in the wake of Anthony Blunt's exposure as the fourth man in November 1979. With the Cold War intensifying patriotism running high during the Falklands War and the AIDS crisis leading to widespread homophobia, these notorious traitors were more relevant than ever. This book explores how they were depicted in literature, television, and film throughout the 1980s. Examining works by an array of distinguished writers including Dennis Potter, Alan Bennett, Tom Stoppard, and John le Carr, it sheds new light on the affair, asking why such privileged young men chose to betray their country, whether loyalty to one's friends is more important than patriotism, and whether we can really trust the intelligence services.

Models of the Family in Modern Societies Catherine Hakim, 2018-01-12. This title was first published in 2003. This text reports on two nationally representative surveys of men and women in Britain and Spain, the former being funded by the Future of Work Research Programme and conducted by the ONS. Catherine Hakim presents a study of ideal models of the family and family roles, work orientation, patriarchal values, and lifestyle preferences, showing how these impact on women's marital histories, fertility, employment patterns, and occupational segregation, but not on men's labour market participation. Lifestyle preferences and work orientations have a strong impact on women's activities and especially on married women's choices, but patriarchal values have almost no impact on behaviour. The book also covers educational homogamy, housing, classes, labour mobility, and contrasts between ethnic minority groups in core values and labour market participation.

The New Generation Bryan Robertson, 1968. The Road to Parnassus: Artist Strategies in Contemporary Art Diego Mantoan, 2020-10-06. How can one become a successful artist? Where should one start a career in the art world? What are useful strategies to achieve recognition in the art system? Such questions hoard in students' minds ever since entering art school, and they probably chase every kind of art professional who is at an early career stage. The Road to Parnassus tries to understand what makes a good start in today's art world, who are influential players in the field, and which strategies might apply. The swift career ascension of Glasgow artist Douglas Gordon, one of today's leading visual artists and of the broader YBA generation that rose into worldwide prominence in the 1990s, Damien Hirst, and Sarah Lucas, among the best known, serves as a convenient case to analyse contemporary artist strategies. This book takes a multidisciplinary approach, spanning from traditional art history to sociology and economics, pursuing the reconstruction of the field of forces in art as intended by French sociologist Pierre Bourdieu. Compared to previous publications on art system dynamics, such as Thompson's The 12 Million Stuffed Shark, this book offers an enhanced understanding of the factors that allow a young artist to enter the arena of contemporary art. The present research should help uncover the art system logic, which appears enigmatic to non-experts, revealing that artists are aware they need to consider global trends, beat competitors, and meet the demands of dealers, collectors, curators, and museums. This book furthers existing contributions on the YBAs, for example, Stallabrass's High Art, Lite, offering innovative conclusions on recent British art, such as on the duality between London and Glasgow, the gender opposition among emerging artists, and the predominance of resourceful authors.

