Educational Research For Social Justice:

Educational Research for Social Justice Morwenna Griffiths,1998 Aimed at researchers in educational settings this book addresses fundamental questions and provides a set of principles for doing educational research for social justice It covers all stages from getting started to dissemination of results Educational Research For Social Justice Morwenna Griffiths,1998-11-16 This is a book for all researchers in educational settings whose research is motivated by considerations of justice fairness and equity It addresses questions such researchers have to face Will a prior political or ethical commitment bias the research How far can the ideas of empowerment or giving a voice be realised How can researchers who research communities to which they belong deal with the ethical issues of being both insider and outsider The book provides a set of principles for doing educational research for social justice These are rooted in considerations of methodology epistemology and power relations and provide a framework for dealing with the practical issues of collaboration ethics bias empowerment voice uncertain knowledge and reflexivity at all stages of research from getting started to dissemination and taking responsibility as members of the wider community of educational researchers Theoretical arguments and the realities of practical research are brought together and interwoven Thus the book will be helpful to all researchers whether they are just beginning their first project or whether they are already highly experienced It will be of great value to research students in designing and writing up their theses and dissertations Educational Research for Social Justice Alistair Ross,2021-06-22 This book presents a series of analyses of educational policies largely in the UK but some also in Europe researched by a team of social scientists who share a commitment to social justice and equity in education We explore what social justice means in educational policy and practice and how it impacts on our understanding of both educational science and the public good Using a social constructivist approach the book argues that social justice requires a particular and critical analysis of the meaning of meritocracy and of the way this term turns educational policies towards treating learning as a competition in which many young people are constructed as losers We discuss how many terms in education are essentialised and have specific and different meanings for particular social groups and how this may create issues in both quantitative survey methods and in determining what is the public good We discuss social justice across a range of intersecting social characteristics including social class ethnicity and gender as they are applied across the educational policy spectrum from early years to postgraduate education We examine the ways that young people construct their identities and the implications of this for understanding the public good in educational practice We consider the responsibilities of educational researchers to acknowledge these issues and offer examples of researching with such a commitment We conclude by considering how educational policy might contribute to a socially just equitable and inclusive public good Educational Research: Ethics, Social Justice, and Funding Dynamics Paul Smeyers,Marc Depaepe,2018-03-22 This book examines the conduct and purposes of educational research It looks at values of researchers at whose interests are served by the research and the inclusion or exclusion of practitioners and subjects of research It asks if educational research should be explicitly committed to promoting equality and inclusion and whether that requires research to be more aware of the cultural and global contexts of research questions It explores the ethical challenges encountered in the conduct of research and the potential ethical and social justice constraints imposed by comparative research rankings Next it discusses the research funding aspects of the above issues both philosophically and historically thus examining the changing sources patterns and effects of educational research funding over time Since the conduct of most educational research increasingly requires institutional and financial support the question is whether funding shapes the content of research and what counts as research The book discusses if funding is a factor in the shift of efforts of researchers from pure or basic research to more applied research and if it encourages the development of large research teams to the detriment of individual scholars It looks at the ownership of the content results and data of publicly funded research Finally it tries to establish whether scholars solicit funding to support research projects or generate research projects to attract funding This publication as well as the ones that are mentioned in the preliminary pages of this work were realized by the Research Community Philosophy and History of the Discipline of Education Purposes Projects and Practices of Educational Research Oral History and Qualitative Methodologies

Thalia M. Mulvihill, Raji Swaminathan, 2022-02-24 Oral History and Qualitative Methodologies Educational Research for Social Justice examines oral history methodological processes involved in the doing of oral history as well as the theoretical historical and knowledge implications of using oral history for social justice projects Oral history in qualitative research is an umbrella term that integrates history life history and testimony accounts Oral history draws from various social science disciplines including educational studies history indigenous studies sociology anthropology ethnic studies women s studies and youth studies The book argues for the further development of a pedagogical culture related to oral history for educational research as part of the effort to diversify the range of human experiences educators community members and policy makers incorporate into knowledge making and knowledge using processes Early career researchers novice researchers as well as experienced researchers are invited to join social science educational researchers in developing their own oral history projects using all of the tools dispositions and epistemologies affiliated with qualitative inquiry The book will be of use in courses on qualitative research methods history anthropology women s studies and education disciplines as well as by community organizations who want to use oral history to preserve the history of communities and advance social justice projects Praxis Makes Perfect Iram Siraj-Blatchford, 1994 An examination of educational research aimed at those critical post graduate research students and researchers who have completed research methods courses but who have yet to take on the challenge and responsibility of justifying their knowledge claims rigorously A significant contribution to the scant literature available on research methods and their implications for social justice Research Methods for Social Justice and Equity in Education Kamden K. Strunk, Leslie Ann Locke, 2019-02-26 This textbook presents an integrative approach to thinking about research methods for social justice In today s education landscape there is a growing interest in scholar activism and ways of doing research that advances educational equity This text provides a foundational overview of important theoretical and philosophical issues specific to this kind of work in Section I In Section II readers engage with various ways of thinking about collecting and analyzing data including qualitative quantitative and mixed methods approaches Finally in Section III through case studies and research narratives readers will learn about real scholars and their work This book takes a wide ranging approach to ways that various modalities and practices of research can contribute to an equity mission

