Ecology Case Studies:

Ecology Case Studies McGraw-Hill Primis Custom Publishing, 1999-01-01 Case Studies in Environmental Ethics Patrick George Derr, Edward M. McNamara, 2003 A collection of more than 40 case studies covering diverse topics such as genetic engineering aesthetics pollution animal rights population and resource management Case Studies in Environmental Ethics is intended as a supplemental book for college courses primarily in environmental ethics Each case presents factual information on a particular topic followed by a discussion of the ethical implications of each topic and several insightful discussion questions Ethical Issues in Ecology Jeffry L. Dudycha, Charles Kevin Geedey, 2004 Case Studies in Human Ecology Daniel G. Bates, Sarah H. Lees, 2013-06-29 This volume was developed to meet a much noted need for accessible case study material for courses in human ecology cultural ecology cultural geography and other subjects increasingly offered to fulfill renewed student and faculty interest in environmental issues The case studies all taken from the journal Human Ecology An Interdisciplinary Journal represent a broad cross section of contemporary research It is tempting but inaccurate to suggest that these represent the Best of Human Ecology They were selected from among many outstanding possibilities because they worked well with the organization of the book which in turn reflects the way in which courses in human ecology are often organized This book provides a useful sample of case studies in the application of the perspective of human ecology to a wide variety of problems in different regions of the world University courses in human ecology typically begin with basic concepts pertaining to energy flow feeding relations material cycles population dynamics and ecosystem properties and then take up illustrative case studies of human environmental interactions These are usually discussed either along the lines of distinctive strategies of food procurement such as foraging or pastoralism or as adaptations to specific habitat types or biomes such as the circumpolar regions or arid lands Real World Ecology ShiLi Miao, Susan Carstenn, Martha Nungesser, 2008-11-20 Ecological and environmental research has increased in scope and complexity in the last few decades from simple systems with a few managed variables to complex ecosystems with many uncontrolled variables These issues encompass problems that are inadequately addressed using the types of carefully controlled experiments that dominate past ecological research Contemporary challenges facing ecologists include whole ecosystem responses to planned restoration activities and ecosystem modifications as well as unplanned catastrophic events such as biological invasions natural disasters and global climate changes Major perturbations implicated in large scale ecological alterations share important characteristics that challenge traditional experimental design and statistical analyses These include Lack of randomization replication and independence Multiple scales of spatial and temporal variability Complex interactions and system feedbacks In real world ecology standard replicated designs are often neither practical nor feasible for large scale experiments yet ecologists continue to cling to these same standard designs and related statistical analyses Case studies that fully elucidate the currently available techniques for conducting large scale unreplicated analyses are lacking Real World Ecology Large Scale and Long Term Case Studies and Methods is the first to focus on case studies to demonstrate how ecologists can investigate complex contemporary problems using new and powerful experimental approaches This collection of case studies showcases innovative experimental designs analytical options and interpretation possibilities currently available to theoretical and applied ecologists practitioners and biostatisticians By illustrating how scientists have answered pressing questions about ecosystem restoration impact and recovery global warming conservation modeling and biological invasions this book will broaden the acceptance and application of modern approaches by scientists and encourage further methodological development

Case Studies in Environmental Science Larry Underwood,1998 Case Studies in Environmental Science is designed to promote grassroots awareness of global environmental issues through problem solving analysis and verbal and written discussion of topics that pertain to seven regions of the United States and Canada The twelve case studies present a range of views on selected environmental issues in a non biased approach Thought provoking questions commentaries and readings have been included to stimulate students to investigate the issues in further detail beyond the presentation of each case study The accompanying website provides the students with the tools and resources to go beyond the confines of the book and their geographic region Updated monthly the site will provide up to date links to resources and articles for each case in each region Summaries of significant events in each region and for each issue will be provided with additional Critical Thinking questions designed to demonstrate the interrelationships between regions and issues

Ecosystem Services Case Studies Mark Everard,2009 The Ecology of Survival Douglas Hamilton Johnson,David Anderson,1988 The contributors to this volume argue that any solutions to Africa s ecological problems must be based on a broad understanding of the historical patterns of ecological change and the interactions between human societies and the environment Using case studies they explore the anthropological and historical aspects of ecological problems in Northeast Africa and suggest ways in which policy makers might take account of this approach

Real World Ecology ShiLi Miao,Susan Carstenn,Martha Nungesser,2008-11-01 Ecological and environmental research has increased in scope and complexity in the last few decades from simple systems with a few managed variables to complex ecosystems with many uncontrolled variables These issues encompass problems that are inadequately addressed using the types of carefully controlled experiments that dominate past ecological research Contemporary challenges facing ecologists include whole ecosystem responses to planned restoration activities and ecosystem modifications as well as unplanned catastrophic events such as biological invasions natural disasters and global climate changes Major perturbations implicated in large scale ecological alterations share important characteristics that challenge traditional experimental design and statistical analyses These include Lack of randomization replication and independence Multiple scales of spatial and temporal variability Complex interactions and system feedbacks In real world ecology standard replicated designs are often neither practical nor feasible for large scale experiments yet ecologists continue to cling to these same standard designs and related statistical

