The Ecology of Sumatra A. Whitten, D. Sengli, 1984-01-01

The Ecology of Sumatra Tony Whitten, 1984

The Ecology of Sumatra, 1984

The Fourth Circle John F. McCarthy, 2022 This book addresses the politics of environmental change in one of the richest areas of tropical rainforest in Indonesia Based on field studies conducted in three agricultural communities in rural Aceh this work considers a number of questions How do customary adat village and state institutions work What roles do they play in managing local resources How have they evolved over time Are villagers state policies or corrupt local networks responsible for the loss of tropical rainforest Will better outcomes emerge from revitalizing customary management from changing state policies or from transforming the way the state works And why do projects designed by outsiders so often fail The book describes how as key actors interact they create arrangements that effectively manage local resources eclipsing adat and formal state management structures While outside interventions try to work with adat and the state they fail to engage fully with the main problem that is that district webs of power and interest coalescing around local resources and reaching into the wider society lead inexorably to environmental decline

Handbook of Research on the Conservation and Restoration of Tropical Dry Forests Bhadouria, Rahul, Tripathi, Sachchidanand, Srivastava, Pratap, Singh, Pardeep, 2019-09-27 Tropical dry forests are the most exploited and endangered ecosystems in the world A combination of climatic and human factors often reduce these forests to patches of dry scrubs or savannas Because these ecosystems experience a more arduous and less anticipated environment they are more prone to environmental stress as plant communities are developed Therefore urgent research is necessary to understand both the detrimental issues and problem solving approaches to conserving these important forests The Handbook of Research on the Conservation and Restoration of Tropical Dry Forests is a pivotal reference source that combines theory and practice on the current trends and issues in this important ecological subject and discusses future challenges towards conservation strategies of these tropical dry forests While highlighting topics such as forest management natural regeneration and silviculture this publication examines the anthropogenic impacts on tropical dry forests and the necessity to rebuild their ecosystems This book is ideally designed for state forest agency professionals resource managers non governmental organization agents ecologists botanists environmentalists students and researchers seeking current research on the threats to these forests Research Anthology on Ecosystem Conservation and Preserving Biodiversity Management Association, Information Resources,2022-04-08 In today s rapidly evolving world it has never been more critical to consider key environmental issues such as climate change pollution and endangered species Society faces an unknown future where the fate of the environment is continuously in flux based on current preservation initiatives that governments develop In order to ensure the world is protected moving forward further study on the importance of securing environments ecosystems and species is necessary to successfully implement change The Research Anthology on Ecosystem Conservation and Preserving Biodiversity considers the best practices and strategies for protecting our current ecosystems as well as the potential ramifications of failing to implement policies Society is at a crossroads where if we continue to ignore the danger and warning signs brought about by environmental issues we will be unable to maintain a healthy environment Covering essential topics such as extinction climate change and pollution this major reference work is ideal for scientists industry professionals researchers academicians policymakers scholars practitioners instructors and students The Plant Diversity of Malesia P. Baas,K. Kalkman,R. Geesink,2012-12-06 Although the only publication with a realistic claim to the title The plant diver sity of Malesia is Flora Malesiana itself we have hesitatingly chosen this title for the present proceedings volume Past present and future work on the Flora Malesiana project was the subject of a successful symposium held in August 1989 This book contains only a selection of the papers presented at that meet ing yet it covers a much greater diversity of themes than just the inventory of botanical diversity It even goes beyond the boundaries of the vast Flora Malesi ana region in several of its chapters The role of the founder of the Flora Malesiana Project Professor C G G J van Steenis repeatedly recurs in several chapters not only as director of and contributor to the project but also as a pioneer in the fields of Malesian vege tation conservation and biogeography and as an enlightened systematist whose ideas and practical recommendations for taxonomic delimitation still largely apply Botanical information made available in regional and local floras is of vital im portance for applications such as the exploitation of natural forests on a sus tainable yield basis for establishing gene banks for the benefit of agriculture forestry and horticulture and not in the least for nature conservation Several chapters are devoted to these themes Floristic studies are also at the basis of the biogeographical essays and vegetation studies included in this book Historical Dictionary of Indonesia Audrey Kahin,2015-10-29 A wide flung archipelago lying between the Pacific and Indian Oceans Indonesia is the world s most populous Islamic country For over two thousand years it was a crossroads on the major trading route between China and India but it was not brought together into a single entity until the Dutch extended their rule throughout the Netherlands East Indies in the early part of the 20th century Declaring its independence from the Dutch in 1945 the Republic of Indonesia was ruled by only two regimes over the next half century