The Planning of a New Town London

County Council,2015-03-05 The publication of The Planning of a New Town in 1961 aroused remarkable interest Its pages described a private new town sponsored by the London County Council LCC to be built at Hook in Hampshire a scheme that innovatively combined Garden City New Town traditions with sensitivity to modern design At its heart lay a multilevel and megastructural town centre intended to serve as a genuine focus for the gathering community featuring shops and amenities placed on a pedestrian deck with cars and servicing beneath The report itself proved extremely popular even though the New Town had fallen foul of political opposition at local and national levels and had been abandoned before any construction took place It offers an insight into the flux of ideas that surrounded New Town development in the early 1960s Analysing the world as it might have been not only identifies choices that were once available for shaping the built environment it also often reveals once cherished hopes and aspirations about how people might live in cities Women in Antitrust Verônica de Castro Lameira,2023-11-05 This is the first international book of the Women in Antitrust Network and we could not be more grateful for the opportunity to carry out this project and happier with the result The ambition to organize a book written by women from different countries and nationalities rose from the success of the national book Mulheres no Antitruste which is already in its 6th edition as well as from the WIA s dream of expanding the reach of its projects and introducing them to women from antitrust academic community outside Brazil Aiming to understand and pursue the most recent discussions on Antitrust Law in different jurisdictions we invited brilliant authors to contribute with unpublished articles about topics they considered most relevant and pertinent Furthermore in order to cover even more recent topics with subjects still under discussion we included a section in the book dedicated to shorter and already published articles and papers in order to make the book updated and informative Thus the WIA Network s first international book brings new and relevant contributions to the academic antitrust community while highlighting recent discussions which can encourage readers to develop new studies and research The authors were selected amongst women who are dedicated to understanding and resolving relevant issues of Antitrust Law and were essential to the achievement of this project To this end this book went through a long process taking two years of dedication from the WIA Academic Coordination We have selected the invited authors sent the invitations organized the agendas to meet the authors deadlines chosen the articles already published which make up the Session 2 of the book and finally analyzed reviewed and edited the articles The British and Foreign Medico-chirurgical Review Or Quarterly Journal of Practical Medicine and Surgery ,1865 The Decline of Power, 1915-1964 Robert Blake,2013-01-17 Between the disintegration of the Liberal Party in 1915 and the election of Harold Wilson s Labour in 1964 Britain weathered a turbulent half century including two world wars and many profound socio political changes What did not survive this tumult was Britain s sea based Empire as the great land based USA and USSR now assumed dominance With customary wit scholarship and wisdom Robert Blake guides the reader through Britain s slow decline from the world s premier power to a nation with no military commitments East of Suez still important wishing to see itself as a cut above the rest but now effectively no better than third ranking The most successful sections are the four brilliant chapters on the Second World War But it is not only for these that The Decline of Power should be read It is a fair minded book fluently even racily written Peter Pulzer London Review of Books

Gender and the Vote in Britain Rosie Campbell, 2024-07-30 The 2005 British general election witnessed unprecedented media interest in the parties attempts to woo women voters There was much speculation about a fracturing relationship between women and Tony Blair the term let down woman was used by the press to describe how the relationship had allegedly gone sour Gender and the Vote in Britain provides comprehensive analysis of the 1992 2005 British general elections and tests whether there were in fact sex differences in leadership evaluations party of vote and political attitudes The interactions between sex age class race and education are examined and gender effects are understood as tectonic plates that will shift and change according to the specific context of a given election Thus the argument of the book is that background or sociodemographic characteristics play an important role in electoral choice but that their impact is mitigated by other factors such as issue salience For example gender may impact upon political attitudes so that more women than men prioritise spending on health or education but this will only translate into voting behaviour if the political parties diverge on these issues

Demolishing Whitehall Adam Sharr, Stephen Thornton, 2016-12-05 This book is about a lost world albeit one less than 50 years old It is the story of a grand plan to demolish most of Whitehall London s historic government district and replace it with a ziggurat section megastructure built in concrete In 1965 the architect Leslie Martin submitted a proposal to Charles Pannell Minister of Public Building and Works in Harold Wilson s Labour government for the wholesale reconstruction of London s Government Centre Still reeling from war damage its eighteenth and nineteenth century palaces stood as the patched up headquarters of an imperial bureaucracy which had once dominated the globe Martin s plan by no means modest in conception scope or scale proposed their replacement with a complex that would span the roads into Parliament Square reframing the Houses of Parliament and Westminster Abbey The project was not executed in the manner envisaged by Martin and his associates although a surprising number of its proposals were implemented But the un built architecture is examined here for its insights into a distinctive moment in British history when a purposeful technological future seemed not just possible but imminent apparently sweeping away an anachronistic Edwardian establishment to be replaced with a new meritocracy forged in the white heat of technology The Whitehall plan had implications well beyond its specific site It was imagined by its architects as a scientific investigation into ideal building forms for the future an important development in their project to unify science and art For the political actors it represented a tussle between government departments between those who believed that Britain needed to discard much of its Victorian and Edwardian decoration in the name of professionalization and those who sought to preserve its ornate finery Demolishing Whitehall investigates these tensions between ideas of technology and history science and art socialism and el

