Twelve Steps to Reform Canadian Public Education Bill McKerlich, 2002 Are the learning needs of children and youth being met by the Canadian school system Is it possible for all students to learn what is essential to function in our society What must be done to reform schools Canadian parents business leaders citizens community and political leaders are asking these and similar questions They know that education is essential for their children and they realize that our country's future depends on a population of educated citizens This book is Bill McKerlich's response to these questions Twelve Steps to Reform Canadian Public Education outlines both a comprehensive assessment and a thoughtful plan for the necessary reform of our schools written by an experienced educator Focus To adjust the focal length of the eye to give a clear image Our school system may have been adequate for the past but is now out of focus with the present learning needs of our students The system requires immediate adjustment so that it has a clear image of purpose and how to achieve this purpose As part of this process it will be necessary to improve the early childhood development of an important minority of our children Using our democratic processes these adjustments will be discussed and changes decided The results will be immediately planned and implemented If this does not happen effective public schooling for all children and youth will be lost and a significant minority of Canadian children will not reach their potential to be happy and productive citizens The resulting long term negative social and economic consequences will cripple our society Book Purpose The purpose of this book is to assist this important public discussion by outlining a plan of school reform in twelve steps The plan describes how the early childhood development of some deprived children can improve and how the school system can be refocused so that all children will learn to the maximum of their ability Book Organisation The steps are stated at the beginning of the chapters in which they are described The first five chapters centre on children learning teaching and schools The later four chapters describe the organisation governance leadership and management processes required for schools to have all children learn The twelve steps form a planned approach to improving schools with the steps often interdependent on each other This approach is in contrast to the unsatisfactory ad hoc tinkering that public education has experienced over the years The plan has direct relevance to the Canadian provinces but may have some application to the education jurisdictions of other countries Visit the author's website at <http://www.reform-education.com>

The Community of the Weak Hans-Peter Geiser, 2013-03-28 Social postmodernism and systematic theology can be considered the new pair in some of the most creative discussions on the future of theological method on a global scale Both in the academy and in the public square as well as in the manifold local and pastoral moments of ministry and community social activism the social the postmodern and the theological intermingle in engaging and border crossing ways The Community of the Weak presents a new kind of jazzy fundamental theology with a postmodern touch using jazz as a metaphor writing ethnographically messy texts out of the personal windows of lived experiences combining fragments of autobiography with theological reconstruction A comparative perspective on North American and European developments in contemporary systematic theology serves as a hermeneutical horizon to juxtapose two continents in their very different contexts The author proposes a systematic and fundamental theology that is more jazzy global and narrative deeply embedded in pastoral ministry to tell its postmodern story

Creating Thinking Classrooms Garfield Gini-Newman, Roland Case, 2018-03-22 Reinvigorating today's schools with Critical Creative and Collaborative thinking Critical creative and collaborative thinking should be at the centre of all 21st century teaching and learning Creating Thinking Classrooms is loaded with examples stories and strategies for reinvigorating schools with this quality thinking Written for leaders who support teachers this guide treats educational change as a process of renovation rather than process of revolution and emphasizes building upon refining and sustaining the many good things happening in today's schools Practical and user friendly it emphasizes five key principles for learning and teaching Engaging students Sustaining inquiry Nurturing self regulated learners Creating assessment rich learning Enhancing learning through digital technology As a balanced and reasoned response to the challenges and opportunities facing schools this book separates the rhetoric of school reform from reality by analyzing what's actually happening and offering a plan educators can use Recapture the fundamentals of classroom learning with a practical and powerful roadmap charting the way forward As a principal and community superintendent I observed firsthand how transformational the work of Garfield Gini Newman and Roland Case is in the school community and on a systemic level in the school community and on a systemic level Creating Thinking Classrooms takes theory and research and places it directly into the hands of practitioners by offering thoughtful and immediately useful strategies Not only does this work transform engagement and achievement but it also transforms thinking for both teachers and their students Teaching and learning go from passive acquisition of information to active purposeful and deliberate interaction with the curriculum It is a must read Ursula A Hermann Ph D retired principal and community superintendent Montgomery County Public Schools What impresses me most about Creating Thinking Classrooms is the notion of framing the retooling of schools as renovation or reinvigoration rather than as revolution Too many seem to ignore that there are many good things worth preserving in our schools and others that need to be reframed or recast to give them greater currency This book builds on what has worked and makes it better The message being purposeful and patiently focused on long term success is a powerful one that needs to be heard above the din David Chojnacki Executive Director Near East South Asia Council of Overseas Schools
