Globalism And Localism In Telecommunications:

Globalism and Localism in Telecommunications Eli M. Noam, Alex J. Wolfson, 1997 Hardbound The telecommunications industry is being transformed by contradictory forces on the one hand the trend toward global expansion by carriers and on the other hand fragmentation and entry in local communications These transformations represent two sides of the same issue a blurring of market boundaries created through technical innovation policy liberalization user initiatives and entrepreneurialism The result is a complex web of overlapping network definitions product and service markets carrier types technical standards government policies financial arrangements and cooperative ventures This volume discusses the complexities of these bi polar forces and maps out the policy issues which need to be addressed today and in the future

Building Telecom Markets Whasun Jho, 2013-08-27 The mobile telecommunication industry has been one of the fastest growing industries in the global economy since the late 1990s As the first country to offer commercial Code Division Multiple Access CDMA cellular service in the world Korea was able to jump right into the digital mobile markets enhancing its status as a leading manufacturer of mobile equipment While the growth of the telecom industry occurred with the emergence of worldwide market oriented regulatory reform and liberalization in telecommunications the state market relationship in Korea evolved from state monopoly toward centralized governance and later toward flexible governance which is substantially different from liberal governance of the US This book examines the uniqueness of Korean regulatory reforms of the mobile telecommunication sector and argues that the market oriented regulatory reform and liberalization should be explained by focusing on the interactions among the state the private sector and international political economic environment It will appeal to scholars and policy makers alike concerned with market regulation Asian development and political economy

Telecommunications Reform in the Asia-Pacific Region Allan Brown, Moazzem Hossain, Duc-Tho Nguyen, 2005-02-24 This book attempts to draw lessons from the experiences of developed as well as developing countries in carrying out telecommunications reform Contributors come from academia as well as from stakeholders in telecommunications policy in a dozen countries mostly in the Asia Pacific region Globally the telecommunications industry is undergoing major changes technological advances in the form of a vast number of new digitised services ownership shifts as state owned carriers in many countries become fully or partly privatized and a general transition from monopolistic to more competitive market environments The economic and regulatory experiences derived from these changes are explored and analyzed using the USA the UK Australia and Singapore to represent developed and newly industrialized countries and China India Indonesia Malaysia the Philippines Sri Lanka Thailand and Vietnam as examples of developing countries The conclusions outlined in this timely volume hold important lessons for these as well as for other countries

Globalism, Localism and Identity Tim O'Riordan, 2010-09-23 Global economic and social forces are affecting everyone everywhere However their influence is shaped by local communities interpretation of these forces and responses to them Social identities provide a guide they are the product of history culture economy patterns of governance and degree of community cohesion How the global and the local connect and reconfigure at various scales and through different cultures is explained in this forward looking volume The book s thesis namely that localism is the crucial complement to globalism is supported by a range of European case studies Local responses to globalizing forces depend on the nature of the interlinkages in governance from international structures through multilateral organizations to nation states regions and localities as these are mediated through social local identity The contributors draw on numerous themes in examining the interaction between the global and the local such as decay and revitalization local identity and empowerment opportunism through sustainability and governance for the transition This is a pioneering publication utilizing an innovative person centred methodology It makes an original and important contribution to the study of contemporary societies and is aimed at anyone interested in the social economic political cultural and environmental implications of any move towards sustainability

Networking and Telecommunications: Concepts, Methodologies, Tools, and Applications Management Association, Information Resources,2010-01-31 This multiple volume publications exhibits the most up to date collection of research results and recent discoveries in the transfer of knowledge access across the globe Provided by publisher

Internationalizing the Internet Byung-Keun Kim,2005-01-01 This compelling book focuses on the global formation of the Internet system It contests the common belief that the Internet s adoption was inevitable and instead examines the social and economic processes that allowed it to prevail over competing standards and methods for achieving a global information infrastructure Researchers and academics involved with science and technology policy industrial and corporate change and the information society will welcome this insightful original and highly pertinent book It will also be of value for anyone with an interest in how the backbone of the digital economy was formed

