Globalization and Poverty Ann Harrison, 2007-11-01 Over the past two decades the percentage of the world's population living on less than a dollar a day has been cut in half How much of that improvement is because of or in spite of globalization While anti globalization activists mount loud critiques and the media report breathlessly on globalization's perils and promises economists have largely remained silent in part because of an entrenched institutional divide between those who study poverty and those who study trade and finance Globalization and Poverty bridges that gap bringing together experts on both international trade and poverty to provide a detailed view of the effects of globalization on the poor in developing nations answering such questions as Do lower import tariffs improve the lives of the poor Has increased financial integration led to more or less poverty How have the poor fared during various currency crises Does food aid hurt or help the poor Poverty the contributors show here has been used as a popular and convenient catchphrase by parties on both sides of the globalization debate to further their respective arguments Globalization and Poverty provides the more nuanced understanding necessary to move that debate beyond the slogans

Poverty Reduction Strategies in Africa Mike O. Odey, Toyin Falola, 2017-09-08 A fundamental question about contemporary Africa is why does Africa remain so poor long after the departure of the European Colonial domination and in the midst of so many natural resources Poverty Reduction Strategies in Africa provides new understandings of the persistent issue of poverty in Sub Saharan Africa and makes recommendations for policy frameworks to help African governments alleviate poverty Each chapter uses case studies to review the old strategies for resolving the problem of poverty in the continent and make the case for new initiatives to address poverty The contributors focus on practical and day to day issues as the best approach to formulate and implement poverty reduction strategies in contemporary Africa This book is invaluable

Thompson,2008-09-19 The Ethics of Agricultural Intensification An Interdisciplinary and International Conversation Paul B Thompson and John Otieno Ouko Global agriculture faces a number of challenges as the world approaches the second decade of the third millennium Predictions unilaterally indicate dramatic increases in world population between 2010 and 2030 and a trend in developing countries toward greater consumption of animal products could multiply the need for production of basic grains even further Although global food production in 2000 was estimated to be adequate for the existing population hunger and malnutrition are persistent problems that have led decision makers to recognize that increasing food production in specific regions may be the most effective way to address food security for impoverished peoples At the same time there will need to be policy adjustments that improve poor people s access to current food supplies without simultaneously undercutting the ability of local producers to obtain needed cash income What is more the uncertain effects of global climate change on agricultural ecosystems complicate planning for this process while poorly understood processes of globalization create additional unknowns from the side of social systems In short despite surpluses in many parts of the developed world finding ways to increase food production on both selected regional and a total global basis remains a priority for many farmers policy makers and agricultural researchers Performance of direct seed marketing pilot program in Ethiopia: Lessons for scaling-up Mekonen, Leulseged Kasa, Minot, Nicholas, Warner, James, Abate, Gashaw T., This study evaluates the impact in the main cropping season of 2015 of a new approach to the distribution of improved seed in Ethiopia known as Direct Seed Marketing DSM Under DSM seed producers are allowed to sell seed directly to farmers in contrast to the conventional seed marketing CSM system in which seed passes from seed producers to regional Bureaus of Agriculture to woreda Agricultural Offices to Development Agents cooperative unions and primary cooperatives who in turn sell the seed to farmers The study is based on a survey of 800 farmers 118 agricultural extension workers 75 seed sellers and 24 seed producers in Amhara Oromia Southern Nations Nationalities and Peoples SNNP and Tigray regions The performance of the DSM program in 2015 was evaluated on eight criteria seed availability sufficiency of supply timeliness of delivery seed pricing quality ensuring accountability for low quality seed ease of purchase and use of public resources The results indicate that DSM had heterogeneous effects across the different regions showing the need to strengthen the sharing of experiences with the program across the regions of Ethiopia to scale up DSM s benefits However when we consider the overall DSM program without regional disaggregation the DSM and CSM systems do not differ significantly on most of the eight criteria although DSM required significantly less of the time of the farmer level agricultural extension agents the Development Agents DSM performed as well as CSM across the eight criteria examined while requiring 39 percent less time for the involvement the Development Agents Farmers subjective views of DSM were quite positive On most criteria 50 to 65 percent of farmers said DSM performed better or much better than CSM The study also identifies specific areas where the performance of DSM needs to be improved A review of international experience with seed systems is used to provide some additional recommendations regarding the longer term development of seed systems in Ethiopia Schooling and Difference in Africa George Jerry Sefa Dei, Riyadh Ahmed Shahjahan, Sharon Eblaghie Bahador, Alireza Asgharzadeh, 2006-01-01 Since the 1950s when most African countries gained political independence schooling has presented very difficult challenges In the discussion of these challenges however the issue of diversity has received relatively little attention Schooling and Difference in Africa aims to understand how differences such as ethnicity class gender language religion and disability play out in African schools systems and more specifically in Ghana Together George J Sefa Dei Alireza Asgharzadeh Sharon Eblaghie Bahador and Riyadh Ahmed Shahjahan promote educational inclusion in the context of African schooling The aspects of diversity explored in this study include minority majority relations race ethnicity gender language class religion and physical disability The authors build their analyses of these issues around a series of interviews which project a perspective that policy makers and administrators rarely seek out By studying the challenges of inclusive education in Ghana and further by making comparisons with the Canadian context this volume seeks to shed light on the ongoing struggle for an empowering school system in Africa and elsewhere Sustainable Agriculture In sub-Saharan Africa: A Critical Look Into The
