These goals, which focus on development and the elimination of poverty, serve as the agenda for international development efforts. The CD-ROM contains time series data for more than 200 economies from 1960-2009, single year observations, and spreadsheets on many topics. It contains more than 1,000 country tables and the text from the WDI 2010 print edition. Firms and entrepreneurs of all types, from microenterprises to multinationals, play a central role in growth and poverty reduction. Their investment decisions drive job creation, the availability and affordability of goods and services for consumers, and the tax revenues governments can draw on to fund health, education, and other services. Their contribution depends largely on the way governments shape the investment climate in each location through the protection of property rights, regulation, and taxation strategies for providing infrastructure, interventions in finance and labor markets, and broader governance features such as corruption. The World Development Report 2005 argues that improving the investment climates of their societies should be a top priority for governments. Drawing on surveys of nearly 30,000 firms in 53 developing countries country case studies and other new research the Report explores questions such as What are the key features of a good investment climate and how do they influence growth and poverty What can governments do to improve their investment climates and how can they go about tackling such a broad agenda What has been learned about good practice in each of the main areas of the investment climate What role might selective interventions and international arrangements play in improving the investment climate What can the international community do to help developing countries improve the investment climates of their societies In addition to detailed chapters exploring these and related issues the Report contains selected data from the World Bank s new program of Investment Climate Surveys the Bank s Doing Business Project and World Development Indicators 2004 an appendix of economic and social data for over 200 countries This Report offers practical insights for policymakers executives scholars and all those with an interest in economic development

World Development Report 2012 World Bank,2011-09-01 This year s World Development Report looks at facts and trends regarding the various dimensions of gender equality in the context of the development process

World Development Report 2012

The International Bank for Reconstruction and Development / The World BankThe International Bank for Reconstruction and Development / The World Bank,2011-09-28 The lives of women around the world have improved dramatically at a pace and scope difficult to imagine even 25 years ago Women have made unprecedented gains in rights education health and access to jobs and livelihoods More countries than ever guarantee equal rights in property marriage and other domains Gender gaps in primary schooling have closed in many countries while in a third of all countries girls now outnumber boys in secondary school And more young women than men attend universities in 60 countries Women are using their education to participate more in the labor force they now make up for 40 percent of the global labor force and 43 percent of its farmers Moreover women now live longer than men in every region of the world Despite the progress gaps remain in many areas Women are more likely to die relative to males in many low and middle income countries than their counterparts in rich countries especially in childhood and during their reproductive years Primary and secondary school enrollments for girls remain much lower than for boys in many Sub Saharan African countries and some parts of South Asia as well as among disadvantaged populations Women are more likely than men to work as unpaid family laborers or in the informal sector to farm smaller plots and grow less profitable crops operate in smaller firms and less profitable sectors and generally earn less Women especially poor women have less say over decisions and less control over household resources And in most countries fewer women participate in formal politics than men and are underrepresented in the upper echelons The World Development Report 2012 Gender Equality and Development argues that closing these persistent gender gaps matters It matters because gender equality is a core development objective in its own right But it is also smart economics Greater gender equality can enhance productivity improve development outcomes for the next generation and make institutions more representative Building on a growing body of knowledge on the economics of gender equality and development the Report identifies the areas where gender gaps are most significant both intrinsically and in terms of their potential development payoff and where growth alone cannot solve the issues It then sets forth four priorities for public action Reducing excess female mortality and closing education gaps where they remain Improving access to economic opportunities for women Increasing women s voice and agency in the household and in society Limiting the reproduction of gender inequality across generations
