Fundamental Anthropology By Michael Landmann:

Fundamental Anthropology Michael Landmann, 1985-09-09 Michael Landmann one of the prominent philosophers and scholars of our time died in Haifa Israel on January 25 1984 at the age of seventy He has enriched contemporary philosophy through his numerous writings whose principal theme was man's place in the world or philosophical anthropology summarized as the conception of man as an individual with knowledge of his place within a historical tradition man is therefore an expression of subjective and objective spirit at the same time In this manner he merges philosophical anthropology with cultural anthropology Co published with the Center for Advanced Research in Phenomenology this volume includes a foreword by Ze'ev Levy

The Fundamentals of Philosophy Patricia Sommer, 2022-04-17 Philosophy has had a long and sometimes rocky career It is older than 2 000 years and ranges from antiquity through the Middle Ages and the Renaissance periods to modern times and the present day To fit 2 000 years into a single volume is impossible since there are so many different directions that a person would not understand in his lifetime The contents of the book are The basic principles of philosophy The disciplines of philosophy Practical Philosophy Introduction Conclusion This book has therefore concentrated on the most important aspects of philosophy with its twelve disciplines which form the basis for all further positions Some disciplines have survived from antiquity to the present day and therefore represent very important aspects of philosophy while other disciplines are comparatively young including some of the currents that are particularly important for the present Not only does philosophy play a major role in politics and governance but it is also the foundation of any science This book therefore aims to explain why precisely this aspect is overlooked and sometimes even ignored by so many people even though even psychology can be traced back to philosophy This book is thus intended to help those who want to try to broaden their philosophical horizons The first small introduction to the world of philosophy Have fun

The Human as the Other Matthew Rukgaber, 2025-01-23 Philosophical anthropology investigates what makes us human but it has produced accounts that exclude some members of our species It relies often on non naturalistic philosophies of consciousness that locate humanity in the cognitive capacity to objectively represent things to reason teleologically and use tools to use symbols and language or to be self conscious and question existence This work pursues an alternative thoroughly naturalistic philosophical anthropology by combining Arnold Gehlen's theory of our behaviorally detached and institutionally structured impulses with Maurice Merleau Ponty's views on intersubjectivity affect sexuality and social institutions It locates the human within the unique structure of our capacity for feeling which produces an inclusive account of the human as the other or Homo alter Humans are deeply and thoroughly dependent on affective bodily communicative bonds in which other humans appear as sources of pleasure communicative meaning institutional norms and interpersonal approbation and disapprobation However this socio biological account of the human denies that human nature alone can prescribe the necessary form of institutions such as the home which is a criticism of any potential political anthropology A result of this focus on our social and affective natures is a novel account of shame as a response to institutional and interpersonal exclusion. Failing to recognize humanity within our dependency on others and the structure of feeling is a widespread problem in philosophy and society in general that contributes to the social and metaphysical exclusion of disabled persons who might lack certain forms of consciousness and cognition. Reimagining philosophical anthropology as the study of the unique way that human beings are socially present to one another, this work challenges such dehumanization. Anthropology Christoph Wulf, 2024-05-31

Originally published in German, Christoph Wulf's Anthropology sets its sights on a topic as ambitious as its title suggests: anthropology itself. Arguing for an interdisciplinary and intercultural approach to anthropology that incorporates science, philosophy, history, and many other disciplines, Wulf examines with breathtaking scope all the ways that anthropology has been understood and practiced around the globe and through the years. Seeking a central way to understand anthropology in the midst of many different approaches to the discipline, Wulf concentrates on the human body. An emblem of society, culture, and time, the body is also the result of many mimetic processes: the active acquisition of cultural knowledge. By examining the role of the body in the performance of rituals, gestures, language, and other forms of imagination, he offers a bold new look at how culture is produced, handed down, and transformed. Drawing such examinations into a comprehensive and sophisticated assessment of the discipline as a whole, Anthropology looks squarely at the mystery of humankind and the ways we have attempted to understand it.

