Gendered Domains:

Gendered Domains Dorothy O. Helly, Susan M. Reverby, 2018-08-06 For over two centuries the notion that societies have been sharply divided into women's private and men's public spheres has been used both to describe and to prescribe social life. More recently it has been applied and critiqued by feminist scholars as an explanation for women's oppression. Spanning a rich array of historical contexts from medieval nunneries to Ottoman harems to Paris communes to electronics firms in today's Silicon Valley, the twenty essays collected here offer a pathbreaking reassessment of the significance of the concept of separate spheres. After a theoretical introduction by the editors, certain essays reexamine historians' definitions of public and private realms and show how the imposition of these categories often obscures the realities of power structures and the alterable nature of gender roles. Other chapters consider how the concept of separate domains has been used to control women's actions. Additional essays explore the limits of public-private distinctions focusing on women's working lives, the role of the state in the family, and the ways in which women, including Native North Americans, African Americans, in the birth control movement, and participants in the lesbian bar culture, have themselves reshaped the model of separate spheres. Making available the best papers on the public-private theme delivered at the 1987 Berkshire Conference on the History of Women, Gendered Domains will be welcomed by anyone interested in women's studies, including historians, political scientists, feminist theorists, anthropologists, sociologists, and philosophers.

Makeology Kylie Peppler, Erica Rosenfeld Halverson, Yasmin B. Kafai, 2016-05-20 Makeology introduces the emerging landscape of the Maker Movement and its connection to interest-driven learning. While the movement is fueled in part by new tools, technologies, and online communities available to today's makers, its simultaneous emphasis on engaging the world through design and sharing with others harkens back to early educational predecessors including Froebel, Dewey, Montessori, and Papert. Makers as Learners, Volume 2 highlights leading researchers and practitioners as they discuss and share current perspectives on the Maker movement and research on educational outcomes in makerspaces. Each chapter closes with a set of practical takeaways for educators, researchers, and parents.

Common Worlds and Single Lives Verena Keck, 2020-08-20 In Pacific societies local knowledge which has been accumulated over thousands of years and is irreplaceable is rapidly disappearing With the extinction of languages the ability to observe and interpret the world from varying perspectives is also being lost At the same time an enormous body of knowledge about nature plants and animals is vanishing However in parallel with this the people of the Pacific are confronted with new modes of knowledge and newly introduced technologies through imported educational systems missions of various denominations and the media They do not passively assimilate this knowledge but adopt adapt and apply it in a syncretistic way These changes will have permanent effects on the individual lives of people in the region and their knowledge about themselves and their surrounding world This stimulating book tracks the course of these developments and offers revealing insights into the complexity of Pacific peoples responses to the process of globalization Gender and Politeness Sara Mills, 2003-07-10 Gender and Politeness challenges the notion that women are necessarily always more polite than men as much of the language and gender literature claims Sara Mills discusses the complex relations between gender and politeness and argues that although there are circumstances when women speakers drawing on stereotypes of femininity to guide their behaviour will appear to be acting in a more polite way than men there are many circumstances where women will act just as impolitely as men

Women Traders in Cross-Cultural Perspective Linda J. Seligmann, 2002-03-01 This innovative volume studies women as economic political and cultural mediators of space gender value and language in informal markets Drawing on diverse methodologies multisited fieldwork linguistic analysis and archival research the contributors demonstrate how women move between and knit together household and marketplace activities This knitting together pivots on how household practices and economies are translated and transferred to the market as well as how market practices and economic principles become integral to the nature and construction of the household Exploring the cultural identities and economic practices of women traders in ten diverse locales Bolivia Ghana Hungary India Indonesia Mexico Morocco Nicaragua Peru and the Philippines the authors pay special attention to the effects of global forces national economic policies and nongovernmental organizations on women s participation in the market and the domestic sector The authors also consider the impact that women s economic and political activities in social movements public protests and more hidden kinds of subversive behavior have on state policy on the attitudes of different sectors of society toward female traders and on the dynamics of the market itself A final theme focuses on the cultural dimension of mediation Many women traders straddle cultural spheres and move back and forth between them Does this affect their participation in the market and their identities How do ties of ethnicity or acts of reciprocity affect the nature of commodity exchanges Do they create exchanges that are neither purely commodified nor wholly without calculation Or is it more often the case that ethnic commonalities and reciprocity merely mask the commodification of social and economic exchanges Does this straddling lead to the emergence of new kinds of hybrid identities and practices In considering these questions the authors specify the ways in which consumers contribute to identity formation among market women Constituting Workers, Protecting Women Julie Lavonne Novkov, 2023-06-20

Constitutional considerations of protective laws for women were the analytical battlefield on which the legal community reworked the balance between private liberty and the state's authority to regulate. Julie Novkov focuses on the importance of gender as an analytical category for the legal system. During the Progressive Era and New Deal, courts often invalidated generalized protective legislation but frequently upheld measures that limited women's terms and conditions of labor. The book explores the reasoning in such cases that were decided between 1873 and 1937. By analyzing all reported opinion on the state and federal level as well as materials from the women's movement and briefs filed in the U.S. Supreme Court, the study demonstrates that considerations of cases involving women's measures ultimately came to drive the development of doctrine. The study combines historical institutionalism and feminism to address constitutional interpretation, showing that an analysis of conflict over the meaning of legal categories provides a deeper understanding of constitutional development. In doing so, it rejects purely political interpretations of the so-called Lochner era, in which the courts invalidated many legislative efforts to ameliorate the worst effects of capitalism. By addressing the dynamic interactions among interested laypersons, attorneys, and judges, it demonstrates that no individuals or institutions have complete control over the generation of constitutional meaning. Julie Novkov is Assistant Professor of Political Science, University of Oregon.

Worlds of Gender Sarah M. Nelson, 2007 In Worlds of Gender, ten prominent scholars consider the research on gender and archaeology that has been conducted around the world. The authors discuss the archaeological evidence for gender distinctions from Africa, East Asia, South Asia, Australia, Europe, Mesoamerica, North America, and South America. Although some regions of the world have only been studied sporadically, this volume brings together the totality of the evidence to make it possible to compare sexual roles and identities from far-flung cultures of vastly different time periods. Worlds of Gender is an excellent resource for comparative cultural studies and gender studies as well as a useful examination of how gender roles affect social structures.

Zimmerman, 2012-08-06 This volume focuses on the role of motivational processes such as goals, attributions, self-efficacy, outcome expectations, self-concept, self-esteem, social comparisons, emotions, values, and self-evaluations in self-regulated learning. It provides theoretical and empirical evidence demonstrating the role of motivation in self-regulated learning and discusses detailed applications of the principles of motivation and self-regulation in educational contexts. Each chapter includes a description of the motivational variables, the theoretical rationale for their importance, research evidence to support their role in self-regulation, suggestions for ways to incorporate motivational variables into learning contexts to foster self-regulatory skill development and achievement outcomes.
