Gender And Agricultural Development Surveying The Field:

Gender and Agricultural Development Helen Kreider Henderson, 2022-03-29 Agricultural planning and development are crucial to human survival but they usually proceed without any consideration of the importance of gender issues at the production level. Although women have long been prime movers in agriculture their contribution to the world's food supply has been largely ignored and consequently their stake in development has been undermined. This book is both a resource guide and a review of major issues in gender and agriculture which demonstrates that recognizing the contribution of women to agricultural production is a necessary step in development planning. It presents relevant information and research literature regarding women's roles in agriculture in a consolidated and accessible format offering insights into how the inclusion or exclusion of appropriate information at the planning stage can have an impact during implementation. It also provides guidelines for locating information on gender-related agricultural issues and incorporating it into development planning, research and training. The literature reviewed not only calls attention to the work women do in order to improve their access to technology and training but also challenges existing development paradigms. The issues discussed present women's experiences and local knowledge and allude to gender and class inequities that farming women face. Each chapter is intended to help the reader address major gender issues in a specific subject in order to access relevant information and thereby better design and implement appropriate agricultural planning and policies. By synthesizing twenty years of international research Gender and Agricultural Development provides an effective tool for development practitioners to use in training programs or surveys in order to ensure the appropriate collection of gender disaggregated data and for educators to integrate gender issues into courses dealing with social aspects of agricultural systems. Its findings are presented in such a way as to allow them to be easily incorporated into innovative planning for more sustainable and equitable agricultural policies.

The Economics of Ecology, Exchange, and Adaptation Donald C. Wood, 2016-09-08 This book consists of three sections. The first concentrating on ecology further explores the theme of climate change. The second section focuses on exchange transactions and relations in a variety of situations and settings. Finally, papers in the third section share a concern with individual and group adaptations to certain conditions of life.

Gender and Apocalyptic Desire Brenda E. Brasher, Lee Quinby, 2014-12-18 The female body has been an object of oppression and control throughout history. Gender and Apocalyptic Desire exposes the often hidden links between the struggles of women and the conflict of good versus evil. The essays examine the collisions between feminist and apocalyptic thought, the ways in which apocalyptic belief functions as bodily discipline and cultural practice, and how some currents of apocalyptic desire can enable women's equality. A wide range of issues are examined from anti-abortion terrorism to the stigmata of Christ and visions of Mary.

Holding the Line George White Jr., 2005-11-04 The rivalry between the United States and the Soviet Union intensified as Dwight D Eisenhower entered the White House However the burning question for the vast majority of the world's population was not whether they would join the Free World or the Soviet bloc but whether they could achieve meaningful self determination Nowhere did the answer to that question loom larger than in Africa The Eisenhower administration's confrontation with Africa demonstrates the significance of race in the creation and execution of American foreign policy In this new work historian George White Jr explores the ways in which Eisenhower diplomacy influenced by America's racialized fantasies fears and desires turned the Cold War into a global sanctuary for the rehabilitation of Whiteness In turn American statesmen and bureaucrats justified the undermining of democracy and freedom by stuffing the multi faceted realities of African aspirations and Western privileges into the straitjacket of a bi polar worldview Using as its foundation American relations with Ethiopia Ghana South Africa and the Congo Holding the Line demonstrates the power of race to warp perception and to severely limit the parameters and possibilities of human engagement Holding the Line provides a fresh perspective on 1950s era U S foreign relations that remain salient in American diplomacy today This is a book that will be of interest to students of American diplomatic history Critical Race and Whiteness studies American studies and international relations

Mattingly, Ellen R. Hansen, 2022-06-21 There s no denying that the U S Mexico border region has changed in the past twenty years With the emergence of the North American Free Trade Agreement NAFTA the curtailment of welfare programs and more aggressive efforts by the United States to seal the border against undocumented migrants the prospect of seeking a livelihood particularly for women has become more tenuous in the twenty first century In the face of the ironic juxtaposition of free trade and limited mobility this book takes a new look at women on both sides of the border to portray them as active participants in the changing structures of life often engaging in political struggles The contributions including several chapters by Mexican as well as U S scholars examine environmental and socioeconomic conditions on the border as they shape and are shaped by both daily life at the local level and the global economy The contributors focus on issues related to migration both short and long term empowerment especially reflecting shifts in women s consciousness in the workplace and political and social activism in border communities The chapters consider a broad range of topics such as the changing gender composition of the maquiladora work force over the past decade and border women s non governmental organizations and political activism In most of the studies both sides of the border are considered to provide insights into differences created by an international boundary and similarities produced by cross border interactions Together these chapters show the border region to be a dynamic social economic cultural and political context in which women face both obstacles and opportunities for change and make clear the vital role that women play in shaping the border region and their own lives This collection builds on Susan Tiano and Vicki Ruiz s groundbreaking volume Women on the U S Mexico Border by continuing to show the human face of changes wrought by manufacturing and militarization By illustrating the current state of social science research on gender and women s lives in the region it offers fresh perspectives on the material reality of women s daily lives in this culturally and historically rich region Women Farmers and Commercial Ventures Anita Spring, 2000 In this volume case studies reveal that farm women in Africa Asia and Latin America are rapidly becoming more than subsistence producers It explores the societal and domestic changes brought about as women move to positions as wage labourers contract growers and farm owners Agricultural Development and Gender Issues in Malawi Anita Spring, 1995 Two main topics constitute this volume The first concerns general issues and themes on women and development WID The second involves the results of the Women in Agricultural Development Project WIADP a project designed and directed by the author in the 1980s The author examines the results of the project which include data sets specific research findings and policy changes in Malawi The book deals with issues affecting both men and women farmers in the smallholder sector It looks at activities that female and male government workers in the agricultural sector performed in order to raise general awareness of women s agricultural work and to provide agricultural services to smallholder farmers particular women This volume also touches on several of the author s experiences after WIADP including serving as director for the Food and Agriculture Organization FAO s global program on women in agriculture creating and supervising a training program on Gender Analysis and supervising a portfolio of WID projects in Africa Asia Latin America the Caribbean and Near East

Seeking a Richer Harvest Tina Thurston, Christopher T Fisher, 2006-11-25 Subsistence intensification innovation and change have long figured prominently in explanations for the development of social complexity among foragers and horticulturalists and the rise of chiefly societies and archaic states yet there is considerable debate over the actual mechanisms that promote these processes Traditional approaches to the intensification question emphasize population pressure climate change bureaucratic management or even land degradation as prerequisites for the onset of new or changing strategies or the construction and maintenance of agricultural landscapes Most often these factors are modeled as external forces outside the realm of human decision making but recent archaeological research presents an alternative to this suggesting that subsistence intensification is the result of human driven strategies for power prestige and status stemming from internal conditions within a group When responding to environmental adversity human groups were less frequently the victims as they have been repeatedly portrayed Instead human groups were often vigorous actors responding with resilience ingenuity and planning to flourish or survive within dynamic and sometimes unpredictable social and natural milieux
