China to Chinatown J.A.G. Roberts, 2004-07-04 China to Chinatown tells the story of one of the most notable examples of the globalization of food the spread of Chinese recipes ingredients and cooking styles to the Western world Beginning with the accounts of Marco Polo and Franciscan missionaries J A G Roberts describes how Westerners first impressions of Chinese food were decidedly mixed with many regarding Chinese eating habits as repugnant Chinese food was brought back to the West merely as a curiosity The Western encounter with a wider variety of Chinese cuisine dates from the first half of the 20th century when Chinese food spread to the West with emigrant communities The author shows how Chinese cooking has come to be regarded by some as among the world s most sophisticated cuisines and yet is harshly criticized by others for example on the grounds that its preparation involves cruelty to animals Roberts discusses the extent to which Chinese food as a facet of Chinese culture overseas has remained differentiated and questions whether its ethnic identity is dissolving Written in a lively style the book will appeal to food historians and specialists in Chinese culture as well as to readers interested in Chinese cuisine

Western food in Shanghai. Chinese consumption patterns and globalization in China Sina Gerdes, 2014-07-21 Research Paper postgraduate from the year 2014 in the subject Politics Topic Globalization Political Economics grade 1 7 University of Paderborn language English abstract Eating is a basic need for human life and the variety of offered food worldwide is huge In China the fast developing nation with an increasing number of habitants and a booming economy the offer of foreign cuisines grows steadily The variety includes Western dishes too which are slowly establishing in China Existing differences between Chinese and Western restaurants and dishes are obvious Thus this paper investigates which factors influence the consumption patterns of the Chinese regarding Western food taking the current offer in Shanghai as an example Exploring this question a qualitative analysis with Chinese participants was conducted For the analysis 15 categories were developed based on 7 interviews which provided detailed information about the participant's attitude opinion and consumption behavior regarding Western food The Chinese consciously chose Western restaurants because of the environment there the different taste of the food or to learn more about a foreign culture Due to the Opening up policy and an ongoing globalization process the younger generation becomes more open minded and interested in experiencing something new and demands an increased offer with high quality Implications and limitations are discussed This research paper reveals the need to question the consumption patterns of the Chinese in order to learn about their wants and figuring out what they like and dislike regarding Western food

Gender and Food in Transnational East Asias Eric Ping Hung Li, Chikako Nagayama, Jooyeon Rhee, 2021-10-12 Gender and Food in Transnational East Asias illustrates how the production and consumption of food impacts the changing social positions of individuals and their relationships with their families the state and their work as well as shapes their gender sexual ethnic and national identities The transnational movement of food and people between East Asia and the rest of the world is increasingly visible forming various forces behind the cultural and political constructions of gender politics among and beyond Asian diasporas It argues that a critical engagement with practices and representations of food from gender perspectives can enhance our understanding of the society and culture of transnational East Asia

The Globalization of Nothing 2 George Ritzer, 2007-01-18 The Globalization of Nothing is back in a revised and completely updated Second Edition In this reconceptualized volume author George Ritzer focuses his attention squarely on the processes of globalization and how they relate to McDonaldisation This revision is shorter more concise and spends much less space on the Nothing Something continuum that he introduced in the First Edition

Jews and Their Foodways Anat Helman, 2015 Bringing together contributions from a diverse group of scholars Volume XXVIII of Studies in Contemporary Jewry presents a multifaceted view of the subtle and intricate relations between Jews and their foodways The symposium covers Europe the Middle East Africa and North America from the 20th century to the 21st Food and Foodways in Asia Sidney Cheung, Chee-Beng Tan, 2007-06-11 Food is an important cultural marker of identity in contemporary Asian societies and can provide a medium for the understanding of social relations family and kinship class and consumption gender ideology and cultural symbolism However a truly comprehensive view of food cannot neglect the politics of food production in particular how when from where and even why different kinds of food are produced prepared and supplied Food and Foodways in Asia is an anthropological inquiry providing rich ethnographic description and analysis of food production as it interacts with social and political complexities in Asia s diverse cultures Prominent anthropologists examine how food is related to ethnic identity and boundary formation consumerism and global food distribution and the invention of local cuisine in the context of increasing cultural contact With chapters ranging from the invention of local food for tourism development to Asia s contribution to world cuisine Food and Foodways in Asia will be a fascinating read for anyone interested in the anthropology of food and or Asian studies Globalization and America Since 1945 Deward Clayton Brown, 2003 Annotation We ve all heard the term but what exactly is globalization In his new book Globalization and America since 1945 D Clayton Brown provides a brief jargon free and easy to understand overview of this important issue This volume examines how the United Artificial Intelligence in China Wei Wang, Jiasong Mu, Xin Liu, Zhenyu Na Na, 2024-03-22 This book brings together papers presented at the 2023 The International Conference on Artificial Intelligence in China ChinaAI which provides a venue to disseminate the latest developments and to discuss the interactions and links between these multidisciplinary fields Spanning topics covering all topics in Artificial Intelligence with new development in China this book is aimed at undergraduate and graduate students in Electrical Engineering Computer Science and Mathematics researchers and engineers from academia and industry as well as government employees such as NSF DOD DOE Eating Asian America Robert Ji-Song Ku, 2013-09-23 Fully of provocation and insight Cathy J Schlund Vials author of War Genocide and Justice The Economics of Chocolate Mara P. Squicciarini, Johan Swinnen, 2016-01-21 This book written by global experts provides a comprehensive and topical analysis on the economics of chocolate While the main approach is economic analysis there are important contributions from other disciplines including psychology history government nutrition and geography The chapters are organized around several themes including the history of cocoa and chocolate from cocoa drinks in the Maya empire to the growing sales of Belgian chocolates in China how governments have used cocoa and chocolate as a source of tax revenue and have regulated chocolate and defined it by law to protect consumers health from fraud and industries from competition how the poor cocoa producers in developing countries are linked through trade and multinational companies with rich consumers in industrialized countries and how the rise of consumption in emerging markets China India and Africa is causing a major boom in global demand and prices and a potential shortage of the world s chocolate Asian Journal of Social Science, 2006 Eating and Identity in Postcolonial Fiction Paul Vlitos, 2018-10-11 This book focuses on the fiction of four postcolonial authors V S Naipaul Anita Desai Timothy Mo and Salman Rushdie It argues that meals in their novels act as sites where the relationships between the individual subject and the social identities of race class and gender are enacted Drawing upon a variety of academic fields and disciplines including postcolonial theory historical research food studies and recent attempts to rethink the concept of world literature it dedicates a chapter to each author tracing the literary cultural and historical contexts in which their texts are located and exploring the ways in which food and the act of eating acquire meanings and how those meanings might clash collide and be disputed Not only does this book offer suggestive new readings of the work of its four key authors but it challenges the reader to consider the significance of food in postcolonial fiction more generally
