The articles explore among other issues the family meal wedding cakes nostalgia and the invention of tradition the rise of vegetarianism the recent BSE crisis the creolization of British food eating out creation of individual identity through lifestyle. The contributors include Hanna Bradby Simon Charsley Allison James Anne Keane Lydia Martens and Alan Warde. Moral Foods Angela Ki Che Leung, Melissa L. Caldwell, 2020-02-29. Moral Foods The Construction of Nutrition and Health in Modern Asia investigates how foods came to be established as moral entities how moral food regimes reveal emerging systems of knowledge and enforcement and how these developments have contributed to new Asian nutritional knowledge regimes. The collection's focus on cross cultural and transhistorical comparisons across Asia brings into view a broad spectrum of modern Asia that extends from East Asia Southeast Asia to South Asia as well as into global communities of Western knowledge practice and power outside Asia. The first section Good Foods focuses on how food norms and rules have been established in modern Asia. Ideas about good foods and good bodies shift at different moments in some cases privileging local foods and knowledge systems and in other cases privileging foreign foods and knowledge systems. The second section Bad Foods focuses on what makes foods bad and even dangerous. Bad foods are not simply unpleasant or undesirable for aesthetic or sensory reasons but they can hinder the stability and development of persons and societies. Bad foods are symbolically polluting as in the case of foreign foods that threaten not only traditional foods but also the stability and strength of the nation and its people. The third section Moral Foods focuses on how themes of good versus bad are embedded in projects to make modern persons subjects and states with specific attention to the ambiguities and malleability of foods and health. The malleability of moral foods provides unique opportunities for understanding Asian societies dynamic position within larger global flows connections and disconnections. Collectively the chapters raise intriguing questions about how foods and the bodies that consume them have been valued politically economically culturally and morally and about how those values originated and evolved. Consumers in modern Asia are not simply eating to satisfy personal desires or physiological needs but they are also conscripted into national and global statemaking projects through acts of ingestion. Eating then has become about fortifying both the person and the nation.

Growing with Science and Health 2 Teacher's Manual 1st Ed. 1997, Health, Food and Social Inequality Carolyn Mahoney, 2015-02-20. Health Food and Social Inequality investigates how vast amounts of consumer data are used by the food industry to enable the social ranking of products food outlets and consumers themselves and how this influences food consumption patterns. This book supplies a fresh social scientific perspective on the health consequences of poor diet. Shifting the focus from individual behaviour to the food supply and the way it is developed and marketed it discusses what is known about the shaping of food behaviours by both social theory and psychology. Exploring how knowledge of social identities and health beliefs and behaviours are used by the food industry. Health Food and Social Inequality outlines for example how commercial marketing firms supply food companies with information on where to locate snack and fast foods whilst also advising governments on where to site health services for those consuming such foods disproportionately Giving a sociological underpinning to Nudge theory while simultaneously critiquing it in the context of diet and health this book explores how social class is an often overlooked factor mediating both individual dietary practice and food marketing strategies This innovative volume provides a detailed critique of marketing and food industry practices and places class at the centre of diet and health It is suitable for scholars in the social sciences public health and marketing

The African Food Environments Amos Laar, Kaleab Baye, Anna Lartey, Francis Zotor, Gershim Asiki, 2023-09-05 In many respects the continent of Africa is in transition Prominent among them currently is the nutrition transition One consequence of the nutrition transition is the increase in prevalence of nutrition related non communicable diseases NCDs such as obesity type 2 diabetes cardiovascular diseases and certain cancers Although NCDs are a global public health problem the rate of increase in NCDs morbidity and mortality in some African countries is staggering This surge has been linked to modifiable environmental factors factors that facilitate the consumption of obesogenic energy dense nutrient poor foods rather than unrefined cereals fruits and vegetables It has long been recognized that the physical and social environments in which people live work and eat are critical determinants of their health More recently there has been a greater focus on the food environment as a key determinant of health Available evidence shows that unhealthy food environments drive unhealthy diets and unhealthy diet is one of four main risk factors for NCDs
