Gender and Insecurity Jane Freedman, 2017-07-05 This title was first published in 2003 Migration is a phenomenon which is at the heart of global politics and within the EU governments are continually trying to reinforce their controls of migration These controls designed to increase the security of European populations may however have the adverse effect of increasing the insecurity of migrants This is particularly true for the many women who migrate to Europe and find themselves in insecure positions because of their lack of independent legal status the difficulty of access to adequate health and social security provision and their particular vulnerability to both domestic and institutional forms of violence They are often in economically weak positions either unemployed or in badly paid part time or domestic jobs with no forms of social protection Gender and Insecurity addresses these various forms of insecurity and details ways in which they might be addressed Further it looks at the ways in which immigrant women have themselves tried to fight against these insecurities through their own political mobilisation

Security, Insecurity and Migration in Europe Gabriella Lazaridis, 2016-04-01 Having often been framed in terms of security concerns migration issues have simultaneously given rise to issues of insecurity on the one hand security of borders political societal and economic security insecurity in the host country on the other social legal and economic concerns about human security with regard to both EU citizens and migrants entering Europe In terms of state security migration is a core target of increasingly globally networked surveillance capabilities whilst with respect to human security it exposes the gap between the protections that migrants formally enjoy under international law and the realities they experience as they travel and work across different countries Drawing on the latest research from across the EU Security Insecurity and Migration explores the concerns of states with regard to migration and the need to protect the fundamental rights of migrants An interdisciplinary examination of the issues of security and insecurity raised by migration for states their citizens and migrants themselves this book will be of interest to scholars of politics sociology and geography researching migration race and ethnicity human and state security and EU politics and policy Breaking the Binaries in Security Studies Ayelet Harel-Shalev, Shir Daphna-Tekoah, 2020 Drawing on interviews with 100 women soldiers about their experiences in combat this book asks what insights are gained when we take women's experiences in war as our starting point instead of treating them as add-ons to more fundamental or mainstream levels of analysis and what importance these experiences hold for an analysis of violence and for security studies The book provides different perspectives about why it is important to explore women in combat what their experiences teach us and how to consider soldiers and veterans both as citizens and as violent state actors an issue with which scholars are often reluctant to engage Breaking the Binaries in Security Studies raises methodological and theoretical considerations about ways of evaluating power relations in conflict situations and patriarchal structures The International Migration Review, 2005

National Action Plans on Women, Peace and Security Sahla Aroussi, 2017-05-15 At the time of its adoption in October 2000 United Nations Security Council resolution 1325 on Women Peace and Security WPS was hailed as a turning point for women involved in conflicts peacemaking peacekeeping and post conflict reconstruction Resolution 1325 required all efforts aimed at resolving conflicts and building peace to be inclusive gender sensitive and transformative for women In recent years National Action Plans NAPs on WPS have become one of the most commonly used tools by states to channel assess and monitor the implementation of resolution 1325 and other UN WPS resolutions This book presents an edited version of the proceedings of the NATO Advanced Research Workshop ARW on National Action Plans on Women Peace and Security held in Dublin Ireland in May 2016 The workshop brought together representatives from various states as well as academics and members of civil society and international organizations to discuss their experiences with NAPs and to critically reflect on the role of NAPs in supporting the implementation by states of the WPS framework The aim of this book is to disseminate the key arguments findings and recommendations which emerged from the discussions held at the ARW It includes a summary report which sets out key arguments and recommendations and offers a number of key papers from the ARW with the intention of contributing to academic and policy debates concerning gender and armed conflict and more particularly the WPS framework

The Global Political Economy of Sex: Desire, Violence, and Insecurity in Mediterranean Nation States A.

Agathangelou, 2004-10-14 At the intersection of the warmth of hearth and home and the dangers of the street lies the tenuous position of women engaged in reproductive labour those involved in the sex trade and those in domestic positions These are women who are vulnerable exploited and whose dirty work allows for the reproduction of traditional social mores and roles Yet while they are used to sustain tradition dialectically they reflect the hyperconnections of globalization through the migration of women the development of placement agencies that often are little but fronts for transnational crime and the transfer of money from the developed countries to the oppressed world This book focuses on the interaction of the global and the local through a close investigation of the political economy of desire and reproduction in three states that blur the line between developed and developing Greece Turkey and Cyprus These are countries at the crossroads in flux whose peripheral siting at the centre of global capitalism provides unusual insight into the dark recesses of patriarchy paternalism and exploitation

Human Security and Human Rights under International Law Dorothy Estrada-Tanck, 2016-12-01

Human security provides one of the most important protections a person centred axis of freedom from fear from want and to live with dignity It is surprising given its centrality to the human experience that its connection with human rights has not yet been explored in a truly systematic way This important new book addresses that gap in the literature by analysing whether human security might provide the tools for an expansive and integrated interpretation of international human rights The examination takes a two part approach Firstly it evaluates convergences between human security and all human rights civil political economic social and cultural and constructs an investigative framework focused on the human security human rights synergy It then goes on to explore its practical application in the thematic cores of violence against women and undocumented migrants in the law and case law of UN European Inter American and African human rights bodies It takes both a legal and interdisciplinary approach recognising that human security and its relationship with human rights cuts across disciplinary boundaries Innovative and rigorous this is an important contribution to human rights scholarship

Forthcoming Books Rose Arny,2003

Towards Gendering Institutionalism Heather MacRae,Elaine Weiner,2017-07-03 Gender has traditionally proven to be a blind spot for new institutionalists This book bring gender to the fore as a critical aspect of institutions and opens up new avenues to interrogate the dynamics of power and change Casting its empirical lens on the EU where institutional efforts to realize gender equality are quite pronounced the book interrogates attempts to bring about more gender just polities supranationally nationally and more locally The book takes a best case scenario with explicit transformative aims to the social gendered order in order to illuminate how institutions and their gendering help and hinder institutional change In doing so it aims to 1 consolidate and expand the theoretical toolkit in terms of synergies between feminism and new institutionalism s various strands and 2 bring it to bear on the trajectory of Europe s gender equality agenda towards better understanding the institutional and institutionalized challenges to redressing gender inequalities

Gendering Security and Insecurity Navtej K. Purewal,Sophia Dingli,2020-06-05 Security studies and international relations have conventionally relegated gendered analysis to the margins of academic concern most commonly through the women in or women and politics and IR discourse This comprehensive volume contributes to debates which seek to move feminist scholarship away from the reification of the war peace and security economy divides By foregrounding the empirical reality of the breakdown of these traditional divisions the authors pay particular attention to frameworks which query their very existence In doing so the collection as a whole troubles the ubiquitous concept and practices of in security and their effects on differentially positioned subjects By gendering in securities in states of exception and other paradigms of government related to it especially in postcolonial and neocolonial contexts the book provides an approach that allows us to study the complex and interrelated security logics which constitute the messy realities of different and particularly vulnerable subjects lives In other words it suggests that these frameworks are ripe for feminist interventions and analysis of the logics and production of in securities as well as of resistance and hybridisation This book was originally published as an online special issue of the journal Third World Thematics
