Ecology And Palaeoecology Of Marine Environments:

Ecology and Palaeoecology of Marine Environments Wilhelm Schäfer, 1972 Palaeoecology P.J. Brenchley, D.A.T Harper, 2023-07-14 The first palaeoecology book to focus on evolutionary palaeoecology in both marine and terrestrial environments Discusses reconstruction of the past ecological world at population community and biogeographic levels A well illustrated and substantial volume giving accessible coverage of the full range of subjects within palaeoecology Reviews and summarises all the major mass extinctions U.S. Environmental Protection Agency Library System Book Catalog Holdings as of July 1973 United States. Environmental Protection Agency. Library Systems Branch, 1974 Paleontology in Ecology and Conservation Julien Louys, 2012-04-25 The fossil record contains unique long term insights into how ecosystems form and function which cannot be determined simply by examining modern systems It also provides a record of endangered species through time which allow us to make conservation decisions based on thousands to millions of years of information The aim of this book is to demonstrate how palaeontological data has been or could be incorporated into ecological or conservation scientific studies This book will be written by palaeontologists for modern ecologists and conservation scientists Manuscripts will fall into one or a combination of four broad categories case studies review articles practical considerations and future directions This book will serve as both a how to guide and provide the current state of knowledge for this type of research It will highlight the unique and critical insights that can be gained by the inclusion of palaeontological data into modern ecological or conservation studies Marine Conservation Ecology John Roff, 2013-09-05 This major textbook provides a broad coverage of the ecological foundations of marine conservation including the rationale importance and practicalities of various approaches to marine conservation and management The scope of the book encompasses an understanding of the elements of marine biodiversity from global to local levels threats to marine biodiversity and the structure and function of marine environments as related to conservation issues The authors describe the potential approaches initiatives and various options for conservation from the genetic to the species community and ecosystem levels in marine environments They explore methods for identifying the units of conservation and the development of defensible frameworks for marine conservation They describe planning of ecologically integrated conservation strategies including decision making on size boundaries numbers and connectivity of protected area networks The book also addresses relationships between fisheries and biodiversity novel methods for conservation planning in the coastal zone and the evaluation of conservation initiatives Paleoecology David J. Bottjer, 2016-02-10 PALEOECOLOGY PALEOECOLOGY Past Present and Future Paleoecology is a discipline that uses evidence from fossils to provide an understanding of ancient environments and the ecological history of life through geological time This text covers the fundamental approaches that have provided the foundation for present paleoecological understanding and outlines new research areas in paleoecology for managing future environmental and ecological change Topics include the use of actualism in paleoecology development of paleoecological models for paleoenvironmental reconstruction taphonomy and exceptional fossil preservation evolutionary paleoecology and ecological change through time and conservation paleoecology Data from studies of invertebrates vertebrates plants and microfossils with added emphasis on bioturbation and microbial sedimentary structures are discussed Examples from marine and terrestrial environments are covered with a particular focus on periods of great ecological change such as the Precambrian Cambrian transition and intervals of mass extinction Readership This book is designed for advanced undergraduates and beginning graduate students in the earth and biological sciences as well as researchers and applied scientists in a range of related disciplines

Foundations of Paleoecology S. Kathleen Lyons, Anna K. Behrensmeyer, Peter J. Wagner, 2019-12-13 Approximately 99% of all life that has ever existed is extinct Fortunately these long dead species have left traces of their lives and interactions with other species in the rock record that paleoecologists use to understand how species and ecosystems have changed over time This record of past life allows us to study the dynamic nature of the Earth and gives context to current and future ecological challenges This book brings together forty four classic papers published between 1924 and 1999 that trace the origins and development of paleoecology The articles cross taxonomic groups habitat types geographic areas and time and have made substantial contributions to our knowledge of the evolution of life Encompassing the full breadth of paleoecology the book is divided into six parts community and ecosystem dynamics community reconstruction diversity dynamics paleoenvironmental reconstruction species interaction and taphonomy Each paper is also introduced by a contemporary expert who gives context and explains its importance to ongoing paleoecological research A comprehensive introduction to the field Foundations of Paleoecology will be an essential reference for new students and established paleoecologists alike

The Black Sea Flood Question: Changes in Coastline, Climate and Human Settlement Valentina

Yanko-Hombach, Allan S. Gilbert, Nicolae Panin, Pavel M. Dolukhanov, 2006-11-15 Stimulated by Noah's Flood Hypothesis proposed by W. Ryan and W. Pitman in which a catastrophic inundation of the Pontic basin was linked to the biblical story leading experts in Black Sea research including oceanography, marine geology, paleoclimate, paleoenvironment, archaeology and linguistic spread provide overviews of their data and interpretations obtained through empirical scientific approaches. Among the contributors are many East European scientists whose work has rarely been published outside of Cyrillic. Each of the 35 papers marshals its own evidence for or against the flood hypothesis. No summary or overall resolution to the flood question is presented but instead access is provided to a broad range of interdisciplinary information that crosses previously impenetrable language barriers so that new work in the region can proceed with the benefit of a wider frame of reference. The three fundamental scenarios describing the late glacial to Holocene rise in the level of the Black Sea: catastrophic, gradual and oscillating are presented in the early pages with the succeeding papers organized by geographic sector: northern Ukraine, western Moldova, Romania and Bulgaria, southern Turkey and eastern Georgia and Russia as well as three papers on the Mediterranean. The volume thus brings together eastern and western scholarship to share research findings and perspectives on a controversial subject. In addition, appendices are included containing some 600 radiocarbon dates from the Pontic region obtained by USSR and western laboratories.

Whales, Whaling, and Ocean Ecosystems James A. Estes, 2006

Marine Biodiversity and Ecosystem Functioning Martin Solan, Rebecca J. Aspiden, David M. Paterson, 2012-07-19
This edited volume is the first to address the latest advances in biodiversity function science using marine examples. It provides an in-depth evaluation of the science before offering a perspective on future research directions for some of the most pressing environmental issues facing society today and in the future.

Conservation Palaeobiology of Marine Ecosystems R. Nawrot, S. Dominici, A. Tomašových, M. Zuschin, 2023-07-03
Conservation palaeobiology tracks the history of ecosystems based on the fossil record to guide conservation decisions and contribute to the theoretical foundations of conservation biology. The accelerating pace of global change requires better understanding of the long-term resilience and adaptive capacities of ecosystems. Fossil assemblages in outcrops and cores together with surface accumulations of skeletal remains represent unique archives of past ecosystem dynamics and baseline community states prior to anthropogenic impacts. However, as biological data retrieved from fossil and death assemblages cannot be treated in isolation, conservation palaeobiology integrates palaeontological and geological tools to account for the nature of the stratigraphic record. This volume brings together studies that demonstrate how combining marine palaeoecological records with other types of geohistorical data: taphonomic, sedimentological, geochronological, geochemical can inform biodiversity conservation and ecosystem management. The papers highlight novel approaches and challenges in applying geohistorical data to conservation problems discuss the limitations imposed by time averaging and offer both deep and near time perspectives on conservation palaeobiology of marine ecosystems

Invertebrate Palaeontology and Evolution E. N. K. Clarkson, 2009-07-17 Invertebrate Palaeontology and Evolution is well established as the foremost palaeontology text at the undergraduate level This fully revised fourth edition includes a complete update of the sections on evolution and the fossil record and the evolution of the early metazoans New work on the classification of the major phyla in particular brachiopods and molluscs has been incorporated The section on trace fossils is extensively rewritten The author has taken care to involve specialists in the major groups to ensure the taxonomy is as up to date and accurate as possible
