Trade, Foreign Policy and Defence in EU Constitutional Law Panos Koutrakos, 2001-03-07 This book examines how the increasing interdependence between trade and foreign policy can be managed within the legal framework of the European Union In the context of the legally distinct characteristics of the European Community and the Common Foreign and Security Policy it analyses the problems underpinning the regulation of three areas sanctions against third countries armaments and exports of dual use goods The focus is on whether the constitutional order of the European Union may address these problems while performing a variety of functions ensuring the consistency and coherence of its external relations preserving the acquis communautaire and respecting the right of the Member States to conduct their foreign policy as fully sovereign subjects of international law The book concludes that the interactions between trade and foreign policy may be regulated in a legally sensible and realistic way within the current structure of the European Union The recent developments regarding the defense and security identity of the European Union and the debate over the nature of an enlarged Union make this book all the more topical National Implementation of United Nations Sanctions Vera Gowlland-Debbas, 2004-10-01 This work is a comparative study of domestic implementation of Security Council mandatory sanctions taken under Article 41 Chapter VII of the UN Charter including the establishment of the two international criminal tribunals the ICTY and ICTR and recent resolutions on the combating of the financing of terrorism The book examines implementation in 16 select States in Europe America Asia the Middle East and Africa underlining also the particular problems arising from sanctions implementation by the European Union by a permanently neutral and former non Member State Switzerland and by States confronted with special economic problems within the meaning of Article 50 of the UN Charter Three interrelated themes are addressed The first of a theoretical nature concerns the question of whether implementation of Security Council resolutions particularly where perceived to be in fulfilment of community objectives poses problems which are in some way distinct from those raised by the implementation of other conventional international law obligations thereby shedding a different light on the traditional relationship between international and municipal law The second concerns the effectiveness of the decisions of the Security Council viewed from the perspective of the effective mise en uvre of these decisions in national law The third theme concerns the legitimacy of Security Council resolutions as seen from the viewpoint of domestic legal systems that is the extent to which Security Council decisions encroach on internationally or constitutionally protected individual rights and the potential role played by domestic courts in reviewing the decisions of the Security Council The latter has assumed particular importance in the framework of the combating of the financing of terrorism This work which brings together the research results of 29 academics and experts is the second publication within the framework of a project on Security Council sanctions carried out under the auspices of the Graduate Institute of International Studies The first which looked at a broad set of issues was entitled United Nations Sanctions and International Law and was published by Kluwer Law International in 2001
