Financing for Gender Equality Zohra Khan, Nalini Burn, 2017-03-06 This collection of essays addresses the glaring gap between policy commitments and actual investments in gender equality ranging across sectors and focusing on development aid, peace building and climate funds. Casting a spotlight on the application of gender responsive budgeting in public budgetary policies, systems and processes, the contributions to this volume explore the chequered trajectories of these efforts in Africa, the Asia Pacific, Latin America and Andalus. A Critiquing systems of finance from adherence to neo liberal macroeconomic fundamentals which prioritise fiscal austerity, the book makes a compelling case for reframing and re-prioritizing budgets to comply with human rights standards with a particular view to realizing women's rights. The authors highlight the paltry funding for women's rights organizations and movements and examine the prospects for making financing gender responsive. The specific policy strategy and technical recommendations and the connections across silos which articulate the authors suggested operational levers will appeal to researchers, practitioners, students, policymakers, gender equality and human rights activists alike.

Understanding Climate Change through Gender Relations Susan Buckingham, Virginie Le Masson, 2017-05-08 This book explains how gender as a power relationship influences climate change related strategies and explores the additional pressures that climate change brings to uneven gender relations. It considers the ways in which men and women experience the impacts of these in different economic contexts. The chapters dismantle gender inequality and injustice through a critical appraisal of vulnerability and relative privilege within genders. Part I addresses conceptual frameworks and international themes concerning climate change and gender and explores emerging ideas concerning the reification of gender relations in climate change policy. Part II offers a wide range of case studies from the Global North and the Global South to illustrate and explain the limitations to gender blind climate change strategies. This book will be of interest to students, scholars, practitioners and policymakers interested in climate change, environmental science, geography, politics and gender studies.

National gender profile of agriculture and rural livelihoods Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2023-08-07 In Angola, around 80 percent of farmers are smallholders, so the agriculture sector still represents an important source of income, employment and food for a large part of the population. Women constitute the majority of the labour force in agriculture and are critical agents of change in the fight against rural poverty, hunger and malnutrition. In Angola, 4.8 million women live in rural areas and 38.3 percent of the country's women have agriculture as their main activity. However, inequalities in access to land, agricultural inputs, training and knowledge limit their contribution to agricultural productivity and economic development. At community level, women have low participation in decision making. Angola has made consistent efforts to address existing gender inequalities in the agriculture and labour sectors given the important role that women play in agriculture and the country's food systems.

Although gender mainstreaming in agriculture and rural development sectors is in its early stages in recent years progress has been made to benefit women more consistently This assessment revealed that gender inequalities remain widespread and particularly evident in rural areas despite the progress made in establishing a legal and policy framework for advancing women s rights and gender equality Integrating Gender in Agricultural Development Lila Singh-Peterson,Michelle Carnegie,2019-12-02 This book is grounded in the ideology that an alignment between the conceptual and practical understandings of gender equality is a critical component of sustainable development It draws on six rural case studies to examine the various ways in which gender has been integrated in agricultural research for development projects

Commercialization of Hinterland and Dynamics of Class, Caste and Gender in Rural India Supriya Singh,2017-05-11

There is a great deal of controversy and debate on land acquisition and transactions concerning the economic development of India particularly the rural parts of the country This book explicates from a sociological perspective the effect of increasing land transactions on social mobility based on a detailed study of selected villages in Lucknow India It argues that villages in modern India particularly those close to cities are no longer simple and integrated communities but are rather more heterogeneous complex and mobile as a result of urban expansion and globalization It contextualises land transactions in a political economic model describing in detail the differential relationship between land and the state from ancient times to the present day noting the different laws relating to land and their implications for rural life
