Global Illicit Drug Trends 2002:

Global Illicit Drug Trends, 2003 Global Illicit Drug Trends, 2002 Antonio Maria Costa, 2002-03-01 This report by the U N Office for Drug Control and Crime Prevention is based on data obtained primarily from the annual reports questionnaire sent by Governments to the U N Drug Control Program in 2001 supplemented by other sources The main body of this report presents Estimates of Illicit Drug Production Trafficking and Consumption These statistics are supplemented by a section on Analysis which focuses on different themes each year Today international opiate markets continue to be in a state of flux a result of the drastic reduction in Afghanistan s illicit opium production in 2001 and the resumption of production this year This report thus continues the analysis of illicit opiate markets in a chapter on The Impact of Changes in Afghanistan

International Drug Control into the 21st Century Hamid Ghodse, 2016-12-05 Providing a comprehensive analysis of drug misuse dependence and the ways in which different parts of the world have responded to these problems this volume examines aspects of the contemporary drug problem the related debate and the way in which society is responding to it Various controversial issues are covered taking into account the way in which pressure groups would like to see changes in national and or international drug control regimes The book is drawn from extensive studies carried out by the UN over the last 15 years each of the themes has been examined by a group of experts and lends itself to debate Among the many topics discussed are the legalization of drugs prevention treatment rehabilitation the macro and micro economy supply and demand reduction and money laundering The book will be a valuable resource for professionals and academics in law enforcement health social services behavioural sciences pharmacy and drug regulatory agencies The Political Economy of

Narcotics Julia Buxton, 2013-07-04 This book explores the origins history and organisation of the international system of narcotic drug control with a specific focus on heroin cannabis and cocaine It argues that the century long quest to eliminate the production trade in and use of narcotic drugs has been a profound failure The statistics produced by the international and domestic narcotic drug control agencies point to a sustained expansion of the drug trade despite the imposition of harsh criminal sanctions against those engaged as producers traffickers or consumers in the narcotic drugs market The roots of this major international policy failure are traced back to the outdated ideology of prohibition which is shown to be counterproductive utopian and a fundamentally inadequate basis for narcotic drug policy in the twenty first century Prohibition championed by many US policy makers has left the international community poorly positioned to confront those changes to the drug trade and drug markets that have resulted from globalisation Moreover prohibition based approaches are causing more harm than good as is demonstrated through reference to issues such as HIV AIDS the environment conflict development and social justice As the drug control system approaches its centenary there are signs that the global consensus on narcotic drug prohibition is fracturing Some European and South American states are pushing for a new approach based on regulation decriminalisation and harm reduction But those seeking to revise prohibition strategies faces entrenched resistance primarily by the U S This important text argues that successive American governments have pursued a contradictory approach acting decisively against the narcotic drug trade at home and abroad while at the same time working with drug traffickers and producer states when it is in America s strategic interest As a result US policy approaches emerge as a decisive factor in accounting for the failure of prohibition

Global Illicit Drug Trends 2002 ,2002 This report based on data obtained primarily from the annual reports questionnaires ARQ received by UNDCP in 2001 presents not only the supply side data but also the demand side data in an effort to give a balanced approach in the assessment of the drug problem In addressing the global trends in illicit drug supply and trafficking the report discusses cultivation manufacture trafficking routes methods of transportation and seizures On the demand side the report focuses on global trends the extent of drug abuse drug abuse among youth and prison populations modes of intake and costs and the consequences of drug abuse Comprehensive statistical tables presented for multiple years will greatly facilitate comparative studies

Impact of Market Forces on Addictive Substances and Behaviours David Miller,Claire Harkins,Matthias Schlögl,Brendan Montague,2018 First hand account of the current state of addiction governance in Europe utilising a unique dataset of corporate memberships and networks across the EU to document the overall architecture of corporate political activity and the role addictive substance and behaviour producing industries play in influencing addiction policy in Europe

The ^AWorld Heroin Market Letizia Paoli,Victoria A. Greenfield,Peter Reuter,2009-04-10 This book is the first attempt to describe and analyze the world opiate market It looks at how the Taliban achieved a cutback in heroin production in Afghanistan a longtime goal of national and international drug policy agencies and how that cutback impacted the very robust global market for the drug Based on this and other country studies the authors show that internationally supported interventions on the supply side can open up limited opportunities for curbing consumption

Cocaine, Death Squads, and the War on Terror Oliver Villar,Drew Cottle,2011-11-01 Since the late 1990s the United States has funneled billions of dollars in aid to Colombia ostensibly to combat the illicit drug trade and State Department designated terrorist groups The result has been a spiral of violence that continues to take lives and destabilize Colombian society This book asks an obvious question are the official reasons given for the wars on drugs and terror in Colombia plausible or are there other deeper factors at work Scholars Villar and Cottle suggest that the answers lie in a close examination of the cocaine trade particularly its class dimensions Their analysis reveals that this trade has fueled extensive economic growth and led to the development of a narco state under the control of a narco bourgeoisie which is not interested in eradicating cocaine but in gaining a monopoly over its production The principal target of this effort is the Revolutionary Armed Forces of Colombia FARC who challenge that monopoly as well as the very existence of the Colombian state Meanwhile U S business interests likewise gain from the cocaine trade and seek to maintain a dominant imperialist relationship with their most important client state in Latin America Suffering the brutal consequences as always are the peasants and workers of Colombia This revelatory book punctures the official propaganda and shows the class war underpinning the politics of the Colombian cocaine trade