Dostoevsky's Conception of Man Peter McGuire Wolf, 1997-10

Dostoevsky's novels have contributed to a conception of man that reverberates in the conclusions of prominent twentieth-century philosophical anthropologists: Max Scheler, Martin Heidegger, Jean-Paul Sartre, Maurice Merleau-Ponty, and Albert Camus, among others, have admitted that the works of Dostoevsky had an influence on the manner in which they learned to conceive of human nature and the world in which humans live. Our aim in this dissertation is to ask what is there in the novels of Dostoevsky concerning the nature of man, of which certain philosophers could claim that in their philosophical conceptions of man they were positively influenced by him. The main thesis is substantiated with a careful analysis of four novels: Notes From the House of the Dead (Zapiski iz mertvogo doma), Notes From the Underground (Zapiski iz podpol'ia), Crime and Punishment (Prestuplenie i nakazanie), and The Brothers Karamazov (Brat'ia Karamazovy). These novels were chosen partly because I have come to the conclusion that these novels more than others concretely show in what sense the leading characters appear to have made themselves be what they had freely chosen to be under the circumstances in which they had to live, and that they were fully aware of the responsibility they had to bear for the implications and consequences of what they had thus decided. Based upon a close reading, four interpretive chapters employ the most significant criticism from English, Russian, and French literary scholarship. Dostoevsky's philosophical conception of man is compared and contrasted with the conception that Scheler and Heidegger hold, i.e., that freedom is man's essence. Sartre's atheistic humanism and Camus' thought. The following conclusions are consonant with Dostoevsky's work: freedom is constitutive for the being, or the mode of being; essence of man it is an inalienable duty one must become oneself Man strives to overcome himself and to exceed his freedom but in so doing invariably loses it Man exceeds himself only in the sense that he realizes an ideal human possibility The Dostoevskian man reveals not only the absence of human nature but also the enormous power which man possesses for achieving his ideal human possibility

Principles of Subjective Anthropology Binggong Chen, 2023-03-27 This book puts forward the concept of subjective anthropology and outlines a theoretical system that will allow subjective anthropology to qualify as a new academic discipline in its own right In an effort to respond to the field's proper role as the science of humanity subjective analysis has been introduced into the study of anthropology The book fills two distinct gaps in our knowledge and understanding of modern man offering detailed descriptions of personality and of groups while also advancing the theory of structure and choice The book formulates seven basic principles of subjective anthropology and divides anthropology into three major branches subjective anthropology cultural anthropology and biological or physical anthropology which can be further divided into sub branches The book pursues three key goals advancing and developing the theoretical system of subjective anthropology reconstructing the discipline of anthropology and establishing a Chinese anthropology with Chinese characteristics Chinese visions and Chinese styles to the world at large some selections are systematic in scope while others are more historically focused The authors address issues ranging from the earliest expressions of individual human fulfillment in the Bible and medieval Jewish discussions of the human good to modern discussions of the necessity for the Jew to maintain both a Jewish sensibility as well as an active engagement in the modern pluralistic state Contributors include Eugene Borowitz Elliot N Dorff Daniel H Frank Robert Gibbs Lenn E Goodman Ze ev Levy Kenneth Seeskin and Martin D Yaffe

