Frontiers in Statistical Quality Control 8 Hans-Joachim Lenz, Peter-Theodor Wilrich, 2006-08-08 In Canada acceptance sampling has been used in legal metrology applications for nearly four decades One of its principal uses has been in the quality control of utility meters that measure electricity or natural gas supplied to consumers By law such meters must be inspected for conformance to specification requirements prior to use and be periodically inspected while in use With few exceptions due to the numerous utility companies in the country and their varied practices the meters exist in the form of isolated lots for inspection purposes The proportion of nonconforming meters in a lot has traditionally defined lot quality for utility meter sampling inspection purposes Another principal application of acceptance sampling has been in the quality control of the net contents of packaged products sold in the marketplace Such products include those sold on the basis of such measures as weight volume length and area In this particular application products are also usually inspected on an isolated lot basis for regulatory purposes However lot quality is usually measured on the basis of two criteria for such products the proportion of nonconforming packages in the lot and the lot mean quantity This section reviews Canadian quality control practices in these two areas of application highlighting some of the deficiencies and issues Three class sampling plans are proposed as a possible solution to some of these deficiencies and issues

Frontiers in Statistical Quality Control 13 Sven Knoth, Wolfgang Schmid, 2021-05-15 This contributed book focuses on major aspects of statistical quality control shares insights into important new developments in the field and adapts established statistical quality control methods for use in e g big data network analysis and medical applications The content is divided into two parts the first of which mainly addresses statistical process control also known as statistical process monitoring In turn the second part explores selected topics in statistical quality control including measurement uncertainty analysis and data quality The peer reviewed contributions gathered here were originally presented at the 13th International Workshop on Intelligent Statistical Quality Control ISQC 2019 held in Hong Kong on August 12 14 2019 Taken together they bridge the gap between theory and practice making the book of interest to both practitioners and researchers in the field of statistical quality control the 1920 s Walter Shewhart visualized that the marriage of statistical methods and manufacturing processes would produce reliable and consistent quality products Shewhart 1931 conceived the idea of statistical process control SPC and developed the well known and appropriately named Shewhart control chart However from the 1930s to the 1990s literature on SPC schemes have been captured by the Shewhart paradigm of normality independence and homogeneous variance When in fact the problems facing today s industries are more inconsistent than those faced by Shewhart in the 1930s As a result of the advances in machine and sensor technology process data can often be collected on line In this situation the process observations that result from data collection activities will frequently not be serially independent but autocorrelated Autocorrelation has a significant impact on a control chart the process may not exhibit a state of statistical control when in fact it is in control As the prevalence of this type of data is expected to increase in industry Hahn 1989 so does the need to control and monitor it Equivalently literature has reflected this trend and research in the area of SPC with autocorrelated data continues so that effective methods of handling correlated data are available This type of data regularly occurs in the chemical and process industries and is pervasive in computer integrated manufacturing environments clinical laboratory settings and in the majority of SPC applications across various manufacturing and service industries Alwan 1991