Research Methods for Social Justice and Equity in Education Liz Atkins,Vicky Duckworth,2019-02-21 Research Methods for Social Justice and Equity in Education offers researchers a full understanding of very important concepts showing how they can be used a means to develop practical strategies for undertaking research that makes a difference to the lives of marginalised and disadvantaged learners It explores different conceptualisations of social justice and equity and leads the reader through a discussion of what their implications are for undertaking educational research that is both moral and ethical and how it can be enacted in the context of their chosen research method and a variety of others both well known and more innovative The authors draw on real practical examples from a range of educational contexts including early childhood special and inclusive education and adult education and cultures located in both western and developing nations in order to exemplify how researchers can use methods which contribute to the creation of more equitable education systems In this way the authors provide a global perspective of the contrasting and creative ways in which researchers reflect on and integrate principles of social justice in their methods and their methodological decision making It encourages the reader to think critically about their own research by asking key questions such as what contribution can research for equity and social justice make to new and emerging methods and methodologies And how can researchers implement socially just research methods from a position of power This book concludes by proposing a range of methods and methodologies which researchers can use to challenge inequality and work towards social justice offering a springboard from which they can further their own studies

Teaching for Resistance Barbara L. Brougham,1994 Locating Social Justice in Higher Education Research Jan McArthur,Paul Ashwin,2020-03-19 This book focuses on the relations between social justice and higher education research Jan McArthur and Paul Ashwin bring together chapters from international researchers that explore these relations in a range of national contexts and consider their implications for policies pedagogy and our understanding of the roles of graduates in societies As a whole the book argues that social justice needs to be more than a topic of higher education research and must also be part of the way that research is undertaken Social justice must be located in research practices as well as in the issues that are researched

Leadership for Social Justice Catherine Marshall,Maricela Oliva,2006 This reader on key issues in Social Justice is written by well known experts in the area and edited by the leading authorities in the field The book is divided into 3 distinct parts Re defining Leadership for Social Justice

Preparing Social Justice Leaders and Next Steps to mobilize to action as well as to make information accessible and useful This book challenges leaders educators and researchers to be effective advocates for social justice It demonstrates how the current realities in educational leadership training and in school practices re create inequities It provides an array of ways of understanding the effects of exclusionary practices as well as constructive exercises and materials for those who will lead students and staffs to create equitable practices

Special Educational Needs and Inclusive Education: Inclusive education David R. Mitchell, 2004 Demonstrates how the fields of special education and inclusive education have evolved philosophically and technically over the past 30 years Educational Leadership for Ethics and Social Justice Anthony H. Normore, Jeffrey S. Brooks, 2014-01-01 The purpose of this book is to examine and learn lessons from the way leadership for social justice is conceptualized in several disciplines and to consider how these lessons might improve the preparation and practice of school leaders In particular we examine philosophy anthropology sociology economics political science public policy and psychology Our contention is that the field of educational leadership might consider taking a step backward in order to take several forward That is educational leadership researchers might re-examine social justice both in terms of social and individual dynamics and as disciplinary specific multidisciplinary and interdisciplinary phenomenon By adopting this approach we can connect and extend long established lines of conceptual and empirical inquiry and thereby gain insights that may otherwise be overlooked or assumed This holds great promise for generating refining and testing theories of social justice in educational leadership and will help strengthen already vibrant lines of inquiry That is rather than citing a single or a few works out of their disciplinary context it might be more fruitful to situate educational leadership for social justice research in their respective traditions This could be carried out by extending extant lines of inquiry in educational leadership research and then incorporating lessons gleaned from this work into innovative practice For example why not more clearly establish lines of educational leadership and justice research into the Philosophy of Social Justice Economics of Social Justice Political Studies of Social Justice Sociology of Social Justice Anthropology of Social Justice and the Public Policy of Social Justice as focused and discrete areas of inquiry Once this new orientation toward the knowledge base of social justice and educational leadership is laid we might then seek to explore some of the natural connections between traditions before ultimately investigating justice in educational leadership through a free association of ideas as the worlds of practice and research co-construct a new language they can use to discuss educational leadership Such an endeavor may demand reconceptualization of both the processes and products of collaborative research and the communication of findings but it will demand a breaking down of methodological and epistemological biases and a more meaningful level and type of engagement between primary and applied knowledge bases

