Gaudelli,2014-04-04 Reports on and analyzes how teachers and students in three high schools have engaged in global education Intended to help social studies educators reflect on their own thinking and practice Internationalization of Teacher Education Reyes Quezada,2014-07-16 This book proposes to excite readers to engage in conversations on how Schools and Colleges of Education can internationalize teacher education programs so that graduates have global teaching experiences that teacher education curricula include global perspectives and that there are opportunities to have faculty think and teach from a global perspective. The contributions in this book are by authors who have the knowledge and expertise in international teacher education to answer many questions regarding the development of a 21st century competent global teaching force. They describe their experiences, programs and support for the goal of continuing to internationalize Schools and Colleges of Education. The book is designed to be interactive; readers are encouraged to engage themselves in the conversation as the editor invites them to e-mail any of the authors to discuss questions posed. Questions addressed in this issue include defining internationalization, global teacher competency, hearing voices from the field as graduates and faculty share how internationalization has had an impact on teaching, program development and professional and personal development. This book was originally published as a special issue of Teaching Education.

Teaching with a Global Perspective Dawn Bikowski, Talinn Phillips, 2018-11-02. This important book answers the growing call for US institutions to internationalize, create global citizens and better serve diverse populations. Faculty are increasingly tasked with simultaneously encouraging a more inclusive worldview, facilitating classroom environments that harness the potential of students and advising students who may need an array of university services or speak English as an additional language. Teaching with a Global Perspective is an accessible, hands-on tool for faculty and instructors seeking to facilitate global classroom environments and to offer diverse students the academic language and interpersonal support needed for success. Rich with practical features including Classroom Strategies, Assessments, Case studies, Discussion Questions and suggestions for further reading in bibliographies, chapters address developing a working understanding of global learning and inclusivity, identifying opportunities and barriers to helping students grow as global citizens, building confidence in teaching with a global perspective, facilitating courses and in-class participation that promote global and inclusive learning and communication between diverse populations, designing curricula, courses, assignments and assessments that foster global and inclusive learning and support students with varied needs and providing facilitative responses to students' academic work. Teaching with a Global Perspective bridges an important divide in discussions about globalizing curricula by developing readers' content knowledge while also helping them to develop more effective global communication strategies.

Critical Global Perspectives Binaya Subedi, 2010-03-01. The primary purpose of this book is to invite educators to re-think what it means to critically conceptualize knowledge about the world. In other words, imagining curriculum in a critical way means decolonizing mainstream knowledge about global societies. Such an approach re-evaluates how we have come to know the world and asks us to consider the socio-political context in which we have come to understand what constitutes an ethical global imagination. A critical reading of the world calls for the need to examine alternative ways of knowing and teaching about the world, a pedagogy that recognizes how diverse subjects have come to view the world. A critical question this book raises is: What are the radical ways of re-conceptualizing curriculum knowledge about global societies so that we can become accountable to the different ways people have come to experience the world Another question the book raises is how do we engage with complexities surrounding social differences such as gender race ethnicity religion etc in the global contexts Analyzing global issues and events through the prism of social difference opens up spaces to advocate a transformative framework for a global education curriculum Transformative in the sense that such a curriculum asks students to challenge stereotypes and engages students in advocating changes within local global contexts A critical global perspective advocates the value of going beyond the nation state centered approach to teaching about topics such as history politics culture etc It calls for the need to develop curriculum that accounts for transnational formations an intervention that asks us to go beyond issues that are confined within national borders Such a practice recognizes the complicated ways the local is connected to the global and vice versa and cautions against creating a hierarchy between national and global issues It also suggests the need to critically examine the pitfalls of forming dichotomies between the local or the national and the global or the center and the periphery

Creating the Global Classroom Laurence Peters, 2022-03-10 The book examines how to begin to think like a global educator first by examining how our own histories and experiences have formed our own cultural and professional identities and second how the varied frames by which global education can be understood pedagogical ideological and cosmopolitan have shaped the field Laurence Peters connects theory and practice about global education relevant to cultivating global awareness in primary and secondary students Rather than seeing global education as a special field separate from the other disciplines the author encourages integration of global perspectives into everything we do Showcasing how global awareness is a developmental issue dependent upon the student's ability to step outside of their own place based comfort zone this volume lays out a roadmap of major challenges and issues around instilling this awareness in students This book connects theory and practice about global education relevant to cultivating global awareness in primary and secondary students From this foundation the book engages with the challenge of integrating global perspectives within a crowded curriculum By convincing students and teachers alike of global education's centrality thinking globally becomes an integral component of learning across subject areas and grade levels and this work encourages students to exercise empathy for the other and to develop critical skills to see through media distortions and fake news so they can better resist the tendency of politicians in our increasingly multicultural countries to divide people along racial and ethnic lines

