My First Summer in the Sierra John Muir, 1911 John Muir, a young Scottish immigrant, had not yet become a famed conservationist when he first trekked into the foothills of the Sierra Nevada not long after the Civil War. He was so captivated by what he saw that he decided to devote his life to the glorification and preservation of this magnificent wilderness. My First Summer in the Sierra, whose heart is the diary Muir kept while tending sheep in Yosemite country, enticed thousands of Americans to visit this magical place and resounds with Muir's regard for the divine, enduring, unwastable wealth of the natural world. A classic of environmental literature, My First Summer in the Sierra continues to inspire readers to seek out such places for themselves and make them their own.

The Complete Plant Selection Guide for Landscape Design Marc C. Stoecklein, 2011-03-15 This book is a quick and easy to use reference guide for choosing plant material for landscape designs. This reference manual includes comprehensive lists with search criteria for each of the major plant groups including trees, shrubs, groundcovers, perennials, vines, grasses, and ferns. These plant groups contain hundreds of specific species, varieties, and cultivars that are readily available in the marketplace from the major production nurseries. Landscape architects, designers, contractors, or anyone who designs with plants can easily choose plants that will work on their site. The book is technical enough for the professional yet simple enough to be used by the layperson. Both botanical and common names are used, and an extensive amount of cultural and environmental information is presented. While many other books of this kind give only basic information such as sun, shade, height, width, there are so many as 30 specific categories for each plant group. The categories cover such important criteria as light and soil requirements, zone, hardiness, height and width, pest and disease susceptibility, urban tolerance, and tolerance to salt and drought. The lists also include many criteria often overlooked such as growth rates, overall messiness, root systems, minimal fall clean up, maintenance levels, soil pH, and landscape value, use, and many visual characteristics such as texture, foliage color, and fall colors, bloom colors, and seasons, shapes, and forms, attractive bark, and foliage, and more. There is also a candid Pros/Cons section covering some realistic considerations for each of the plant species groups.

Imperial Gullies Kate Barger Showers, 2005 Once the grain basket for South Africa, much of Lesotho has become a scarred and treeless wasteland. The nation's spectacular gullying has concerned environmentalists and conservationists for more than half a century. In Imperial Gullies: Soil Erosion and Conservation in Lesotho, Kate B. Showers documents the truth behind this devastation. Showers reconstructs the history of the landscape beginning with a history of the soil. She concludes that Lesotho's distinctive erosion chasms, called dongas, often cited as an example of destructive land use practices by African farmers, actually were caused by colonial and postcolonial practices The residents of Lesotho emerge as victims of a failed technology Their efforts to mitigate or resist implementation of destructive soil conservation engineering works were thwarted and they were blamed for the consequences of policies promoted by international soil conservationists since the 1930s Imperial Gullies calls for an observational experimental and most importantly a fully consultative and participatory approach to address Lesotho s serious contemporary problems of soil erosion The first book to bring to center stage the historical practice of colonial soil science and a cautionary tale of western science in unfamiliar terrain it will interest a broad interdisciplinary audience in African and environmental studies social sciences and history Showers shows how local people understood that colonial contour conservation methods and road building actually stimulated gully erosion something colonial scientists failed to realize Overall it is undoubtedly one of the most important books written to date on any part of the environmental history of Africa Moreover it stands out in the discipline of environmental history in general as an unusually sophisticated work of great insight and explanatory power Richard H Grove author of Green Imperialism Colonial Expansion Tropical Island Edens and the Origins of Environmentalism 1600 1860 Kate B Showers is a visiting research fellow and senior research associate at the Centre for World Environmental History University of Sussex England She has lived in rural Lesotho and has served as head of research Institute of Southern African Studies National University of Lesotho