The Philosophical Review ,1986 Eric Voegelin and the Foundations of Modern Political Science Barry Cooper,Eric Voegelin,1999 Annotation This important new work is a major analysis of the foundation of Eric Voegelin s political science Barry Cooper maintains that the writings Voegelin undertook in the 1940s provide the groundwork for the brilliant book that is one of his best known The New Science of Politics At the time of that book s publication however few were aware of the enormous knowledge and accomplished scholarship that lay behind its illuminating although sometimes baffling formulations By focusing on several of the key chapters in Voegelin s eight volume History of Political Ideas especially the studies of Bodin Vico and Schelling Cooper shows how those studies provide the basis for Voegelin s thought Investigating Voegelin s study of Oriental influences on Western political ideas especially Mongol constitutional law and his study of Toynbee Cooper seeks to demonstrate the vast range of materials Voegelin used Cooper contends that as with other great thinkers political crisis specifically the world war of 1939 1945 stimulated Voegelin s intellectual and spiritual achievement He provides an analysis of Voegelin s immediate concern with the course of World War II his ability to understand those dramatic events in a large context and his ability to provide an insightful account of the causes the significance and the consequences of the spiritual and political disorder that was evident all around him In Eric Voegelin and the Foundations of Modern Political Science Cooper makes the connection between Voegelin s political writings of the 1940s and the meditative interpretations that began to appear with the publication of Anamnesis and with the later volumes of Order and History much more intelligible than does any existing discussion of Voegelin Scholars in intellectual history and political science will benefit enormously from this valuable new addition to Voegelin studies American Philosophical Quarterly Nicholas Rescher,1986 Philosophical Anthropology Michael Landmann,1974 Philosophical Anthropology is one of the post Husserlian splinters a dizzying mix and match of phenomeno psycho anthro philosophical hyphenated schools of thought It arose first in the 1920 s out of the same intellectual promptings as existentialism which it briefly rivaled It differs from existentialism and other phenomenologies in fine ways which Landmann combs scrupulously along with distinctions among the sub specialties that have proliferated within the field itself Fortunately two more general premises distinguish it from other forms of anthropology First taking anthropology in its broadest sense as man s search for a self conception it allows a signal shaping importance to its own formulations culturally speaking and psychologically too man tries tends to fit his self image Second embracing man and everything human as its focus it assumes phenomenology s grandest claims reconciliation of the inward and the outer and by inference at least a proper holistic restoration of the essential human sphere The impulse and the method are widely evident now and several disciplines seem to be quivering toward some such point of convergence But it is a moot point whether Philosophical Anthropology will stake out the ground Landmann traces it from its substantive origins with the Greeks down through its most niggling modern self assertions in a strictly academic survey of high philosophical or similarly accredited propositions The argumentative appeals Freud Nietzsche seem rather dated now and there is a further difficulty in that the action and its object are one and the same the medium so to speak is the message i e thought about man While this is a necessary aspect of the method it can be disorienting Scholars however will know where they are and this will admit admirably to conventional general uses

Choice ,1985 The Relevance of the Church in the 21st Century Nigerian Society Richard C. Onwuanibe,1995 Tribal Epistemologies Helmut Wautischer,2019-01-15 First published in 1998 this collection of ten essays transforms our understanding of both the role of philosophical anthropology in modern world philosophy and the origins of tribal knowledge in their relation to contemporary assessments of cognition and consciousness Ethnographic data from geographically distant cultures such as the Maori of New Zealand the Fore of New Guinea the Sea Nomads of the Andaman the Cowlitz of North America the Maya Australian Aborigines Siberian Shamans are carefully crafted toward an empirical basis for discussing a variety of phenomena traditional labelled in Western thought as transcendent or metaphysical This anthology is a valuable source of information relevant for any theories of knowledge and a solid challenge for reductionist models of consciousness The essays enhance our recognition and appreciation of fundamental similarities as well as differences in world views and cultural perspectives related to knowledge claims This anthology illustrates unplumbed depths of human consciousness reveals experiential understandings beyond linguistic thought and stands aside from the view that behaviour and intelligence can be understood by deterministic principles This volume of essays should be read with stereoscopic vision one lens focusing on the rich ethnographic material of folk societies the other focusing on the wider awareness of how we come to know what we know It features specialists in philosophy ethnology and comparative sociology comparative religion cross cultural psychology physical anthropology environmental and marine scientists Indian affairs anthropology comparative literature shamanism and theoretical biology These contributors explore issues including individuality in relational cultures Maori epistemology shamanistic knowledge and cosmology and images of conduct character and personhood in the Native American tradition
