Butler)* ,2016-10-11 Excerpt from Life and Public Services of Major General Butler Benjamin F Butler The Hero of New Orleans Maryland and assigning General Butler to the command Few who had occasion to visit the ancient town during the latter days of April 1861 will forget the interview which they were compelled to have with the General Corn manding before they could walk at will beyond the walls of the Naval Academy grounds Seated in a large room in the main school building surrounded by his staff and numerous clerks day and night early and late could this representative of New England loyalty be found ever firm in his determination to carry out the regulations be deemed best adapted to the exigency yet always courteous to the hundreds of visitors who thronged his office Troops were despatched actual or suspected rebel emissaries were arrested and examined extensive purchases of supplies were made and citizens were received and their questions or complaints promptly answered There was no confusion no dissatisfaction and General Butler abundantly proved that he was just the man for the position While attending to those around him he also kept his eye upon an important body which had convened at Frederick the Maryland Legislature and gave its members to understand that if they passed an ordinance of secession he would arrest the entire Senate and House of Representatives The annoyances to which he was subjected were sufficient to cause a less energetic officer to fail but there is only one instance on record of his having lost his temper A correspondent of a newspaper who finding the hotels full and the doors of the numerous buildings of the Academy covered with weary soldiers came at midnight to the General's room and besought him to designate the place where he could sleep that night The answer he received and which doubtless he to this day remembers was as follows Sir I have done to day about every thing that a man ever did in this world but I am not going to turn chambermaid About the Publisher Forgotten Books publishes hundreds of thousands of rare and classic books Find more at www.forgottenbooks.com This book is a reproduction of an important historical work Forgotten Books uses state of the art technology to digitally reconstruct the work preserving the original format whilst repairing imperfections present in the aged copy In rare cases an imperfection in the original such as a blemish or missing page may be replicated in our edition We do however repair the vast majority of imperfections successfully any imperfections that remain are intentionally left to preserve the state of such historical works General
