful medicines than the ancient physicians were acquainted with it was long before it could shake off the trammels of alchymy which hung upon it like a nightmare cramping and blunting all its energies and exposing it to the scorn and contempt of the enlightened part of mankind It was not till about the middle of the eighteenth century that it was able to free itself from these delusions and to venture abroad in all the native dignity of a useful science It was then that its utility and its importance began to attract the attention of the world that it drew within its vortex some of the greatest and most active men in every country and that it advanced towards perfection with an accelerated pace The field which it now presents to our view is vast and imposing Its paramount utility is universally acknowledged It has become a necessary part of education It has contributed as much to the progress of society and has done as much to augment the comforts and conveniences of life and to increase the power and the resources of mankind as all the other sciences put together It is natural to feel a desire to be acquainted with the origin and the progress of such a science and to know something of the history and character of those numerous votaries to whom it is indebted for its progress and improvement The object of this little work is to gratify these laudable wishes by taking a rapid view of the progress of Chemistry from its first rude and disgraceful beginnings till it has reached its present state of importance and dignity I shall divide the subject into fifteen chapters In the first I shall treat of Alchymy which may be considered as the inauspicious commencement of the science and which in fact consists of little else than an account of dupes and impostors every where so full of fiction and obscurity that it is a hopeless and almost impossible task to reach the truth In the second chapter I shall endeavour to point out the few small chemical rills which were known to the ancients These I shall follow in their progress in the succeeding chapters till at last augmented by an infinite number of streams flowing at once from a thousand different quarters they have swelled to the mighty river which now flows on majestically wafting wealth and information to the civilized world
