Gender And Culture In The 1950s Wsq Fallwinter 2005:

We, Too, Must Love Ann Aldrich, 2015-08-29 A literary lesbian landmark that will transport today's readers to the 1950s homosexual scene Marcia M Gallo author of Different Daughters Three years after the publication of her groundbreaking 1955 bestseller We Walk Alone Ann Aldrich expanded on her journalistic portraits of lesbian subcultures in and around New York in We Too Must Love Inspired by the hundreds of letters she received by women from around the country many reprinted here Aldrich tackled questions of class division explored the diverse careers lesbians held guided readers through the social cliques and bar scenes set the record straight on gay stereotypes observed the differences among the Village Uptown and Brooklyn lesbian communities and hinted at the growing consciousness that would fuel later lesbian and gay rights movements We Walk Alone and We Too Must Love are in effect indispensable guides to a hidden world Advocate.com Simultaneously intimate and investigative subjective and discerning UTNE Magazine Aldrich touched innumerable lives and gave hope to lesbians mired in a harsh and ignorant era Read these books to learn what it was like back then what we believed and how we made a start in the struggle against prejudice Ann Bannon author of The Beebo Brinker Chronicles

Framing Portraits, Binding Albums Shilpi Goswami, Suryanandini Narain, (eds.), 2025-01-06 Long neglected in academic discourse in India family photographs make a silent contribution to the histories of photography marginality and the family In this volume the writers dwell on the importance of family photographs and their visual omnipresence in our daily lives They point out how family photographs have belonged to the vernacular material of visual culture more seen and lived with less written and consciously thought about Attempting to retrieve family photographs from a space of neglect this volume demonstrates how they are fundamental to the microhistories of a nation and its many societies and suggests the importance of such counterarguments to the dominant strains in an emerging discursive space The essays do not offer a comprehensive survey of all types of family photographs in India Instead they present focused insights into chosen areas of interest on the part of the writers Collectively they embrace the intersectionalities of gender caste class and regional trajectories making the politics of representation even more layered with contestations between the historical oral and affective memorialisation surrounding family archives and photographs These concerns centrally inform the essays as they accept and negotiate a terrain shared by all types of narrativisation

House Hold Ann Peters, 2014-02-12 Like the house built by Ann Peters's father on a hill in eastern Wisconsin House Hold offers many views cornfields and glacial lakes fast food parking lots and rural highways Manhattan apartments and Brooklyn brownstones Peters revisits the modern split level where she grew up in Wisconsin remembering her architect father Against the background of this formative space she charts her roaming story through two decades of New York City apartments before traveling to a cabin in the mountains of Colorado and finally purchasing an old farmhouse in upstate New York More than a memoir of remembered landscapes House Hold is also an expansive contemplation of America a meditation on place and property and an exploration of how literature shapes our thinking about the places we live A gifted prose stylist Peters seamlessly combines her love of buildings with her love of books She wanders through the rooms of her past but also through what Henry James called the house of fiction interweaving personal narrative with musings on James Willa Cather William Dean Howells Paule Marshall William Maxwell and others Peters reflects on the romance of pastoral retreat the hazards of nostalgia America s history of expansion and land ownership and the conflicted desires to put down roots and to hit the road Throughout House Hold she asks how places make us who we are Perfectly Average Anna G. Creadick,2010 Analyzes the ascendancy of the cultural ideal of the normal in the aftermath of World War II

Desegregating Desire Tyler T. Schmidt,2013-08 A study of race and sexuality and their interdependencies in American literature from 1945 to 1955 Desegregating Desire examines the varied strategies used by eight American poets and novelists to integrate sexuality into their respective depictions of desegregated places and emergent identities in the aftermath of World War II Focusing on both progressive and conventional forms of cross race writing and interracial intimacy the book is organized around four pairs of writers Chapter one examines reimagined domestic places and the ambivalent desires that define them in the southern writing of Elizabeth Bishop and Zora Neale Hurston The second chapter focused on poets Gwendolyn Brooks and Edwin Denby analyzes their representations of the postwar American city representations which often transpose private desires into a public imaginary Chapter three explores how insular racial communities in the novels of Ann Petry and William Demby were related to non normative sexualities emerging in the early Cold War The final chapter focused on damaged desires considers the ways that novelists Jo Sinclair and Carl Offord relocate the public traumas of desegregation with the private spheres of homes and psyches Aligning close textual readings with the segregated histories and interracial artistic circles that informed these Cold War writers this project defines desegregation as both a racial and sexual phenomenon one both public and private In analyzing more intimate spaces of desegregation shaped by regional familial and psychological upheavals after World War II Tyler T Schmidt argues that queer desire understood as same sex and interracial desire redirected American writing and helped shape the Cold War era s integrationist politics

Envy Jane Gallop,2006-12 Probing scholarly essays chart the transition of a seven deadly sin from penis to the womb

Identities and Place Katherine Crawford-Lackey,Megan E. Springate,2019-11-01 With a focus on historic sites this volume explores the recent history of non heteronormative Americans from the early twentieth century onward and the places associated with these communities Authors explore how queer identities are connected with specific places places where people gather socialize protest mourn and celebrate The focus is deeper look at how sexually variant and gender non conforming Americans constructed identity created communities and fought to have rights recognized by the government Each chapter is accompanied by prompts and activities that invite readers to think critically and immerse themselves in the subject matter while working collaboratively with others

Containing America Nathan Abrams, Julie Hughes, 2000-01-01 The postwar period in America witnessed a tremendous consumer boom that introduced thousands of new items into the mass market The contributors to Containing America challenge our conceptions of Cold War culture by examining a range of such products clothes food television magazines radio and other forms of entertainment in order to shed light on how Cold War discourses actually influenced the practices of ordinary behaviour Their essays address very different sectors of American society in terms of race class ethnicity sexuality and gender thus emphasising the multiplicity diversity and differing nature of the voices that emerged in cultural production and consumption during the 1950s Containing America points out directions for further research and provides a fresh approach for scholars students and others interested in the culture of the Cold War of the 1950s

Finding Feminine Roles Story Kris Scafuto, 2021-04-23 Roles for women were defined by making their families happy or appear happy at all costs Women were expected to be the ideal caring mother perfect homemaker and obedient wife carrying out every wish of her husband Girls were expected to play with dolls be poised and ladylike and without complaint be stand in mothers This book is a firsthand account of what it was like growing up as a female in middle America during the 1950s and living a completely different reality than what society is telling you you should have This memoir is a strongly written description of growing up in a small farm town in the 1950s While growing up in a poor dysfunctional family the author seems to have had no perception that she was a member of one She protected herself from her abusive father and distracted increasingly impaired mother by memorizing every minute feature of the landscape in which they lived and by dropping out of her world and into domains fantasized by other authors while reading her way through half of the one room library in her small farm town