New Demographics New Workspace Jeremy Myerson, Jo-Anne Bichard, 2016-04-29 Offices shape the lives of millions of people. How we plan, design and equip them says a great deal about the culture of organisations, the mentality of managers and the motivations of staff. But getting the right balance between management efficiency and individual wellbeing is as elusive as ever. New Demographics New Workspace looks for answers in some new places. The authors address ways in which the office environment can be redesigned to offer greater levels of comfort, flexibility and fitness for purpose in the new age of the older knowledge worker. Based on the findings of the authors' Welcoming Workplace research project at the Royal College of Art, Helen Hamlyn Centre, New Demographics New Workspace examines the impact of two of the most significant shifts in the workplace: the ageing of the workforce and the changing nature of work itself in the knowledge economy. By examining the movements and motivations of older knowledge workers in the UK, Japan and Australia, the authors have generated new conceptual approaches to office design that offer an alternative to the current outdated model derived from the factory floor. In particular, they question the value of open plan offices that favour collaboration over concentration and contemplation. Given the growing pensions crisis and anticipated knowledge gap in the workforce in many developed countries, this book has real political, economic and social resonance. If we are all going to have extended working lives in the 21st century, the places in which we work will need to flex and adapt to make us want to keep on working. Brexitland Maria Sobolewska, Robert Ford, 2020-10-15 Long term social and demographic changes and the conflicts they create continue to transform British politics. In this accessible and authoritative book, Sobolewska and Ford show how deep the roots of this polarisation and volatility run, drawing out decades of educational expansion and rising ethnic diversity as key drivers in the emergence of new divides within the British electorate over immigration, identity and diversity. They argue that choices made by political parties from the New Labour era onwards have mobilised these divisions into politics, first through conflicts over immigration, then through conflicts over the European Union, culminating in the 2016 EU referendum. Providing a comprehensive and far-reaching view of a country in turmoil, Brexitland explains how and why this happened for students, researchers and anyone who wants to better understand the remarkable political times in which we live. The Working Class and Twenty-First-Century British Fiction Phil O'Brien, 2019-12-05 The Working Class and Twenty-First-Century British Fiction looks at how the twenty-first-century British novel has explored contemporary working-class life. Studying the works of David Peace, Gordon Burn, Anthony Cartwright, Ross Raisin, Jenni Fagan and Sunjeev Sahota, the book shows how they have mapped the shift from deindustrialisation through to stigmatization of individuals and communities who have experienced profound levels of destabilization and unemployment. O'Brien argues that these novels offer ways of understanding fundamental aspects of contemporary capitalism for the working class in modern Britain, including class struggle, inequality, trauma, social abjection, racism and stigmatization, exclusively looking at British working-class literature of the twenty-first century. A History of the French New Wave Cinema Richard Neupert, 2007-04-20 The French New Wave cinema is arguably the most fascinating of all film movements famous for its exuberance daring and avant garde techniques A History of the French New Wave Cinema offers a fresh look at the social economic and aesthetic mechanisms that shaped French film in the 1950s as well as detailed studies of the most important New Wave movies of the late 1950s and early 1960s Richard Neupert first tracks the precursors to New Wave cinema showing how they provided blueprints for those who would follow He then demonstrates that it was a core group of critics turned directors from the magazine Cahiers du Cin ma especially Fran ois Truffaut Claude Chabrol and Jean Luc Godard who really revealed that filmmaking was changing forever Later their cohorts Eric Rohmer Jacques Rivette Jacques Doniol Valcroze and Pierre Kast continued in their own unique ways to expand the range and depth of the New Wave In an exciting new chapter Neupert explores the subgroup of French film practice known as the Left Bank Group which included directors such as Alain Resnais and Agn s Varda With the addition of this new material and an updated conclusion Neupert presents a comprehensive review of the stunning variety of movies to come out of this important era in filmmaking
