Emerging Local Politics in Indonesia Wawan Sobari,2023-10-05 This book provides a richer understanding of democratic local politics in Indonesia after the implementation of local direct elections in 2005 Co published with the University of Airlangga Press it confronts the question as to why incumbent political leaders succeed and fail in their bid for re election By focusing on urban and rural districts in East Java one of the most populated regions in Indonesia the work unpacks the general trends of local Indonesian politics drawing from an empirically sound and theoretically well grounded case study The author demonstrates that good policy performance does not guarantee the political survival of the incumbent and reversibly bad policy performance does not necessarily mean losing political power It considers the core political strategies of populism rivalry and tangibility and cautions that rather than helping liberal democracy to grow these strategies support patronage driven democracy Within this system a small number of vital protectors and defenders control patronage and problematically exert influential control over the country s electoral processes Relevant to scholars and students in Indonesian studies and within political science and Asian studies more broadly this book follows a gripping and nuanced narrative that explains the relationship between policy choices informal politics voting behavior and political survival in Indonesia

Social Town Planning Clara Greed,2002-01-04 Many issues such as access for the disabled childcare facilities environmental matters and ethnic minority issues are excluded from town planning considerations by planning authorities This book introduces the concept of social town planning to integrate planning policy and practices with the cultural and social issues of the people they are planning for Part 1 provides background on the development of a social dimension to the predominantly physical land use based British town planning system Part 2 investigates a representative selection of minority planning topics in respect of gender race age and disability cross linked to the implications for mainstream policy areas such as housing rural planning and transport Part 3 discusses the likely influence of a range of global and European policy initiatives and organisations in changing the agenda of British town planning Planning for healthy cities sustainability social cohesion and equity are discussed Part 4 looks at the problem from a cultural perspective arguing that a great weakness in the British system resulting in ugly and impractical urban design has been the lack of concern among planners with social activities and cultural diversity Alternative more culturally inclusive approaches to planning are presented which might transcend the social spatial dichotomy such as urban time planning Concluding that the process of planning must change the authors agree that the culture and composition of the planning profession must particularly change to be more representative and reflective of the people they are planning for in terms of gender race and minority composition
