Disability and Mobile Citizenship in Postsocialist Ukraine Sarah D. Phillips, 2010-11-26 Sarah D Phillips examines the struggles of disabled persons in Ukraine and the other former Soviet states to secure their rights during the tumultuous political economic and social reforms of the last two decades Through participant observation and interviews with disabled Ukrainians across the social spectrum rights activists politicians students workers entrepreneurs athletes and others Phillips documents the creative strategies used by people on the margins of postsocialist societies to assert claims to mobile citizenship She draws on this rich ethnographic material to argue that public storytelling is a powerful means to expand notions of relatedness kinship and social responsibility and which help shape a more tolerant and inclusive society

Disability, Gender, Bodies and Boundaries Hannah Mason-Bish, 2025-04-26 This book outlines the ways that disabled women experience unwanted touching and intrusive questions when navigating public space Using the framework of feminist disability studies this book takes an intersectional approach to fill a gap in the understanding of how disability and gender are factors in the nature and impacts of unwanted touching. It draws on research from over 70 women and non-binary people to elicit stories and examples with some people living what some described as a smaller life. The methodology was a co-production with a disability activist. This book develops the new concept of Ableist Intrusions to investigate the nature and impacts of such experiences. It considers how non-disabled people should interact with disabled people in order to respect boundaries and bodies.

Gender, Disability, and Tourism in Africa Erisher Woyo, Hellen Venganai, 2022-11-10. This book explores the intersection of gender and disability in the context of tourism. In part, the book foregrounds feminist theorising of intersectionality by examining how gender can overlap with other social identities to contribute to more systemic oppression, domination, discrimination, and marginalisation of certain categories of people. Our point of departure is that disability does not operate in isolation as it is constituted and experienced within an already gendered social and tourism environment. With substantial research on the intersection of gender and tourism on the one hand and the intersection of disability and tourism on the other hand, the interconnectedness of gender and disability and the implications this has on tourism policy and practice remains understudied. Thus, the book provides a critical lens that helps unpack underlying assumptions about gender and disability while questioning the dominant ideas about gender and disability reproduced through tourism policies and institutional practices in an African context. This book will be of interest to scholars and researchers in Gender Studies, Disability Studies, and Tourism Studies, particularly those with a research interest in Africa.

Disability, Gender and Violence over the Life Course Sonali Shah, Caroline Bradbury-Jones, 2018-05-20. This is the first book to explore the interplay of disability, gender, and violence over the life course from researcher, practitioner, and survivor perspectives. It gives due weight to the accounts of disabled children and adults who have survived institutional or individual violence, evidencing barriers to recognition, disclosure, and reporting. Written by disabled and non-disabled women from around the world, Disability, Gender and Violence over the Life Course addresses the dearth of voices and experiences of disabled women and girls in empirical research, policy, and practice on issues of violence, victimisation, protection, support, and prevention. Divided into three parts: Childhood, Adulthood, and Older Life, this collection offers diverse perspectives on the intersectionality of disability, age, ethnicity, sexuality, and violence that have hitherto been absent. This book will be an invaluable resource for students and practitioners of multiple fields of practice and academic studies, including health and social care, nursing, social work, childhood studies, gender studies, disability studies, safeguarding, and child protection, equality and human rights, sociology, and criminology.

The Routledge International Handbook of Disability Human Rights Hierarchies Stephen Meyers, Megan McCloskey, Gabor Petri, 2023-10-31 Disability is defined by hierarchy Regardless of culture or context persons with disabilities are almost always pushed to the bottom of the social hierarchy With the advent of the Convention on the Rights of Persons with Disabilities 2006 disability human rights seemingly provided a path forward for tearing down ableist social hierarchies and ensuring that all persons with disabilities everywhere were treated equally Despite important progress the disability human rights project not only remains incomplete but has often created new hierarchies among persons with disabilities themselves or across the human rights it promotes Certain groups of persons with disabilities have gained new voices while others remain silenced and certain rights are prioritized over others depending on what states international organizations or advocates want rather than what those on the ground need most This volume was inspired both by the continued need to expose human rights violations against persons with disabilities but to also explore the nuanced role that hierarchies play in the spread implementation and protection of disability human rights The enjoyment of human rights is not equal nor is the recognition of specific individuals and groups rights In order to change this situation inequalities across the disability human rights movement must be explored Divided into five parts Who counts as disabled Political social and cultural context Which rights on top whose rights on bottom Pushed to the periphery in the disability rights movement Representations of disability and comprised of 34 newly written chapters including case studies from the Anglophone Caribbean Bangladesh Bosnia Herzegovina China Ghana Haiti Hungary India Israel Kenya Latin America Poland Russia Scotland Serbia and South Africa and other countries this book will be of interest to all scholars and students of disability studies sociology human rights law and social policy
