Education And The Politics Of Difference Canadian Perspectives:

Education and the Politics of Difference Ratna Ghosh, Ali A. Abdi, 2013 Despite decades of multicultural education policies cultural minorities and the peoples of the First Nations continue to be marginalized in Canadian schools In Education and the Politics of Difference authors Ratna Ghosh and Ali A Abdi expose the problematic constructions of difference in schooling contexts where differences are either treated as surface issues that do not affect the lives of learners or superficially celebrated in terms that do not question power relations in schools and society This revised and expanded second edition engages the broad theories of multicultural and inclusive education and provides case studies of Canadian multicultural education policies such as the unique situation of Aboriginal education With this discussion of how differences of race class gender sexuality and other differences are viewed particularly in a post 9 11 world this book extends the possibilities of a more open minded global understanding and appreciation of difference The book closes with a discussion of the future of multicultural and inclusive education envisioning a school system where difference is normalized and seen as a fundamental human trait essential for social and human well being

Education and the Politics of Difference Ratna Ghosh, Ali A. Abdi, 2004 This book tackles the role education can play in dealing productively and peacefully with the challenges of the localization as well as the globalization of difference The authors focus on how the politics of difference influences and is influenced by educational programs and provisions in Canada and possibly elsewhere in the world They also discuss how different theories of knowledge define and represent new and established notions and practices of schooling and social development Important factors such as social class race and gender are explored in the authors investigation of the politics of difference in spaces of public schooling Ghosh and Abdi contend that despite the rhetoric of official multiculturalism and multicultural education the realities on the ground still depict a Canadian public space in which cultural minorities and the peoples of First Nations continue to be relatively speaking marginalized The authors conclude that with the continuities of the Euro centred focus these policies and their possible praxes have not hitherto achieved the desired goals of true multiculturalism

Race and Education Primer Aaron David Gresson, 2008 The Race and Education Primer introduces its topic as perspective policy and pedagogy It provides a thematic introduction to the guiding beliefs and major practices in the field with a special emphasis on critical recurring themes These include race and intelligence the education gap teacher education and cultural competence Approaching race and education in global context the primer covers topics of interest to both novice and advanced students A glossary and suggested readings and resources add to the volume s value for students new to the field

Religion in Multicultural Education Farideh Salili, Rumjahn Hoosain, 2006-05-01 The National Association for Multicultural Education in Washington D C listed a number of issues that the school curriculum should address with reference to multicultural education including racism sexism classism linguisticism ablism ageism heterosexism and religious intolerance It is noteworthy that of all these issues religion is about the only one that throughout history people are willing to die for although whether what is at issue is really religion or other things such as territory is another matter It is also interesting that all the others have isms in their names but religious issues are characterized by intolerance Perhaps we should try to understand this intolerance and look at what steps might help to alleviate it However while intolerance might seem a simple thing understanding what is behind it and how it plays such a crucial role in religion requires what we refer to in the Introduction chapter as a multifaceted approach at multiple levels It is not enough just to try to dispel stereotypes of followers of other religions or to point out commonalities in world religions We should for example try to understand and appreciate how adherents of other religions try to answer questions regarding their adaptation to the contemporary environment It is through understanding how different religions coexist side by side at various levels that we truly come to learn about religion in multicultural education

Troubling Multiculturalism Hans Skott-Myhre, J.N. Little, 2015-09-25 It can be easy to imagine that Child and Youth Care practitioners are inherently or naturally attuned to issues of diversity and colonization as they pertain to multicultural practice While there are excellent culturally attuned practices that are happening in the field of Child and Youth Care when it comes to collecting stories of cultural diversity and more specifically the problematic unfolding of some of these stories there remains hesitancy in the field This hesitancy in part is due to assuming we are practicing in postcolonial times where all the messiness the doubting and the pain have been dealt with The authors of this volume suggest otherwise and their chapters represent an important contribution to the field They are a diverse group of practitioners but they share a common concern that the term multicultural practice grooms hegemonic interventions that do not critically examine issues of power difference colonialism Whiteness or species to name a few Although the title of this issue is Troubling Multiculturalism the language within this issue stretches this term troubles it and at times re invents it This book was originally published as a special issue of Child and Youth Services

Racisms in a Multicultural Canada Augie Fleras,2014-04-29 In acknowledging the possibility that as the world changes so too does racism this book argues that racism is not disappearing despite claims of living in a post racial and multicultural world To the contrary racisms persist by transforming into different forms whose intent or effects remain the same to deny and disallow as well as to exclude and exploit Racisms in a Multicultural Canada is organized around the assumption that race is not simply a set of categories and that racism is not just a collection of individuals with bad attitudes Rather racism is as much a matter of interests as of attitudes of property as of prejudice of structural advantage as of personal failing of whiteness as of the other of discourse as of discrimination and of unequal power relations as of bigotry This multi dimensionality of racism complicates the challenge of formulating anti racism and anti colonialist strategies capable of addressing it Employing a critical framework that puts politics and power at the centre of analysis this book focuses on why racisms proliferate how they work in contemporary societies and how the way we think and talk about racism changes over time Specifically it examines the working of contemporary racisms in a multicultural Canada that claims to abide by principles of multiculturalism and a commitment to a post racial society

Resisting the

Dehumanization of Refugees Yasmeen Abu-Laban, Michael Frishkopf, Reza Hasmath, Anna Kirova, 2024-05-28 Refugees face distinct challenges and are often subject to dehumanization by politicians, media, and the public. In this context, Resisting the Dehumanization of Refugees provides urgent insights and policy-relevant perspectives to improve refugees' social well-being and integration. Taking a transdisciplinary approach, scholars from the social sciences, arts, and humanities, alongside practitioners and refugees, explore what it means to experience dehumanization. They consider how refugees' experiences of dehumanization inform both epistemological and practical approaches to humanizing or re-humanizing refugees before, during, and after resettlement. By addressing these important issues, contributors marshal rich and multidimensional responses that draw upon our shared humanity and reveal new possibilities for change. Civic Education and Liberal Democracy Peter Strandbrink, 2017-07-10 This book explores the inherent tension in civic education. There is a surging belief in contemporary European society that liberal democracy should work harder to reproduce the civic and normative setups of national populations through public education. The cardinal notion is that education remains the best means to accomplish this end, and educational regimes appropriate tools to make the young more tolerant, civic, democratic, communal, cosmopolitan, and prone to engaged activism. This book is concerned with the ambiguities that strain standard visions of civic education and educational statehood. On the one hand, civic normative education is expected to drive tolerance in the face of conflicting good life affirmations and accelerating worldview pluralisation; on the other hand, nation states are primarily interested in reproducing the normative prerogatives that prevail in restricted cultural environments. This means that civic education unfolds on two irreconcilable planes: at once one cosmopolitan, tolerant; another parochial, intolerant. The book will be of significant interest to students and scholars of education, sociology, normative statehood, democracy, and liberal political culture, particularly those working in the areas of civic education as well as education policy makers.
