Milton and the Rabbis Jeffrey Shoulson,2001-10-24 Taking as its starting point the long standing characterization of Milton as a Hebraic writer Milton and the Rabbis probes the limits of the relationship between the seventeenth century English poet and polemicist and his Jewish antecedents Shoulson s analysis moves back and forth between Milton s writings and Jewish writings of the first five centuries of the Common Era collectively known as midrash In exploring the historical and literary implications of these connections Shoulson shows how Milton s text can inform a more nuanced reading of midrash just as midrash can offer new insights into Paradise Lost Shoulson is unconvinced of a direct link between a specific collection of rabbinic writings and Milton s works He argues that many of Milton s poetic ideas that parallel midrash are likely to have entered Christian discourse not only through early modern Christian Hebraicists but also through Protestant writers and preachers without special knowledge of Hebrew At the heart of Shoulson s inquiry lies a fundamental question When is an idea a theme or an emphasis distinctively Judaic or Hebraic and when is it Christian The difficulty in answering such questions reveals and highlights the fluid interaction between ostensibly Jewish Hellenistic and Christian modes of thought not only during the early modern period but also early in time when rabbinic Judaism and Christianity began

Philosophy in Stan Brakhage's Dog Star Man Alberto Baracco,2019-03-01 This book shows how a masterpiece of experimental cinema can be interpreted through hermeneutics of the film world As an application of Ric urian methodology to a non narrative film the book calls into question the fundamental concept of the film world Firmly rooted within the context of experimental cinema Stan Brakhage s Dog Star Man was not created on the basis of a narrative structure and representation of characters places and events but on very different presuppositions The techniques with which Brakhage worked on celluloid and used frames as canvases as well as his choice to make the film without dialogue and sound exhort the interpreter to directly question the philosophical language of moving images
