Gender Time Use And Poverty In Sub Saharan Africa:

Gender, Time Use, and Poverty in Sub-Saharan Africa C. Mark Blackden, Quentin Wodon, 2006 The papers in this volume examine the links between gender time use and poverty in Sub Saharan Africa They contribute to a broader definition of poverty to include time poverty and to a broader definition of work to include household work The papers present a conceptual framework linking both market and household work review some of the available literature and surveys on time use in Africa and use tools and approaches drawn from analysis of consumption based poverty to develop the concept of a time poverty line and to examine linkages between time poverty consumption poverty and ot Gender Disparities in Africa's Labor Market Jorge Saba Arbaché, Alexandre Kolev, Ewa Filipiak, 2010-08-05 Women's earnings are a fraction of male's earnings in several African countries It is tempting to conclude that this wage gap is a sign of discrimination against women in the labor market Yet this book uses new datasets to show that the gap is not simply the result of discrimination in the labor markets but rather the result of multiple factors including access to education and credit cultural values and household duties and above all labor market conditions It shows that gender disparities grow when economies are not functioning well and labor markets are tiny More than the effect of discrimination it seems that job rationing causes those with better human capital and those with more power in the household usually the men to take the few jobs that are available It is hardly surprising then that in a region where only a fraction of the labor force finds jobs in the formal sector gender disparities in earnings are so high The book further documents that firm level and sector characteristics are additional powerful factors in explaining the gender disparities in the labor market As the causes are not simple neither are the solutions multifaceted strategies are needed By providing environments that support economic growth and more importantly job creation as well as by promoting equal access for women to education and rethinking the attitudes that limit what women may achieve governments in the region will substantially improve the well being of all their peoples Gender Disparities in Africa's Labor Market helps to fill the knowledge gap and identify the links between gender disparities and poverty reduction The work was implemented in collaboration with a range of poverty and labor market studies to maximize its usefulness for policy dialogue in specific countries This book will be of interest to policy makers students academics gender experts and all those interested in gender issues and development

The Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics Célestin Monga,Justin Yifu Lin,2015-07-02 A popular myth about the travails of Africa holds that the continent s long history of poor economic performance reflects the inability of its leaders and policymakers to fulfill the long list of preconditions to be met before sustained growth can be achieved These conditions are said to vary from the necessary quantity and quality of physical and human capital to the appropriate institutions and business environments While intellectually charming and often elegantly formulated that conventional wisdom is actually contradicted by historical evidence and common sense It also suggests a form of intellectual mimicry that posits a unique path to prosperity for all countries regardless of their level of development and economic structure In fact the argument underlining that reasoning is tautological and the policy prescriptions derived from it are fatally teleological low income countries are by definition those where such ingredients are missing None of today's high income countries started its growth process with the required and complete list of growth ingredients Unless one truly believes that the continent of Africa and most developing countries are ruled predominantly if not exclusively by plutocrats with a high propensity for sadomasochism the conventional view must be re examined debated and questioned This volume the second of the Oxford Handbook of Africa and Economics reassesses the economic policies and practices observed across the continent since independence It offers a collection of analyses by some of the leading economists and development thinkers of our time and reflects a wide range of perspectives and viewpoints Africa's emergence as a potential economic powerhouse in the years and decades ahead amply justifies the scope and ambition of the book

The World Bank Research Program, 2005-2007, 2008 This pocket sized reference on key environmental data for over 200 countries includes key indicators on agriculture forestry biodiversity energy emission and pollution and water and sanitation The volume helps establish a sound base of information to help set priorities and measure progress toward environmental sustainability goals

Economic Opportunities for Women in the East Asia and Pacific Region Amanda Ellis,Daniel Kirkwood,Dhruv Malhotra,2010-05-03 The East Asia and Pacific region has made great progress relative to other regions with regard to both economic development and specifically economic opportunities for women However aspiring female entrepreneurs continue to face unequal barriers to starting operating and growing their businesses Not only does this hurt business women in the region but it also ultimately hurts poverty reduction and economic growth Economic Opportunities for Women in the East Asia and the Pacific Region brings together data and available evidence on the constraints that female entrepreneurs in the region face with regard to access to assets business regulations and governance issues and available avenues for expanding businesses and trading with larger markets The authors present recommendations at the end of each chapter This book will be of interest to policy makers donors nongovernmental organizations and researchers looking to further examine the constraints that are holding back female entrepreneurs in East Asia and the Pacific