The Philosophy of Ecology David R. Keller, Frank B. Golley, 2000 This is the first introductory anthology on the philosophy of ecology edited by an ecologist and a philosopher It illustrates the range of philosophical approaches available to ecologists and provides a basis for understanding the thinking on which many of today's environmental ideas are founded Collectively these seminal readings make a powerful statement on the value of ecological knowledge and thinking in alleviating the many problems of modern industrial civilization Issues covered include the challenges of defining scientific ecology tracing its genealogy and distinguishing the science from various forms of ecological like thinking the ontology of ecological entities and processes selected concepts of community stability diversity and niche the methodology of ecology rationalism and empiricism reductionism and holism the significance of evolutionary law for ecological science

Spatial Resilience in Social-Ecological Systems Graeme S. Cumming, 2011-02-09 Spatial Resilience is a new and exciting area of interdisciplinary research It focuses on the influence of spatial variation including such things as spatial location context connectivity and dispersal on the resilience of complex systems and on the roles that resilience and self organization play in generating spatial variation Prof Cumming provides a readable introduction and a first comprehensive synthesis covering the core concepts and applications of spatial resilience to the study of social ecological systems The book follows a trajectory from concepts through models methods and case study analysis before revisiting the central problems in the further conceptual development of the field In the process the author ranges from the movements of lions in northern Zimbabwe to the urban jungles of Europe and from the collapse of past societies to the social impacts of modern conflict The many case studies and examples discussed in the book show how the concept of spatial resilience can generate valuable insights into the spatial dynamics of social ecological systems and contribute to solving some of the most pressing problems of our time Although it has been written primarily for students this book will provide fascinating reading for interdisciplinary scientists at all career stages as well as for the interested public Graeme Cumming central in the development of resilience thinking and theory has produced a wonderful book on spatial resilience the first ever on this topic The book will become a shining star a classic in the explosion of new ideas and approaches to studying and understanding social ecological systems

Carl Folke Stockholm Resilience Centre Sweden

The Archaeology and Historical Ecology of Small Scale Economies Victor D. Thompson, James C. Waggoner Jr., 2019-03-01 Most research into human impact on the environment has focused on large scale societies a corollary assumption has been that small scale economies are sustainable and in harmony with nature The contributors to this volume challenge this notion revealing how such communities shaped their environment and not always in a positive way Offering case studies from around the world from Brazil to Japan Denmark to the Rocky Mountains the chapters empirically demonstrate the substantial transformations of the surrounding landscape made by hunter gatherer and limited horticultural societies Summarizing previous research as well as presenting new data this book shows that the environmental impact and legacy of societies are not always proportional their size Understanding that our species leaves a footprint wherever it has been leads to both a better understanding of our prehistoric past and to deeper implications for our future relationship to the world around us Societal Dimensions of Environmental Science Ricardo D. Lopez, 2019-03-07

Societal Dimensions of Environmental Science Global Case Studies of Collaboration and Transformation brings together several key examples of the successes and the challenges that exist for environmental stakeholders trying to strike a balance between science and the societal implications of the issues involved This book provides important methods and approaches necessary for informed decision making and a better understanding of the common threads of learning collaboration negotiation and compromise It also explains that concepts and skills needed to better understand how specific project goals can be best achieved in the rapidly changing field of environmental management by providing practical situations and solutions across a global landscape This book provides anyone who works in a community setting with the necessary tools and strategies for solving environmental problems and achieving the goals of an environmental project of any type and specifically addresses the topic of how to synthesize community engagement and the environmental science It describes current environmental issues and lessons learned of what works and what doesn't work in real situations and why It also highlights key examples which can be used by both management practitioners and research scientists in their specific circumstances Showcasing a unique compilation of the diverse and specific examples from societies in Asia Oceania North America and the Middle East with an equally diverse array of authorship this book serves all policy makers scientists organizers and community members that desire to build better group dynamics for addressing environmental issues

Theoretical Systems Ecology Efraim Halfon, 2012-12-02 Theoretical Systems Ecology Advances and Case Studies aims to relate systems ecology theory to theoretical systems ecologists and other theoreticians in systems science The main language of systems theory is mathematics This book somewhat simplifies concepts advances and developments of the field to non mathematicians who lack background in some aspects of systems ecology It presents examples after every chapter that shows the application of theory to the development and analysis of models This book generally focuses on three problems The first problem is the selection of components found in the system model The definition of the relationships and interactions between the system variables is another concern of this book It also looks into the model analysis These problems are thoroughly discussed in each section of the book The theory of modeling formalisms classes and properties of models are covered in the first two sections of this book A whole section in this book is dedicated to Systems Identification and deals mostly with the problem of extracting information from data Other sections cover model analysis with focus on trends in some aspects such as stability and control theory
