Travelling towards Home Nicola Frost, Tom Selwyn, 2018-09-14 As we grapple with a growing refugee crisis a hardening of anti immigration sentiment and deepening communal segregation in many parts of the developed world questions of the nature of home and homemaking are increasingly critical This collection brings ethnographic insight into the practices of homemaking exploring a diverse range of contexts ranging from economic migrants to new Chinese industrial cities Jewish returnees from Israel to Ukraine and young gay South Asians in London While negotiating widely varying social political contexts these studies suggest an unavoidably multiple understanding of home while provoking new understandings of the material and symbolic process of making oneself at home

The Gallipoli Experience Reconsidered Peter Liddle, 2015-02-27 In The Gallipoli Experience Reconsidered World War I historian Peter Liddle reexamines the British military operation that ended in Allied defeat The Gallipoli Campaign is generally viewed as a disastrous failure of the First World War inadequately redeemed by the heroism of the soldiers and sailors who were involved in the fighting But before the first landings were made the concept of a strike at the Dardanelles seemed to offer a short cut to victory in a war without prospect of end The venture and what was required of the men undertaking it who were enduring heavy casualties eminently deserve reconsideration What fueled and what drained morale during the eight months of extraordinary human endeavor A balanced evaluation of the Gallipoli gamble and of the political and military leadership are the challenging tasks which Peter Liddle sets himself in his study of the campaign and the experience of the men who served in it
