Negotiating Gendered Discourses Jane L. Christie, 2015-11-25 It has been argued that the first presidential campaign of Michelle Bachelet in Chile and Cristina Fernandez de Kirchner in Argentina used a rhetoric of newness Some political observers have said that as the first women to successfully run for the highest office in these countries they were presented as the new faces of democracy These observers argued that gender was not a determining factor in their electoral success but the focus on this first women frame did generate heavily gendered criticisms of these two candidates Negotiating Gendered Discourses addresses these views by asking how the gender factor is negotiated when women from the Southern Cone of Latin America run for high political office In particular Jane L Christie examines how Bachelet and Fernandez positioned themselves in relation to the numerous women led social movements and in doing so reveals points of intersection between these contemporary political discourses and existing sources of female authority when negotiating complicated ideological debates about human rights the economy and women's rights

Femininity, Feminism and Gendered Discourse Janet Holmes, Meredith Marra, 2010-08-11 The chapters in this book illustrate a range of cutting edge research in language and gender studies with contributions from a number of internationally recognised experts The three themes femininity feminism and gendered discourse are central to research in language and gender and the book thus makes a valuable contribution to a number of current debates Femininity comprises a central aspect of gender performance and the process of gendering individuals is on going and unavoidable For many people the word femininity has associations with frilly pink party dresses with demureness deference and lack of power and influence The first section of this book demonstrates some alternative conceptions of femininity and a range of ways in which femininity is performed in different contexts and cultures The analyses illustrate that we are all continually performing aspects of femininity and masculinity in flexible dynamic ambiguous predictable and unpredictable ways Language and gender research has a long tradition of engagement with the political and specifically with feminism and feminist goals The chapters in the second section of this book demonstrate the value of identifying gendered patterns in order to challenge their potentially repressive effects in social interaction in a range of spheres The researchers analyse contemporary international evidence of sexism in language use including material from Japanese spam emails expressing sexual desire and from media reporting on male and female candidates in the 2007 French elections The final section of this book focuses on the different ways in which we negotiate our gender through discourse Gender is just one of many facets of our intrinsically hybridized social identities Nevertheless it is a very significant facet a salient dimension in everyday life with a pervasive social influence on everything we do and say Interaction is typically viewed through gendered spectacles much of the time The chapters in the third section focus in detail on diverse ways in which gender is constructed through discourse examining the interaction between individual agency and the larger constraining social structures including socio cultural norms within which that agency is enacted Finally the different contributions in this book represent research from a multiplicity of geographic and cultural backgrounds supporting efforts to internationalise language and gender research and to raise awareness of empirical studies undertaken in a wide range of linguistic and cultural contexts studies international studies etc Gender, Discourse and Power in the Cameroonian Parliament Lilian Lem Atanga, 2010

This book investigates gender and power relations in the Cameroonian parliament using a critical discourse analytical approach which focuses on social issues and seeks to expose unequal relations within institutions. The study identifies different gendered discourses within the speeches of Members of Parliament and government ministers. Consciously or unconsciously these participants within parliamentary debates draw on topics that construct women and men in specific ways sometimes sustaining gender stereotypes or challenging existing conditions. The way men and women are constructed using language also is indicative of gender and power relations within this particular community. The study also looks at the way men and women are constructed using traditional discourses of gender differentiation and how some of these discourses get challenged, appropriated or subverted using progressive gendered discourses that advocate equal opportunities, gender equality and gender partnership in development.
