Economics And Management Of Thai Fisheries:

The Economics and Management of Thai Marine Fisheries Todor Panaotov, Songpol Jetanavanich, 1987-01-01

Economic Management of Marine Living Resources David Whitmarsh, 2013-10-18 This textbook has two main objectives Firstly it outlines the problems associated with the management and conservation of marine living resources with particular attention given to the twin concepts of economic value and sustainability It demonstrates the contribution that economics can make to understanding these problems as well as helping to frame policies to mitigate them Secondly it looks in detail at the key methods that may be used to collect and analyse socio economic data oriented towards the information needs of decision makers and stakeholders involved in fisheries management Together these two objectives address the question how does society make the best use of its marine living resources Report of the International Workshop on the Implementation of International Fisheries Instruments and Factors of Unsustainability and Overexploitation in Fisheries FAO/Japan Government Cooperative Programme, 2004-01-01 The workshop referred closely to the results of a first workshop held in Bangkok in 2002 The International Workshop on Factors Contributing to Unsustainability and Overexploitation in Fisheries but aimed more specifically at answering the following three major questions What are the major obstacles to the implementation of major legal instruments What are the main lessons learned and the possible paths to solutions for improved implementation What are the possible gaps that may exist in these instruments to guide the international community in improving the management of marine fisheries The workshop was based on a review of eleven case studies each relating to one of the following categories of fishery large volume small pelagics tuna and tuna like species large volume demersals and coastal fisheries This publication contains the report of the Workshop discussion papers containing case studies and notes submitted by participants The document and in particular the conclusions adopted by workshop participants will serve as a basis for further analytical work aimed at improved fisheries management and a more effective implementation of major international fisheries instruments Marine Fisheries Review ,1990 The Closing of the Frontier John G. Butcher, 2022-07-18 This book is the first on the history of the marine fisheries of Southeast Asia It takes as its central theme the movement of fisheries into new fishing grounds particularly the diverse ecosystems that make up the seas of Southeast Asia This process accelerated between the 1950s and 1970s in what the author calls the great fish race Catches soared as the population of the region grew demand from Japan and North America for shrimps and tuna increased and fishers adopted more efficient ways of locating catching and preserving fish But the great fish race soon brought about the severe depletion of one fish population after another while pollution and the destruction of mangroves and coral reefs degraded fish habitats Today the relentless movement into new fishing grounds has come to an end for there are no new fishing grounds to exploit The frontier of fisheries has closed The challenge now is to exploit the seas in ways that preserve the diversity of marine life while providing the people of the region with a source of food long into the future Bioeconomics of the Philippine Small

Closing of the Frontier John G Butcher,2003-08-01 This book is the first on the history of the marine fisheries of Southeast Asia It takes as its central theme the movement of fisheries into new fishing grounds particularly the diverse ecosystems that make up the seas of Southeast Asia This process accelerated between the 1950s and 1970s in what the author calls the great fish race Catches soared as the population of the region grew demand from Japan and North America for shrimps and tuna increased and fishers adopted more efficient ways of locating catching and preserving fish But the great fish race soon brought about the severe depletion of one fish population after another while pollution and the destruction of mangroves and coral reefs degraded fish habitats Today the relentless movement into new fishing grounds has come to an end for there are no new fishing grounds to exploit The frontier of fisheries has closed The challenge now is to exploit the seas in ways that preserve the diversity of marine life while providing the people of the region with a source of food long into the future

The Routledge Handbook of Environmental Economics in Asia Shunsuke Managi,2015-02-11 Problems of climate change biodiversity and air pollution are clearly growing globally but more particularly in Asia because of its economic importance and richness in nature The increasing interest in environmental and resource economics applied in regions of Asia will make this book an outstanding resource to the existing literature particularly in the fields of environmental and resource economics and the integration of applied content in traditional and agricultural development At present there is no single handbook or text on the state of current knowledge in environmental economics in Asia or one which offers a comprehensive guide to students and academics on the subjects of environmental economics research This book will help to fill the gap in the existing literature Collected Reprints ,1993 Shrimp Farming and Mangrove Loss in Thailand Edward Barbier,Suthawan Sathirathai,2004-01-01 Through in depth case studies of local communities in four distinct coastal areas in Southern Thailand the authors are able to assess objectively the underlying economic causes and consequences of mangrove deforestation due to the expansion of shrimp farms

