Economic Research On The Determinants Of Immigration Lessons For The European Union:

Economic Research on the Determinants of Immigration George J. Borjas, 1999-01-01 This publication summarizes some of the key research findings from current literature and applies the lessons from it to the potential migration problem faced by countries in the EU Its main objective is to present a review of existing economic theory and empirical evidence to evaluate the likelihood of migration flows from acceding or neighboring countries toward the current EU member states This publication is a Technical Paper sponsored by the Poverty Reduction and Economic Management Network of the World Bank's Europe and Central Asia Division It is part of a comprehensive series regarding the many important factors that influence European Union EU accession in the Central and East European countries CEEC The topics in the series cover both the social and economic aspects of accession across a broad range of sectors The series also provides background information for specific acceding countries These publications will be of interest to EU member and candidate countries their ministries and any one studying the accession issue

Czech Republic, 1999-01-01 At the end of 1995 the Czech Republic was regarded as the clearest success story in the region It had one of the lowest rates of inflation and the lowest rates of unemployment The high GDP growth rate looked sustainable as it was accompanied by a moderate current account deficit balanced fiscal account and seemed to be underpinned by important structural reform The Czech Republic was perceived until 1996 as the most successful transition economy in Central and Eastern Europe CEE The Czech Republic seems to be the clearest success story in the region However the Czech miracle came to a halt in May 1997 Its future economic development and successful integration into the European Union EU depends critically on its capacity to recover a sustainable output growth path To assist the country in achieving its primary goal to join the European Union EU in the shortest period of time this report analyzes economic developments in the Czech Republic since 1997 It focuses on assessing the status of the Czech Republic's economy from the perspective of its pursuit for EU membership The report is composed of two volumes The first volume is the summary report that condenses main findings and conclusions The second volume is the main report It provides the assessment and technical study of selected key sectors of the Czech economy The EU accession process dominates the sector analyses which are outlined in each chapter

Kazakhstan John Gray,2000-01-01 The success achieved in stimulating real change in farm ownership control and management in some areas combined with the extremity of the difficulties faced by farms in less favored areas point to the need for an active process of policy reformulation to address the problems which are now emerging from the restructuring process Agriculture in Kazakhstan is in crisis the majority of farms are insolvent and production has fallen to the lowest level in 30 years Initial restructuring efforts yielded disappointing results and mostly failed to lead to new patterns of ownership or management However since 1998 the government has pursued a more aggressive approach to farm restructuring based on increased reliance on farm bankruptcy This report reviews the experience of the farm restructuring policies and programs pursued in 1998 and 1999 and draws conclusions for the continuing development of agricultural sector policies This review forms one of a group of simultaneous agricultural sector studies undertaken by the World Bank at the request of the Government of Kazakhstan Kazakhstan A Review of Farm Restructuring reviews the progress to date in the implementation of the government s reform measures which were begun in late 1998 The report is based on a field mission undertaken in April May 1999 which concentrated primarily on the Northern oblasts and information provided by the staff of the Headquarters of the Ministry of Agriculture in Astana

The City Poverty Assessment Jesko Hentschel,Radha Seshagiri,2000-01-01 Cities and towns are increasingly becoming the primary locus of poverty in many countries Rural urban migration and low urban mortality rates have contributed to the rapid population growth of cities in many parts of the world With such rapid growth comes an increasing concentration of poverty in urban areas In parallel more countries assign local governments increased responsibility in fighting poverty With decentralization the responsibility of local social policy goes beyond the execution of centrally designed and funded education and health programs In many countries local policymakers today decide on tax rates expenditure policies development of new assistance programs incentives for local economic development land and zoning laws and more The formulation of pro poor local policies requires good information analyses Local governments and their partners have both an opportunity and a need to understand the determinants of poverty and impediments for its reduction This paper is an introduction to how such local information on poverty can be gathered and analyzed It provides local policy makers with a broad overview of the type of questions typically asked and answered in City Poverty Assessments As the nature of poverty differs widely between cities and countries so will the content of such poverty assessments as they have to be adapted to local needs This publication will be of interest to city policy makers international organizations nongovernmental organizations and urban practitioners