Data Needs for Gender Analysis in Agriculture Cheryl Doss,2013-04-05 To support gender analysis in agriculture household surveys should be better designed to capture gender specific control and ownership of agricultural resources such as male owned female owned and jointly owned assets This paper offers guidelines on how to improve data collection efforts to ensure that women farmers are interviewed and that their voices are heard Researchers need to clarify who should be interviewed how to structure the interview and how to identify which people are involved in various activities as owners managers workers and decisionmakers It is important not simply to assume that one particular person does these activities based on social norms but instead to ask the questions to allow for a range of answers that can demonstrate how the gender patterns in agriculture are changing To assist in these efforts the paper provides an overview of relevant questions to include emphasizing that whenever questions are asked about ownership and access to resources answers should be associated with individuals Finally collecting data on the institutions that are related to agricultural production and marketing allows analysis of the gender based constraints and opportunities that they present

Engendering the Energy System Joy Clancy,2025-02-13 This book brings together a comprehensive overview of gender and energy to provide an invaluable resource for researchers and practitioners It addresses how energy access at the individual household community level is gendered in terms of decision making and where and how benefits accrue At the institutional level it examines the role women play in the sector and the barriers they have to overcome to participate At the policy level experiences with mainstreaming gender into energy policy are discussed The book provides examples from both the Global South and the Global North and is set in the context of the energy transition The book is a timely publication that highlights the global energy initiatives of SEforAll the SDGs and the Paris Agreement on Climate Change

Gender and Climate Change: An Introduction Irene Dankelman,2012-06-25 Although climate change affects everybody it is not gender neutral It has significant social impacts and magnifies existing inequalities such as the disparity between women and men in their vulnerability and ability to cope with this global phenomenon This new textbook edited by one of the authors of the seminal Women and the Environment in the Third World Alliance for the Future 1988 which first exposed the links between environmental degradation and unequal impacts on women provides a comprehensive introduction to gender aspects of climate change Over 35 authors have contributed to the book It starts with a short history of the thinking and practice around gender and sustainable development over the past decades Next it provides a theoretical framework for analyzing climate change manifestations and policies from the perspective of gender and human security Drawing on new research the actual and potential effects of climate change on gender equality and women's vulnerabilities are examined both in rural and urban contexts. This is illustrated with a rich range of case studies from all over the world and valuable lessons are drawn from these real experiences. Too often women are primarily seen as victims of climate change and their positive roles as agents of change and contributors to livelihood strategies are neglected. The book disputes this characterization and provides many examples of how women around the world organize and build resilience and adapt to climate change and the role they are playing in climate change mitigation. The final section looks at how far gender mainstreaming in climate mitigation and adaptation has advanced the policy frameworks in place and how we can move from policy to effective action. Accompanied by a wide range of references and key resources, this book provides students and professionals with an essential comprehensive introduction to the gender aspects of climate change.

Gender in Agriculture Sourcebook World Bank, Food and Agriculture Organization (FAO), International Fund for Agricultural Development (IFAD), 2008-10-07. The Gender in Agriculture Sourcebook provides an up-to-date understanding of gender issues and a rich compilation of compelling evidence of good practices and lessons learned to guide practitioners in integrating gender dimensions into agricultural projects and programs. It serves as a tool for guidance showcasing key principles in integrating gender into projects, stimulating the imagination of practitioners to apply lessons learned, experiences and innovations to the design of future support and investment in the agriculture sector. The Sourcebook draws on a wide range of experience from World Bank, Food and Agriculture Organization, FAO, International Fund for Agricultural Development, IFAD and other donor agencies, governments, institutions and groups active in agricultural development. The Sourcebook looks at access to and control of assets, access to markets, information and organization and capacity to manage risk and vulnerability through a gender lens. There are 16 modules covering themes of cross-cutting importance for agriculture with strong gender dimensions: Policy, Public Administration and Governance, Agricultural Innovation and Education, Food Security, Markets, Rural Finance, Rural Infrastructure, Water, Land, Labor, Natural Resource Management and Disaster and Post Conflict Management, and specific subsectors in agriculture: Crops, Livestock, Forestry and Fisheries. A separate module on Monitoring and Evaluation is included, responding to the need to track implementation and development impact. Each module contains three different sub-units: 1. A Module Overview gives a broad introduction to the topic and provides a summary of major development issues in the sector and rationale of looking at gender dimension; 2. Thematic Notes provide a brief and technically sound guide in gender integration in selected themes with lessons learned, guidelines, checklists, organizing principles, key questions and key performance indicators; and 3. Innovative Activity Profiles describe the design and innovative features of recent and exciting projects and activities that have been implemented or are ongoing.

