Formulation Of Local Housing Strategies:

The Formulation of Local Housing Strategies Chris Nicol, 2017-05-15 Housing provision is a major dilemma for local authorities. There is currently a huge demand for more housing while increasing environmental, economic and political pressures must be considered when local authorities develop their policies. This remarkable volume investigates how local authorities formulate their housing strategies. It questions whether the local authority can be seen as a single entity in terms of housing or whether it is fragmented into separate departments. Incorporating in-depth empirical research from England and Wales, the book discusses whether the process of developing housing policy and allocating land needs to be more integrated and whether key players such as speculative house builders should be involved in the development of policy. Analyzing which information sources influence the local authority's land allocations and housing strategies, the volume debates whether they provide the most useful data and suggests alternative information sources that may assist in better land allocation policies. United States Code United States, 1989-01-03 United States Code: General index United States, 1994 Country Activities Report 2009 UN-Habitat, United Nations Human Settlements Programme, 2009

Congress. Senate. Committee on Banking, Housing, and Urban Affairs. Subcommittee on Housing and Urban Affairs, 1989 Investigating Town Planning Clara Greed, 2014-09-19 Following on from Introducing Town Planning and Implementing Town Planning, this third volume in the series examines the scope and nature of modern town planning in greater depth. It investigates the theories and preoccupations which inform the current planning agenda, compares this with earlier objectives and discusses likely future trends. Written by a team of expert contributors under the general editorship of Clara Greed, the book begins with a review of town planning and then goes on to discuss the major themes in five parts: the economic context of town planning; planning for housing; planning for sustainability; planning for city centres or decentralisation; changing agendas and agencies. Within this contextualising framework, the contributors investigate many of the current and often conflicting urban policy issues challenging the planning profession. Over and above a commitment to traditional physical land use matters, planning practitioners nowadays must take on board new priorities deriving from the environmental movement, the European Union, the economic climate, changing local authority structures and legislative frameworks. The contributors discuss these new agendas and demonstrate how they link to inner city regeneration, city centre management, sustainability issues and wider social policy and urban governance questions. This volume incorporates a more discursive and reflective approach to studying and thus constitutes a valuable text for final year undergraduate and postgraduate courses in town planning, surveying, building, architecture and housing, as well as RTPI, RICS, CIOH, CIOB, ASI, ISVA and RIBA courses. It will be of interest to a wider readership studying urban economics, urban sociology social policy and urban geography and to young professionals in both the public and private sector of the property world