Teacher Education Policy and Research Diane Mayer, 2021-09-19 In this book leading teacher education researchers from Australia Belgium Canada England Finland Hong Kong SAR the Netherlands New Zealand North Ireland Portugal Scotland the USA and Wales examine teacher education policy and research in each of their contexts The book highlights the connections and disconnections between teacher education policy and research It examines contemporary challenges and issues in teacher education including how high quality teacher education is framed how teaching quality is framed and the role of teacher education research It also considers future policy and research possibilities and opportunities for teacher education research equity and preparing teachers for work within contexts of super diversity and early career teaching Global Perspectives on Developing Professional Learning Communities Nicholas Sun-Keung Pang, Ting Wang, 2018-03-21 This book discusses distinctive features of the professional learning community concept practices and processes across six different education systems in the Asia Pacific region namely Mainland China Hong Kong Taiwan South Korea Singapore and the United States It was originally published as a special issue of the Asia Pacific Journal of Education Global Perspectives on Education Research, Vol. II Liesel Ebersöhn, Ingrid Gogolin, 2023-05-31 Presenting a wide range of new research from World Education Research Association WERA affiliated scholars pertaining to democracy and education this volume including topics such as school readiness in Mongolia high stakes teacher evaluation policy in Japan and family and community involvement in global educational advocacy This collection arrives at a time of extreme global challenges leaving researchers teachers students families and policymakers without a baseline of how to act react and be proactive to stem the chronic flow of disruption to global education systems These challenges require researchers worldwide to consider how evidence can support individuals and systems to buffer against extreme global health distress and conflict whilst simultaneously supporting the continued functioning of education systems and processes Such processes must allow students teachers leaders administrators and members of the educational communities to retain positive self esteem and maintain supportive relationships and systems that provide the appropriate conditions for such processes Global Perspectives on Education Research pulls together contributions from different contexts and cultures to distil vistas and research results that can enlighten a worldwide community of researchers education professionals and practitioners as well as policymakers and local national or supra national decision makers This text is also the ideal companion for educators and leaders alike as they navigate the uncertainty within global health and social justice Teaching World Studies David Hicks, Charles Townley, 1982 Leading Futures Alma Harris, Michelle S. Jones, 2015-11-14 A first of its kind book on educational leadership with a global perspective This book offers multiple perspectives on educational leadership from the viewpoint of scholars policymakers and practitioners It considers leadership in context and highlights the importance of cultural influences in shaping and forming leadership practices It is primarily concerned with leading futures and the challenges faced by leading schools and school systems in an era of fast paced technological change It looks at leadership practices across four different levels system professional leader and learner and explores the connections therein The book argues that these four levels are often viewed and described independently but in reality they are inherently interconnected and integrally related In short this book takes a multilevel multicultural and multicontextual look at contemporary educational leadership practice Through this comparative lens it presents new ideas knowledge and insights that would be relevant and ultimately useful to educational leaders around the globe Promoting Global Competence and Social Justice in Teacher Education David Schwarzer, Beatrice L. Bridglall, 2015-03-06 Promoting Global Competence and Social Justice in Teacher Education reconceptualizes the purpose of education to include the attainment of global or cosmopolitan perspectives This goal has important implications for how we not only educate today s students but also how we prepare teachers to teach in a diverse and complex world in which habits of perspective inquiry imagination empathy communication commitment humility integrity and judgment increasingly resonate in importance This book advocates for preparing teacher candidates to acquire a nuanced global perspective of their subject areas and be prepared to handle the demands of educating students for our changing global context To this end Promoting Global Competence and Social Justice in Teacher Education encourages the development of pedagogical strategies that will enable students to consider multiple perspectives and cultivate respect for diverse peoples and cultures International Mindedness Lesley Stagg,2013 The world is constantly evolving continuing globalisation creating a globally mobile workforce and their families who are international both in outlook and in their educational needs Schools are growing exponentially and parents are seeking the best international learning opportunities for their children Many schools are similarly recognising that old practices are not sufficient to create the twenty first century learners or learning that the world seeks But how do you make international mindedness a central purpose of your teaching and philosophy Brought together for the first time b
