House of Commons - Health Committee: 2013 Accountability Hearing with Monitor - HC 841
Great Britain: Parliament: House of Commons: Health Committee, Stephen Dorrell, 2014-03-26 This year's inquiry into the work of Monitor concludes that the model of care provided by the health and care system is not changing quickly enough with the result that pressures continue to build threatening the financial stability of individual providers and therefore the quality of care provided The pressures are likely to be particularly marked in the acute sector as plans are prepared and implemented to achieve the resource transfer required by the introduction of the Better Care Fund from April 2015 Continuing this theme the Committee argues that as the NHS financial situation tightens the challenge for Monitor in supporting trusts in financial difficulty is likely to increase The MPs emphasise the importance of addressing pressures within individual providers in the context of the local health economy The requirement for major change in the care model can only be delivered if individual providers and Monitor as their regulator look beyond preserving existing structures and address the need to develop different structures to meet changing needs The Committee also expresses concern that Monitor has not done enough to reform the system of tariff payments for providers arguing that the current tariff arrangements often create perverse incentives for providers and inhibit necessary service change It recommends that Monitor and NHS England should initiate a formal joint process for a prioritised review of the NHS tariff arrangements with the objective of identifying and eliminating perverse incentives and introducing new tariff structures which incentivise necessary service change

By Ralph Barnes Cathedral Church (EXETER). Chapter of,1841 Moral Rights, Creativity, and Copyright Law Sarah Hook,2023-12-29 This book argues that moral rights provisions in copyright law rest on a misunderstanding or romanticisation of the role of the author The Romantic conception of authorship as a lone genius creating from nothing sensitive and vulnerable has helped publishers push for strong copyright reform But is this conception borne out in practice especially in a world of meme culture of artificial intelligence generated art and poetry and of open source and fan fiction This book probes the romantic vignette of the author through its legal adoption Moral rights are rights that attach to the non economic for example intellectual or emotional interests of an author in their work Much like defamation moral rights see the right of reputation as superior to the right of freedom of expression However unlike defamation moral rights are not protecting against defamatory actions against a person In most jurisdictions they are provisions set within copyright regimes regimes whose purpose is to incentivise innovation Challenging the way we think about authorship and how it should be protected by law the book draws on a wide range of historical and contemporary examples to demonstrate how moral rights can constitute a barrier to transformative creativity While authors and artists require strong rights to protect their ability to earn an income and incentivise creativity moral rights the book argues may in turn actually harm their ability to do so This timely criticism of moral rights will appeal to researchers students policy makers and lawyers working in the area of intellectual property law as well as legal theorists sociolegal scholars and legal historians with relevant interests

Foundation Trusts and Monitor Great Britain. Parliament. House of Commons. Health Committee, 2008 In 2004 a new type of NHS organisation was established the NHS foundation trust FT which was to benefit from a greater degree of financial and management freedom and different arrangements to improve local accountability There are now over 100 NHS foundation trusts This report examines the trusts and the organisation Monitor that monitors their performance FTs have some proven strengths They have performed well financially and generated surpluses and have been high performers in routine NHS process quality measures But it is not clear whether their high performance is the result of their changed status or simply a continuation of long term trends since the best trusts have become FTs Key aims of FTs were the promotion of innovation and greater public involvement There are examples of good practice in both of these areas but again there is a lack of objective evidence The Government should commission research to assess all aspects of FTs performance objectively so that best practice can be shared with other FTs and with the NHS more widely Concerns persist about what level of Government intervention in FTs affairs is legitimate and the Government must clarify what the appropriate levels of intervention are Finally Monitor s application process and regulatory regime seems to be well regarded However a complex regulatory environment of other organisations also surrounds FTs and in particular there is potential duplication between the Healthcare Commission and Monitor both of which evaluate the quality of FTs services

Academic Foundation`S Bulletin On Money, Banking And Finance Volume -47 Analysis, Reports, Policy Documents Editor : Sona Kapila, 2003 Academic Foundation`s Bulletin on Money, Banking and Finance Volume -50 Analysis, Reports, Policy Documents Editor : Sona Kapila, 2004 The Foundation Pillars for Change K. V. Patel, 2014-02-28 The author had identified six Foundations Pillars that are the essential and minimum requirements for all nations to ensure development and improvements for all their citizenry These are appropriate building blocks regardless of the type of government the nation has or the level of industrialisation and progress of their economy This book focuses on India it provides a dimension to the already ignited and meaningful discussion and debate for the 2014 Indian General Elections It focuses on national and regional level issues to identify longer term sustainable changes that are required for the essential improvements in India for the benefit of all its citizens Building on the principle of Ashokas Pillar and stone inscribed edicts found across South Asia this book aims to engage citizens to the key priorities and importance of the six Foundation Pillars that form the basis of national transformational changes that are necessary to ensure improvements for all our citizens Using the analogy of a house a house we name India these priorities form the six Foundation Pillars on which the new House of India can be built they are the necessary components before citizens can the build a new Indian super structure house above ground The weaker these Foundation Pillars the greater the chance of unevenness and movement and consequently that the building blocks above ground will crack damage and eventually either need rebuilding or redesigning The Indian approach in many aspects follows behaviour of build neglect rebuild where they build something not necessarily to last but sufficient for a period neglect it and then have to rebuild it as by that time it is beyond repair This is where the author believes India is at the moment and this case study focuses on what citizens could do to change this for their benefit
