Forms And Messages:

Conversational Forms of Instruction and Message Layer Design Andrew S. Gibbons, Elizabeth Boling, 2021-09-30

This book examines the theoretical basis of one of the functional layers the message layer of an architectural theory of instructional design The architectural theory Gibbons 2003 Gibbons Gibbons 2014 identifies seven functions carried out during instruction that correspond with designable strata or layers The architectural theory proposes that for each layer there exists a specialized body of design languages constructs questions tools practices processes a professional community and most especially bodies of design theory It also proposes that design knowledge from other design fields many of which approach design from the same functional perspective can be appropriated for the further development of knowledge within the instructional technology field A robust literature from disparate fields supplies relevant theory for message layer design This book builds the case for validation of the message layer by bringing together work from instructional theory conversation theory research in the learning sciences intelligent tutoring system research and K 12 education Within this literature the authors demonstrate the existence of the message as a structural abstraction an independently designable entity They trace the development of the message construct historically showing that it has remained remarkably stable over time independent of changing psychological educational and technological conventions