Transforming Food Systems for a Rising India Prabhu Pingali, Anaka Aiyar, Mathew Abraham, Andaleeb Rahman, 2019-05-14. This open access book examines the interactions between India's economic development, agricultural production and nutrition through the lens of a Food Systems Approach (FSA). The Indian growth story is a paradoxical one

Despite economic progress over the past two decades regional inequality food insecurity and malnutrition problems persist Simultaneously recent trends in obesity along with micro nutrient deficiency portend to a future public health crisis This book explores various challenges and opportunities to achieve a nutrition secure future through diversified production systems improved health and hygiene environment and greater individual capability to access a balanced diet contributing to an increase in overall productivity The authors bring together the latest data and scientific evidence from the country to map out the current state of food systems and nutrition outcomes They place India within the context of other developing country experiences and highlight India s status as an outlier in terms of the persistence of high levels of stunting while following global trends in obesity This book discusses the policy and institutional interventions needed for promoting a nutrition sensitive food system and the multi sectoral strategies needed for simultaneously addressing the triple burden of malnutrition in India

Sustainable Energy for All 2015 ,2015 Sustainable Energy for All seeks to improve the lives of billions of people across the world and ensure a more sustainable future by working to achieve its three global objectives universal access to energy doubling of the rate of improvement in energy efficiency and doubling of the share of renewable energy in the global energy mix Accountability and transparency are essential for tracking Sustainable Energy for All s global progress Doing so will clarify where the initiative stands how various actions are contributing to the three objectives how much remains to be accomplished and where more action is needed to achieve Sustainable Energy For All This second edition of the SE4ALL Global Tracking Framework provides an update of how the world has been moving towards the three objectives over the period 2010 2012 The report also explores a number of complementary themes First it provides further analysis of the financial cost of meeting the SE4ALL objectives as well as the geographical and technological distribution of the investments that need to be made Second it explores the extent to which countries around the world have access to the technology needed to make progress towards the three goals Third it identifies the improvements in data collection methodologies and capacity building that will be needed to provide a more nuanced and accurate picture of progress over time Finally this new edition of the Global Tracking Framework explores and introduces nexus concepts focusing on the links between energy and four priority areas of development food water human health and gender Links between most of these areas and energy are well established but often presented in isolation of each other

Questioning Financial Governance from a Feminist Perspective Brigitte Young,Isabella Bakker,Diane Elson,2011-08-01 Questioning Financial Governance from a Feminist Perspective brings together feminist economists and feminist political economists from different countries located in North America and Europe to analyze the strategic silence about gender in fiscal and monetary policy and financial regulation This silence reflects a set of assumptions that the key instruments of financial governance are gender neutral This often masks the ways in which financial governance operates to the disadvantage of women and reinforces gender inequality This book examines both the transformations in the governance of finance that predate the financial crisis as well as some dimension of the crisis itself The transformations increasingly involved private as well as public forms of power along with institutions of state and civil society operating at the local national regional and global levels An important aspect of these transformations has been the creation of policy rules often enacted in laws that limit the discretion of national policy makers with respect to fiscal monetary and financial sector policies These policy rules tend to have inscribed in them a series of biases that have gender as well as class and race based outcomes The biases identified by the authors in the various chapters are the deflationary bias male breadwinner bias and commodification bias adding two new biases risk bias and creditor bias The originality of the book is that its primary focus is on macroeconomic policies fiscal and monetary and financial governance from a feminist perspective with a focus on the gross domestic product and its fluctuations and growth paid employment and inflation the budget surplus deficit levels of government expenditure and tax revenue and supply of money The central findings are that the key instruments of financial governance are not gender neutral Each chapter considers examples of financial governance and how it relates to the gender order including divisions of labour and relations of power and privilege This book is key reading for anyone studying feminist economics and should also be of interest to those researching macroeconomics political economics and women s studies
