disagree with Gary Becker's argument that addiction is the result of rational choice. The volume offers an exposition of the neurophysiology of addiction, a critical examination of the Becker theory of rational addiction, an argument for a visceral theory of addiction, a discussion of compulsive gambling as a form of addiction, several discussions of George Ainslie's theory of hyperbolic discounting, analyses of social causes and policy implications, and an investigation of the problem of relapse.

Breakdown of Will George Ainslie, 2001-03-19 Ainslie argues that our responses to the threat of our own inconsistency determine the basic fabric of human culture. He suggests that individuals are more like populations of bargaining agents than like the hierarchical command structures envisaged by cognitive psychologists. The forces that create and constrain these populations help us understand so much that is puzzling in human action and interaction, from addictions and other self-defeating behaviors to the experience of willfulness, from pathological over control and self-deception to subtler forms of behavior such as altruism, sadism, gambling, and the social construction of belief. This book integrates approaches from experimental psychology, philosophy of mind, microeconomics, and decision science to present one of the most profound and expert accounts of human irrationality available. It will be of great interest to philosophers and an important resource for professionals and students in psychology, economics, and political science. Globalization and the Postcolonial World Ankie

Hoogvelt, 2001-06-11 Finally, the conclusions have been rethought in the light of the mushrooming cloud of antiglobalist protests. Human Centered Organizational Culture Maria-Teresa Lepeley, Oswaldo Morales, Peter Essens, Nicholas J. Beutell, Nicolas Majluf, 2021-03-10 This book is part of the Human Centered Book Trilogy, the 2021 volumes of the Routledge Human Centered Management (HCM) Series. HCM books are pioneering transformation from the traditional humans as a resource approach of the industrial past to the humans at the center management and organizational paradigm of the 21st century. HCM is built on talent and wellbeing of people in the workplace, driving work engagement, quality standards, high performance, and productivity for long-term organizational sustainability in the global VUCA (volatile, uncertain, complex, ambiguous) environment. This book was carefully crafted by recognized international human-centered scholars from four continents. Although all organizations seek to have an optimal culture, unstoppable disruptions in the VUCA environment easily derail even the best efforts. Conventional assumptions of culture as a unifying organizational force are hardly defensible today. HCM maintains that culture is not only about cohesiveness and consensus but effective management of conflict and disagreements, continuously testing the capacity of people to work together. This book is about organizational transformation, positioning people at the center. Complementary chapters integrate as antidotes to overcome disruptions in the VUCA environment and the effects of the COVID-19 pandemic affecting people and organizations worldwide. This and its two complementary titles, Soft Skills for Human Centered Management and Global Sustainability and Sensible Leadership, are timely readings for leaders, managers, researchers, academics, practitioners, students, and the general public responsible for organizations across industries and sectors worldwide pursuing quality.