BOOK JACKET Telecoms in the Internet Age Martin Fransman,2002 The telecoms industry is one of the most important in the global economy Without it the Internet and Information Society would not exist But how does it work How has it been changed by the Internet Why was 2 500 billion wiped off its stock market value in 2000 1 How have its incumbent operators such as ATandT BT Deutsche Telekom France Telecom and NTT and their aggressive rivals for example WorldCom Qwest and COLT adjusted to the radical changes sweeping the industry Why has Japan succeeded but Europe failed in creating the latest incarnation of the industry themobile Internet These are some of the key questions analysed The book begins with an explanation of the telecoms boom and bust 1996 2002 It tackles the questions regarding who was to blame and why and also examines the consequences of the bust An analytical framework is created to understand the main forces driving the telecoms industry as it istransformed by the Internet into the infocommunications industry It is shown that knowledge in its various manifestations and changes in knowledge are responsible for the key changes that have taken place The foundation of the infocommunications industry comprises a combination of specialist technology suppliers such as Cisco Nokia NEC and Nortel and network operators Their changing relationship lies at the heart of the forces driving the industry

The author looks at how these changes have affected the struggles of the incumbent network operators and their new entrant rivals. He also analyses some of the main new entrepreneurs in the industry looking at why they managed to enter so successfully, what has become of them and why. The continuing changes in the knowledge base of the industry are examined as are some of the latest developments in the mobile Internet. Finally, the future of the industry is confronted. The book is complemented by the interactive web site www.TelecomVisions.com.

Governance in "Cyberspace": Access and Public Interest in Global Communications Klaus Grewlich, 1999-11-09 Cyberspace is the emerging invisible intangible world of electronic information and processes stored at multiple interconnected sites. The digital revolution leads to convergence of telecommunications, computer, Internet and broadcasting and to dynamic multimedia value chains. Deregulation and competition are major driving forces in the new interactive electronic environment. This volume contains normative proposals for cyber regulation including self regulation grounded on developments in the EU, US and the Far East in international organisations, WTO, OECD, WIPO, ITU, in business fora, in NGOs in the Internet community and in academic research. The multi actor government, business, civil society and multi level analysis of subsidiarity pertains e.g. to ex ante and ex post access, regulation, competition, network economics, external effects, essential facilities, public interest, principles, human dignity, free speech, privacy, security, development and culture, consumer protection, cryptography, domain names and copyright. Lawyers, regulators, business executives, investment bankers, diplomats and civil society representatives need shared essentials of plurilateral governance to safeguard both competition and public interest objectives at a scale congruent to cyberspace in the transition to an international law of cooperation.

Interconnecting the Network of Networks Eli M. Noam, 2001-08-17 This book describes the transformation of telecommunications from national network monopolies to a new system, the network of networks, and the glue that holds it together, interconnection. By their very nature, monopoly owned networks provided a small number of standardized nationwide services. Over the past two decades, however, new forces in the world economy began to unravel this traditional system. The driving force behind the change was the shift toward an information based economy. Especially for large organizations, the price, control, security and reliability of telecommunications became variables requiring organized attention. Thus, monopoly began to give way to the network of networks, the foundation of today's telecommunications and Internet infrastructure. Taking a broad multidisciplinary perspective, Eli Noam discusses the importance and history of interconnection policy as well as recent policy reforms both within the United States and around the globe. Other important topics he discusses include interconnection prices, the unbundling of interconnection and the technology of interconnection. He concludes with an examination of social and policy issues including the free flow of content, universal service and privacy protection and the future of telecommunications.

Competition, Regulation, and Convergence Sharon E. Gillett, Ingo Vogelsang, 1999-09-01 The telecommunications industry has experienced dynamic changes over the past several years and those exciting events and developments are reflected in the chapters of this volume. The Telecommunications Policy Research Conference TPRC holds an unrivaled place at the center of national public policy discourse on issues in communications and information TPRC is one of the few places where multidisciplinary discussions take place as the norm The papers collected here represent the current state of research in telecommunication policy and are organized around four topics competition regulation universal service and convergence The contentious competition issues include bundling as a strategy in software competition combination bidding in spectrum auctions and anticompetitive behavior in the Internet Regulation takes up telephone number portability decentralized regulatory decision making versus central regulatory authority data protection restrictions to the flow of information over the Internet and failed Global Information Infrastructure initiatives Universal service addresses the persistent gap in telecommunications from a socioeconomic perspective the availability of competitive Internet access service and cost modeling The convergence section concentrates on the costs of Internet telephony versus circuit switched telephony the intertwined evolution of new services new technologies and new consumer equipment and the politically charged question of asymmetric regulation of Internet telephony and conventional telephone service