Throughout the years the country has continued to be dogged by an inefficient bureaucracy and by perpetual problems of corruption. However, since 2004 Indonesia has successfully carried out four direct elections for president together with an equal number of elections for legislative bodies at all levels of government and has finally in 2014 elected a president with no ties to either the military or to the previous authoritarian power structure. This third edition of Historical Dictionary of Indonesia contains a chronology, an introductory essay, appendixes, and an extensive bibliography. The dictionary section has over 900 cross-referenced entries on important personalities, politics, economy, foreign relations, religion, and culture. This book is an excellent access point for students, researchers, and anyone wanting to know more about Indonesia.

Vulnerability and Transformation of Indonesian Peatlands Kosuke Mizuno, Osamu Kozan, Haris Gunawan, 2023-03-29. This open access book deals with restoring degraded peatlands to help mitigate global warming to which SDG 15 and SDG 13 are directly related. The book analyzes peatland degradation and restoration of the Indonesian peatland ecosystem through the integrated lens of resilience, vulnerability, adaptation, and transformation. It sheds light on what constitutes resilience of the peat swamp forest, digs deeper into local knowledge in developing the studies on institutions, governance, and ecological conditions that support the resilience of the peat swamp forest, to elaborate on the idea of transformation in today's degraded peatlands. While peat swamp forests may be resilient, they remain highly vulnerable. The book analyzes restoration efforts through rewetting, revegetation, and rehabilitation of the local livelihoods with the concepts of adaptation and transformation. The integrated analysis covers fieldwork of more than a decade and various aspects such as agrarian and social changes, biological changes, birds, mammals, and termites, carbon emission, water control, timber use, revegetation efforts, and the Indonesia Sustainable Palm Oil (ISPO) program implementation. It also employs the ideas of vulnerability, resilience, adaptability, and transformation based on expanded studies on peatlands and observations of and participation in multiple efforts to prevent fires and restore the degraded peatland by researchers, the government, non-government organizations, NGOs, private companies, and last but not least, the local people. The discussion includes the period of pre-degradation and several efforts at peatland restoration for a better understanding and analysis of the long-term peatland dynamics.

Tropical Fire Ecology Mark Cochrane, 2010-04-11. The tropics are home to most of the world's biodiversity and are currently the frontier for human settlement. Tropical ecosystems are being converted to agricultural and other land uses at unprecedented rates. Land conversion and maintenance almost always rely on fire, and because of this, fire is now more prevalent in the tropics than anywhere else on Earth. Despite pervasive fire, human settlement, and threatened biodiversity, there is little comprehensive information available on fire and its effects in tropical ecosystems. Tropical deforestation, especially in rainforests, has been widely documented for many years. Forests are cut down and allowed to dry before being burned to remove biomass and release nutrients to grow crops. However, fires do not always stop at the borders of cleared forests. Tremendously damaging fires are increasingly spreading into forests that were never evolutionarily prepared for wild fires The largest fires on the planet in recent decades have occurred in tropical forests and burned millions of hectares in several countries The numerous ecosystems of the tropics have differing levels of fire resistance resilience or dependence At present there is little appreciation of the seriousness of the wild fire situation in tropical rainforests but there is even less understanding of the role that fire plays in the ecology of many fire adapted tropical ecosystems such as savannas grasslands and other forest types