Holding the Line Ian Townsend Gault, Heather Nora Nicol, 2005 This volume contains contributions from twenty four scholars concerning the significance and implications of the world's borderlands in economic political and socio cultural contexts Together these essays explore the changing role of borders in a global world Are borders increasingly irrelevant under conditions of globalization or can a case be made to demonstrate their continuing importance at various levels of spatial activity Situating itself within a growing border literature Holding the Line argues that contemporary borders facilitate parallel processes of globalization and localization of political activity As such the essays adopt a holistic approach to understanding the impact of boundaries on both society and space They demonstrate that any attempt to create a methodological and conceptual framework for the understanding of boundaries must be concerned with the process of bounding rather than simply the means through which the physical lines of separation are delimited and demarcated This approach renders the notion of a borderless world highly problematic because the latter ignores the important and ongoing relationship between the functional role of borders in the bounding process and the symbolic role of borders as imagined social political and economic constructions embedded within a geographical text The changing characteristics of political boundaries during an era of globalization has become a great focus of interdisciplinary study and this book will appeal to scholars of political geography border studies and international relations

Guidelines for the Routine Collection of Capture Fishery Data Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 1999-01-01 These guidelines aim to help those who design routine data collection programmes focusing on the relationship between typical questions asked by policy makers and managers and the data required for providing reliable answers Fisheries policy and management objectives particularly under the precautionary approach need to be based upon analyses of reliable data Data are needed to make rational decisions evaluate the fisheries performance in relation to management activities and fulfil regional requirements These objectives are achieved using fishery performance indicators Indicators are used to measure the state of the resource the performance of fishing controls economic efficiency socio economic performance and social continuity The primary factor in choosing what data to collect is the link between the necessary operational biological economic and socio cultural indicators and their associated variables The way in which different data variables are collected needs to be tailored to the structure of the fishery The strategy will be strongly influenced by the budget and personnel available and the degree to which fishers and others co operate The programme must identify which variables should be collected through complete enumeration and which can be sampled Collection methods are influenced by the variable itself the strategy collection point and the skill of the enumerator Once collected fishery data must be stored securely but made easily available for analysis which is achieved through a computer based data management system following the basic data processing principles The implementation of a data collection programme should follow a normal project cycle developing a new legal and institutional framework as appropriate Abstract

Socio-economics of trawl fisheries in Southeast Asia and Papua New Guinea Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, 2018-06-06 These studies on the role of trawl fisheries for food security and the potential impacts of management measures reveal major differences across countries in fishing practices including crew demographics and income sharing arrangements

Report of the Expert Consultation on International Fish Trade and Food Security, 2003-01-01 Recommendations made include the need for a background study and consultation on the normative framework for fish trade and food security for the preparation of technical guidelines on the Code of Conduct for Responsible Fisheries CCRF fish trade and food security and better training to improve capacity of policy makers and technical personnel on international issues dealing with fish trade and food security

The Environment in Asia Pacific Harbours Eric Wolanski, 2006-07-30 In the USA Asia and Europe as well as worldwide trade is growing rapidly and much of it depends on shipping This is leading to the development of mega cities and mega harbours The marine environment is degrading Is increasing trade ecologically sustainable This book addresses this question through harbours in the Asia Pacific region including Tokyo Bay the Pearl Estuary Hong Kong Shanghai Ho Chi Minh City Manila Bay Jakarta Bay Bangkok Singapore Klang Pearl Harbour and Darwin Much of the world trade goes through these harbours This book demonstrates through the writing of eminent scientists in each of these countries the oceanography and ecosystem science necessary to understand how these urbanised marine ecosystems function It offers science based solutions to achieve ecologically sustainable development These lessons are important not only for the Asia Pacific Region including Australia but also worldwide The book is a wake up call that all the countries in the Asia Pacific are facing the same serious socio economic and environmental problems with varying scales Each of these countries addresses these issues differently This book shows that we have much to learn from each other to ensure that development does not need to be at the cost of the environment I commend this book for its comprehensive coverage of the links between oceanography ecosystem processes and socio economic issues

Structural Change in Fisheries Dealing with the Human Dimension OECD, 2007-09-14 This conference proceedings analyses the social issues and policy challenges that arise from fisheries adjustment policies and how OECD member countries are meeting those challenges