Handbook of Research on Global Diffusion of Broadband Data Transmission Dwivedi, Yogesh K., Papazafeiropoulou, Anastasia, Choudrie, Jyoti, 2008-02-28 Explores broadband adoption and the digital divide through a global perspective Presents research on constructs such as relative advantage utilitarian outcomes hedonic outcomes and service quality Provides multicultural insight into what factors influence consumers decisions to adopt broadband

Internet Governance and the Global South A. Bhuiyan, 2014-05-29 A welcome addition to Palgrave's Global Media Policy and Business series Internet Governance and the Global South documents the role of the global south in Internet policymaking and challenges the globalization theories that declared the death of the state in global decision making Abu Bhuiyan argues that the global Internet politics is primarily a conflict between the states the United States of America and the states of the global south because the former controls Internet policymaking The states of the global south have been both oppositional and acquiescing to the sponsored policies of the United States on Internet issues such as digital divide multilingualism intellectual property rights and cyber security They do not oppose the neoliberal underpinnings of the policies promoted by the United States but ask for an international framework to govern the Internet so that they can work as equal partners in setting norms for the global Internet

Industry Structure and Pricing Mark A. Jamison, 2013-03-09 Industry Structure and Pricing The New Rivalry in Infrastructure extends current economic models by incorporating effects of actual and potential rivalry in markets outside the markets of immediate interest Focusing on the contestable model the author shows how diverse patterns of actual and potential rivalry called multilateral rivalry or MLR affect the appropriateness of many regulatory policies It is specifically shown that many conclusions of the contestability literature are overly generous to firms that might want to protect or extend their monopoly positions While this book's refinement to existing economic theory gives strong results it is still based on static production functions and demands integrated to provide a dynamic view of multilateral rivalry

Globalism/Localism at Work Jorge Carrillo Viveros, Leni Beukema, 2004-12-30 In this volume the focus is on the interrelations of the global and the local in their consequences for work The process of restructuring of work is analyzed as an ongoing locally situated process in which actors within work organizations play an important role Nevertheless when taking the context of work organizations into account the increasing importance of the global on the local processes is obvious Local practices keep their central importance but the global doesn't function only as a context for the local anymore but forms more and more a practice of itself in which an increasing number of actors play their part As we can see on the World Wide Web people and firms are both emitters and receptors and act on the local and global level at the same time Local diversity in a world with increasing interdependencies is shown in a number of contributions from different parts of the world These contributions are clustered around two main themes Labor markets in global and local scenarios From industry to services Global industries Restructuring and local jobs The many case studies presented shed light to the diversity that occurs in different local situations

Media Ownership and Concentration in America Eli Noam, 2009-10-19 People have worried for many years about the concentration of private power over the media as evidenced by controversy over Federal Communication Commission rulings on broadcast ownership limits The fear it seems is of a media mogul with a political agenda a new William Randolph Hearst who could help start wars or run for political office using the power of the media In the light of these concerns about freedom of speech Eli Noam provides a comprehensive survey of media concentration in America covering everything from the early media empire of Benjamin Franklin to the modern day cellular phone industry

Globalisation Christopher Sheil, 2001 Ranging over aspects of modern life that are changing rapidly such as finance transport telecommunication media education health welfare democracy and industry this volume seeks to examine the possibilities and limitations of the future Based on economic analysis this collection of essays examines the character of globalization the processes and how they operate and the extent of globalization The contributors assess current government policy other local responses they propose alternative policies and they suggest alternative responses to market forces

Who Owns the World's Media? Eli M. Noam, 2016 Who Owns the World's Media moves beyond the rhetoric of free media and free markets to provide a dispassionate and data driven analysis of global media ownership trends and their drivers Based on an extensive data collection effort from scholars around the world the book covers 13 media industries including television newspapers book publishing film search engines ISPs wireless telecommunication and others across a 10 25 year period in 30 countries

Splintering Urbanism Steve Graham, Simon Marvin, 2002-09-11 Splintering Urbanism makes an international and interdisciplinary analysis of the complex interactions between infrastructure networks and urban spaces It delivers a new and powerful way of understanding contemporary urban change bringing together discussions about globalization and the city technology and society urban space and urban networks infrastructure and the built environment developed developing and post communist worlds With a