Preparing and Sustaining Social Justice Educators Annamarie Francois, Karen Hunter Quartz, 2022-10-18 Preparing and Sustaining Social Justice Educators spotlights the challenging and necessary work of fostering social justice in schools Integral to this work are the teachers and school leaders who enact the principles of social justice racial equity cultural inclusivity and identity acceptance daily in their classrooms This volume makes the case that high quality public education relies on the recruitment professional development and retention of educators ready to navigate complex systemic and structural inequities to best serve vulnerable student populations Annamarie Francois and Karen Hunter Quartz along with contributing scholars and practitioners present an intersectional approach to educational justice. The approach is grounded in research about deeper learning, community development, and school reform. Throughout the book, the contributors detail professional activities proven to sustain social justice educators. They show, for example, how effective teacher coaching encourages educators to confront their explicit and implicit biases, to engage in critical conversations and self-reflection, and to assess teacher performance through a social justice lens. The book illustrates how professional learning collaborations promote diverse, antiracist, and socially responsible learning communities. Case studies at three university-partnered K-12 schools in Los Angeles demonstrate the benefits of these professional alliances and practices. Francois and Quartz acknowledge the difficulty of the social justice educator's task, a challenge heightened by a K-12 teacher shortage, an undersupplied teacher pipeline, and school closures. Yet they keep their sights set on a just and equitable future, and in this work, they give educators the tools to build such a future. Social Justice and International Education LaNitra M.

Berger, 2020. Social Justice and International Education: Research Practice and Perspectives brings together a group of educators, scholars, and practitioners in the field of international education who are doing important and innovative work promoting social justice, confronting inequality, and fostering social responsibility in a global context. The book does not operate on a singular definition of social justice; rather, the authors describe their own working definition and how it has guided their international education work. Divided into three parts, the book explores social justice research, social justice in practice, and different perspectives from practitioners across the field. Education Research in the Public Interest

Gloria Ladson-Billings, William F. Tate, 2014-04-15. Acclaimed African American scholar and teacher educator Gloria Ladson-Billings examines the field of teacher education through the accomplishments and contributions of well-known African American teacher educators: Lisa Delpit, Carl Grant, Jacqueline Jordan Irvine, Geneva Gay, Cherry McGee Banks, William Tate, and Joyce King. Using in-depth interviews and storytelling, Ladson-Billings depicts deeply personal portraits of these scholars' experiences to confront race and racism, not only theoretically but within their everyday professional lives in the "Big House" of the academy. Ladson-Billings gives these portraits even greater resonance and meaning by pairing these teacher educators with historical figures such as Harriet Tubman, Nat Turner, and Charlotte Forten, whose contributions to the struggle for social justice are a wellspring of hope and courage to all educators and a tribute to African Americans whose political, scientific, and spiritual efforts made life better for us all. This compelling book is important reading for all educators who want to transform teacher education for the better. The American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education is enthused and excited about Ladson-Billings's dynamic and provoking scholarship. Its focus on outstanding African American teacher educators is a major contribution to teacher education literature. This cutting-edge research is likely to prompt some of the best of unconventional teacher education thought. David G. Imig, President and CEO, American Association of Colleges for Teacher Education. In this moving and original book, Gloria Ladson-Billings offers complex insights about the politics of scholarship the experiences of scholars of color in universities and the larger enterprise of teaching and teacher education for social justice Marilyn Cochran Smith Lynch School of Education Boston College and President of the American Educational Research Association AERA for 2004 05 Education Quality and Social Justice in the Global South Leon Tikly, Angeline M. Barrett, 2013-06-07 Drawing on state of the art evidence about implementing education quality in low income countries this book opens up the black box of the classroom and explores how practices of teaching and learning impact on different groups of learners in the global South Education, Social Justice and the Legacy of Deakin University Richard Tinning, Karen Sirna, 2012-01-01 The late Joe Kincheloe once wrote that the amazing Deakin Mafia provided innovative and unprecedented critical scholarship on education for a few short years Informed by various theoretical perspectives eg critical theory neo Marxist poststructuralist postcolonial feminist critical literacy Bourdieuan Foucauldian key Deakin University scholars pursued their commitments to social justice through education A certain criticality characterised their work Individually and collectively they created a national and international reputation for critical scholarship in education Since that time the 1980s and 90s however most of the Deakin mafia have moved to senior academic posts elsewhere in Australia and internationally and their influence in educational research and discourse now continues as members of the Deakin diaspora This collection is an account of the stories of many of these scholars It will provide valuable reading for any scholar of education who is particularly interested in critical pedagogy and the critical project in education more generally It also provides insights into what makes a faculty of education successful at a particular point in time
