Gender And The Politics Of The Curriculum:

Gender and the Politics of the Curriculum Sheila Riddell, 2012-05-16 This book uses detailed case studies of two secondary schools to examine the relationship between curriculum choice and gender identity among fourteen year old pupils making their first choices about what subjects to pursue at exam level It reveals a two way process Pupils decisions on what subject to take are influenced by how they perceive themselves in gender terms and the curriculum once chosen reinforces their sense of gender divisions The author looks at the influences on pupils at this stage in their lives from peers family and the labour market as well as from teachers She argues that the belief in freedom of choice and school neutrality espoused by many teachers can become an important factor in the reproduction of gender divisions and that unless the introduction of the national curriculum is accompanied by systematic efforts to eradicate sexism from the hidden curriculum it will fail in its aim of creating greater equality of educational opportunity among the sexes

The Gender Politics Of Educational Change Amanda Datnow, 2002-11-01 What is the relationship of gender to the micropolitics of school reform This book explores this timely research question revealing the everyday struggles that happen between different factions of teachers with different definitions of what school means for students The focus of this struggle however may not be on education but rather on such underlying issues as gender Using case studies the author shows how gender politics can be used by teachers to delay reform

Gender, Race, and the Politics of Role Modelling Wayne Martino, Goli Rezai-Rashti, 2012-03-12 This book provides an illuminating account of teachers own reflections on their experiences of teaching in urban schools It was conceived as a direct response to policy related and media generated concerns about male teacher shortage and offers a critique of the call for more male role models in elementary schools to address important issues regarding gender race and the politics of representation By including the perspectives of minority teachers and students and by drawing on feminist queer and anti racist frameworks this book rejects the familiar tendency to resort to role modelling as a basis for explaining or addressing boys disaffection with schooling Indeed the authors argue on the basis of their research in urban schools in Canada and Australia that educational policy concerned with male teacher shortage and the plight of disadvantaged minority boys would benefit from engaging with analytic perspectives and empirical literature that takes readers beyond hegemonic discourses of role modelling A compelling case is presented for the need to disarticulate discourses about role modelling from a politics of representation that is committed to addressing the reality of the impact of racial and structural inequalities on both minority teachers and students participation in the education system The book also provides insight into the persistence of gender inequality as it relates to the status of elementary school teaching as women s work
