Sherpa Hospitality as a Cure for Frostbite Mark Horrell,2021-12-01 The heroic story of how Sherpas stood up and took control of their destiny Ever since Europeans started exploring the world s highest mountains and trying to reach their summits in the early 20th century Sherpas have been an integral part of mountaineering expeditions to the Himalayas In this anthology curated from his popular Footsteps on the Mountain blog Mark Horrell explores the evolution of Sherpa mountaineers from the porters of early expeditions to the superstar climbers of the present day Writing with trademark warmth and humour he starts by bringing to life the Sherpa characters of the early days describing their customs and superstitions and putting their contributions and achievements into context In the deeply personal second section of the book he covers some of the conflicts of the 21st century when a series of high profile controversies highlighted the tensions between Sherpas and western climbers on Everest He was a witness to a devastating avalanche in the Khumbu Icefall that killed 16 Nepali mountain workers and led to a labour dispute and he describes the events that followed from a commercial client s perspective In the final section of the book he brings the story up to date and looks to the future as Sherpas have moved out of the limelight of westerners running successful mountaineering expedition companies and becoming celebrated climbers in their own right It s uncommon to come across stories that look beneath the surface to investigate deeper issues while remaining accessible and humorous Sherpa Hospitality achieves this Alex Roddie

Uncertain Images: Museums and the Work of Photographs Elizabeth Edwards, Sigrid Lien, 2016-02-17 Almost all museums hold photographs in their collections and museum professionals and their audiences engage with photographs in a myriad of ways Yet despite some three decades of critical museology and photographic theory and an extensive debate on the politics of representation outside art museums almost no critical attention has been given specifically to the roles purposes and lives of these photographs within museums This book brings into focus the ubiquitous yet entirely unconsidered work that photographs are put to in museums The authors argument is that there is an economy of photographs in museums which is integral to the processes of the museum and integral to the understanding of museums The international contributors drawn from curators and academics reflect a range of visual and museological expertise After an introduction setting out the range of questions and problems the first part addresses broad curatorial strategies and ways of thinking about photographs in museums Shifting the emphasis from curatorial practices and anxieties to the space of the gallery this is followed by a series of case studies of exhibitionary practices and the museum strategies that support them The third section focuses on the role of photographs in the museum articulation of difficult histories A final section addresses photograph collections in a digital environment New technologies and new media have transformed the management address and purposing in photographs in museums from cataloguing practices to streaming on social media These growing practices challenge both traditional hierarchies of knowledge in museums and the location of authority about photographs The volume emerges from PhotoCLEC a HERA funded project on museums and the photographic legacy of the colonial past in a postcolonial and multicultural Europe
